Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, German pilot, and his crew of three arrived in Chicago last night after a hop trip from Germany across the North Atlantic by way of Iceland and Greenland. As the captain put it with his broad smile: "We are very glad for people and it is very good to hear conversation."

In their strange looking twin motored Dornier sea plane, the Gronland Flug, resembling an awkward whale, Capt. Von Gronau and his crew—the same one which he brought to Chicago from Germany by way of New York a year ago—landed at the 8th street ramp on the lake front at 6:10 o'clock. They had left Long Lake, Ont., an Ontario government forestry base, five hours and fifty minutes before their arrival in Chicago.

Circles Over Grant Park.

The plane circled a few times over Grant park as a crowd watched from the ramp and from automobiles parked nearby. Then it descended rather clumsily and landed opposite the ramp. After greeting the crowd on the ramp the fliers climbed into their boat again and were towed by Capt. John O. Anderson and his coast guard launch to the Central coast guard station, near which they anchored the Dornier Wal. It was to be guarded by a boat circling around it throughout the night.

Coming to shore, the fliers were taken to the Bismarck hotel, which will be their headquarters while they are in Chicago. There Capt. Von Gronau gave an interview on his flight.

Seeks Air Mail Route.

"The purpose of the flight was to observe weather conditions and to see if it was possible to establish an air mail route between America and Europe by way of the north," he said.

"It is possible," he went on, "but it would take a lot of money. It all depends on how much can be spent. There is always fog and always westerly winds. Our engines take too much oil. Also refueling depots and repair shops would have to be established at intervals over the country.

"But it is too early for me to say whether it will be done."

Second to Fly Ice Cap.

Capt. Von Gronau was the second man to fly directly across the dreaded ice cap of Greenland. Parker (Shorty) Cramer was the first. He was later lost crossing the Atlantic.

"I met Cramer when I was landing in the Faroe islands," said Capt. Von Gronau. "He was taking off as I was landing, and we waved to each other."

Capt. von Gronau's weather chart-ing expedition began Aug. 8, when the Dornier Wal left Westerland, Germany. It reached Reykjavik, the capital city of Iceland, the next day.

"We had had a big storm to fight at the beginning of our flight," Capt. Von Gronau related. "When we landed at Reykjavik it was foggy and misty and we could see nothing. As the only purpose of our flight was to fly, we waited three days, then went north in the only harbor on the east coast of Greenland, Scoresby sound. There we had fine weather—and lots and lots of ice.

Nothing to See but Ice.

"From Scoresby sound we flew directly across the inland ice of Greenland, which is 9,000 feet high. The weather was sunny at first. We had an excellent opportunity to see then, but we could see nothing but ice. Not a living creature—nothing.

"Then fogs and heavy clouds made our flying more difficult. We landed at Mestertoppen, West Greenland, and then went up and down the west coast, surveying the country. There was nothing but ice and solitude. It was very, very lonely country.

"The Gronland Wal went from Sufkippen to Ivigtut, Greenland, and from there to Godthaab.

Held Up by Engine Trouble.

"We had engine troubles at Godthaab, and had to stop for a week for repairs," Capt. von Gronau said. "It was quite a job to dismantle the engines while lying in a harbor," the captain said. "But our mechanic [Hans Hack] is very clever, and with only the instruments we had with us he assembled the engines.

"But they will not last for a trip back. And I fear there is not time to get new ones. So we probably will not fly back to Germany."

Powers Dupes Women in 5 States

LETTERS REVEAL SLAYER USED MANY ALIASES

Caught One Victim at Hammond.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The picture stretched over seven years and showed Powers as a man of many aliases and residences, a relentless mail order pursuer of women, a portly Romeo whose bag of tricks consisted of a stack of picture postcards of himself and a few threadbare love phrases culled from cheap novels.

But he got results. Under the various names of Gildaw, Powers, and Pierson, in the towns of Miller, S. D.; Vandalia, Ill.; Cambridge, O.; Mansfield, O.; Crestline, O.; Connellsville, Pa., and finally in Clarksburg, endearing letters, affectionately inscribed photographs, poured in to him from scores of women from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Their Fates Not Known.

How many of these Powers met, how many he victimized, how many he might have murdered, are questions to which the police are seeking the answer. Only once, as far as they can learn, was Powers in trouble. That was in 1925. Chicago records reaching here today showed that he spent the summer of 1925 in the Cook county jail awaiting trial on charges of defrauding a Hammond, Ind., woman.

Pretending an elopement, he took her to Chicago Heights, where he ran away, taking her jewelry, money, and automobile. When brought to trial he was acquitted.

The correspondence found today shows Powers operating as a love racketeer back in 1924 in Miller, S. D. Then his name was Joseph Gildaw.

Included in the papers found were several postcard pictures of him on the back of which he had written:

"This is not a good picture. I did not have time to dress in good clothes, but it will give you some idea.

"JOE GILDAW."

His Stock in Trade.

Quite evidently these pictures were part of a large number which he sent out to the women whose names he obtained from matrimonial agencies or who replied to his matrimonial advertisements. Powers had a hundred similar pictures taken recently for the same purpose.

Most of the pictures of women found in this trunk bore inscriptions on the back, but in only a few cases were names given.

One picture, of an attractive young woman, was subscribed on the back:

"From Genevieve Pochinsky to Joe Gildaw, 623 Spring street, Latrobe." This was believed to be Latrobe, Pa.

A postcard addressed to Gildaw at Miller, sent from Pittsburgh on Aug. 24, carried the message:

"What's wrong? I have not heard from you for such a long time. M. E., Crafton, Pa."

Two other postcards, dated at Pittsburgh in August, 1924, were from "Audie," and show pictures of a hospital and a hotel in Pittsburgh.

His Range Was Wide.

Other pictures and letters were found signed by women in Norfolk, Va., San Diego, Cal., Iron Mountain, Mich., Columbia, S. C., San Antonio, Tex., Dallas, Tex., Uniontown, Pa., and Little Rock, Ark.

One postcard sent to Gildaw at Post Office Box 13 in Miller, S. D., was forwarded by the postoffice authorities there to Cambridge, O., and from there was reforwarded to Connellsville, Pa., where it was delivered to him.

To date it has been shown that Powers operated, first under the name

AIRPLANE BRINGS ANTHRAX SERUM FOR POLICEMAN

A fast plane from Detroit landed at the municipal airport last night just after midnight with a supply of antitoxin for a Chicago policeman who is critically ill of anthrax. A police squad car was waiting at the airport, and it raced across the city with the antitoxin, which was delivered to the Rogers Park hospital. Policemen at the Rogers Park station had passed the hat and raised $150 to charter the plane to bring the remedy.

POLICEMAN W. R. MURPHY.

William R. Murphy, 36 years old, of 5329 Lincoln avenue, a patrolman, is the stricken man. His illness was diagnosed by Dr. Emanuel J. Wexler, 5732 Milwaukee avenue. Murphy, who recently returned from a motor vacation, was taken ill on Friday and removed to the hospital on Sunday. The doctor attributed the attack of the rare disease, which originates in cattle or sheep, to the use of an infected shaving brush.

The local supply of anti-toxin was used up by the doctor, and a fresh supply was ordered from Detroit. The plane left there after 9 o'clock last night. Sergt. Thomas Leddy and Dr. David Illyes, interne at the hospital, awaited its arrival with the squad car.

Murphy is suffering from the external type of anthrax. The health department said yesterday that his case was the first in the city in five years.

Seize Red Haired Woman's Gang as Bandit Suspects

A gang of four, headed by a red haired woman and suspected of a score of holdups of doctors' offices and drug stores, was in the custody of the state's attorney's police early this morning after their latest robbery attempt had been frustrated. The prisoners are Adelia Le Mire, 28 years old, the red haired leader; Charles Kousis, Paul Adamapoulis, and Frank Gordan. Kousis and Adamapoulis were arrested first in the gang headquarters at 307 South Paulina street. After questioning them the police hastened to the office of Dr. A. B. Rotche at 1657 Madison street, where they found Miss Le Mire and Gordan. The woman had a pistol.

The home of Dr. Frank L. Nathanson at 3216 Lake Park avenue was bombed early today. Dr. Nathanson, his 17 year old daughter, Charlotte, a chauffeur, Andrew Jacobi, and the chauffeur's wife, Elizabeth, were in the house when the explosion occurred, but none was injured.

The bomb knocked down the front door, ripped out part of the flooring in the entrance hall, and shattered a number of windows. The neighborhood for a radius of several blocks was aroused by the explosion and windows in nearby buildings were broken. The damage was estimated at $500.

Doctor Suggests Motives.

Dr. Nathanson said he had had no trouble with any one recently and could give only two possible motives for the attack. He has employed a nonunion decorator recently to do some work in his home, he said, and he has had repeated calls to perform illegal operations within the last few months. These requests, he explained, had always been turned down.

The physician shot two men to death in his office at 3546 West Madison street in July, 1927. He said the men had attempted to hold him up and his story was substantiated by several witnesses. The police identified the two victims as Gilbert Farris and Carl Kuessner, professional holdup men. Dr. Nathanson was released after an investigation.

Charges Kidnaping Plot.

In June, 1930, Dr. Nathanson figured as the victim in an alleged kidnaping case. He accused Mrs. Carmalla Lupresto, a widow, owner of a grocery at 4403 West Harrison street, of having engineered a plot in which he was abducted by the woman and two men.

The widow in turn accused the doctor of having performed an illegal operation on her daughter, Anna, a girl of 16 at that time. Finally the doctor dropped the charge of kidnaping and the woman and her alleged accomplices dropped the operation charge.

Dr. Nathanson's wife was killed in an automobile accident in Berwyn on Jan. 24, 1928.

Twins Sit Side by Side and Take Own Lives

Amery, Wis., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Elmer and Amil Peterson, twin brothers, 32 years old, today committed suicide by shooting while sitting side by side on the farm of their father, C. H. Peterson, who said both had been drinking heavily recently. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide.

LAWRENCE STERN HOME ROBBED OF $100,000 IN GEMS

The police and officials of Glencoe last night were working to solve a mysterious jewel robbery at the residence of Lawrence Stern, wealthy president of the investment house bearing his name at 231 South La Salle street. Although the value of the jewelry stolen was not officially given, it was believed to be in the neighborhood of $100,000. The loot included a costly matched necklace, four bracelets and a large diamond ring, according to the investigators.

The Stern estate is at 931 Sheridan road, Glencoe. The robbery is believed to have occurred on Monday afternoon while Mr. Stern was at his offices in La Salle street and Mrs. Stern was playing golf with friends.

Wilma Harjes, 27 years old, a maid, reported that she had entered Mrs. Stern's bedroom to get some sewing materials and had found a jewel drawer opened and looted. Investigation disclosed that the lock had not been broken and it was believed from this circumstance that the burglar was equipped with a key to the drawer.

Miss Harjes and the other servants were closely questioned by Lieut. William Helke of the Glencoe police and James A. Williams, assistant city manager, but no one was in custody last night, according to the police.

BOMB IN HAVANA WRECKS CANADA BRANCH BANK

HAVANA, Sept. 1.—A large bomb which exploded at 2:30 o'clock this morning at the branch of the Royal Bank of Canada in the Vedado suburb of this city almost wrecked the one story bank building and caused great alarm in the surrounding residential district.

The explosion destroyed the massive mahogany doors, tore away masonry work in the front, and blew large holes in the ceiling at the entrance. Fixtures, furniture, and electrical installation were torn and twisted, resulting in several thousand dollars' damage.

The authorities are redoubling their efforts to apprehend the bomb throwers, who have been carrying on a campaign of terror since the beginning of the recent revolutionary movement.

Woman, Slayer of Son, Dies of Her Leap Injuries

Mrs. Helen Lynch, 25 years old, of Milwaukee, who killed her 4 year old child, Joseph Jr., by chloroforming him on Sunday night and then leaped from her room in the Clayton hotel, 2026 North Clark street, died of her injuries last night in the county hospital. Questioned by police at the Augustana hospital, where she was first taken, Mrs. Lynch maintained she was despondent because she had been unable to find work.

Legion Votes for Dry Law Referendum

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Delegates to the Illinois state American Legion convention adopted a resolution late today proposing that the prohibition question be put to a national referendum "as soon as possible."

Sponsors of the resolution said it will be introduced at the national Legion convention to be held in Detroit Sept. 21-24. The vote on the resolution, after three hours of stormy debate, was 800 to 362.

An amendment to the resolution proposing that the Legion recommend repeal of the 18th amendment was defeated by 724 to 446. It was introduced by Patrick O'Reilly of Chicago.

The vote on the resolution came after Hanford MacNider, minister to Canada and former national Legion commander, had urged the legionnaires to "keep clear of all political affairs." He defended the Legion's convention celebrations and said that "many organizations which criticize the Legion have nothing to celebrate about themselves."

Savage for Repeal.

Howard P. Savage of Chicago, past national Legion commander, spoke in favor of the repeal amendment, declaring that modification of the prohibition laws would benefit agricultural and employment conditions. Both Savage and Scott Lucas of Havana, Ill., candidate for the Democratic nomination as United States senator, said that the Legion should take a definite stand on prohibition.

The Rev. David J. Thornton of Robinson, retiring chaplain, said that the question should be submitted to the nation in a referendum, but he was opposed to passage of the repeal amendment. Other legionnaires insisted that the Legion should not identify itself with the question in any way.

It was the first time that resolutions pertaining to prohibition ever were put to a vote at an Illinois Legion convention.

Elliott Named Commander.

The convention was closed by the election of Ivan A. Elliott, Carmi, as state commander, succeeding Arthur J. Poorman, Chicago Heights. James P. Ringling, Chicago, was elected senior vice commander and the following five were named junior vice commanders:

Paul A. Armstrong, Chicago; George Sullivan, Woodstock; M. Cation, Peoria; John Novack, Carlinville; Harold J. Allison, East St. Louis.

The Rev. C. J. Higgins, Seneca, was elected department chaplain, and Edward Hayes, Decatur, was selected as national executive committeeman. Danville was chosen for the 1932 state convention.

HOLD EMPLOYE OF CONTINENTAL AS EMBEZZLER

A $1,500,000 embezzlement by a minor official of the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company was revealed yesterday by officers of the bank.

The Continental-Illinois, the largest bank in Chicago and the fourth largest in the nation, possessing resources above one billion 123 million dollars, will lose nothing by the defalcation, the officers said. The bank is fully protected by insurance.

The embezzler is Walter E. Wolf, a trusted employé of the bank for twenty years, a leader in Trinity Lutheran church of Oak Park, and until last Saturday manager of the coupon department of the bank. He is 42 years old and resides in a rented home at 303 Ashland avenue, River Forest.

Confesses Taking Securities.

Wolf, the bank officers said, has made a complete confession, admitting that for a number of years he had been purloining securities from the bank vaults and putting them up with brokers as margin for speculation in the stock and grain markets.

Since the hour he confessed his guilt Wolf has been in custody of private detectives at a downtown hotel and will be held by them until the investigation is completed. Thereafter it is expected that he will be turned over to the authorities for prosecution.

An inventory of the enormous store of securities to which Wolf had access, including $280,000,000 of the bank's own resources and other hundreds of millions in the trust department, was conducted throughout yesterday by the bank's entire auditing staff and continued last night. A late report from the bank was that $1,300,000 in securities had been found missing thus far.

Seek to Find Accomplices.

The bank directors are reported to be particularly desirous of determining whether Wolf had any accomplices outside the bank. The officers expressed themselves convinced of the truth of his own statement that he had no collusion within the institution.

Wolf named the brokerage houses with which he carried trading accounts, the officers said, adding that the list included several of the larger houses in the city. For the present and until the investigation is concluded, they said, the identities of these houses would be withheld.

Estimates as to the actual sum of the defalcations were at variance. From Lloyd's, the London insurance agents carrying the bank employe's bonds, came a report that the sum would reach $2,000,000. Reports in La Salle street placed the amount at about $1,500,000.

Await Result of Inventory.

The bank officers declared it would be impossible to estimate even the approximate loss with accuracy until the inventory has been completed. They said the defalcations were "substantial," but predicted that the London estimate would probably prove exaggerated.

As manager of the coupon department, Wolf had charge of fifty employés. It was his duty to supervise the bond service extended to the bank's customers and to handle new business coming to his department.

Wolf's scheme, according to the bank officers, was to abstract from the vaults the securities coming into his possession after properly giving the customer a receipt. He would also abstract the records relating to the purloined bond, thus concealing his theft.

How He Kept His Margins.

He would leave the securities with the brokers as margin until the time when, in the course of business, it would be necessary to account for the securities at the bank. He would then withdraw the particular securities from the broker, replace them in the vaults and to keep good his margins would substitute other securities similarly abstracted.

On this basis Wolf is reckoned to have been one of the heaviest plungers among the local speculators, since he had securities estimated at more than $1,000,000 out on margin when discovered.

A dispatch from London last night quoted an official of Lloyd's as saying that the bank had already paid a claim and that the underwriters would be obliged to pay in full, since the guarantee policy, as issued, was of the retrospective type covering all losses incurred prior to discovery of the defalcation.

"Millions of pounds have been paid in the past to United States banks," the Lloyd's official was quoted as saying, "but the Chicago claim is the largest of its kind on record."

The fact that most of the securities were used as margins should enable the underwriters to get a substantial salvage, according to the bank officers. Lloyd's, they pointed out, will be able to establish title to the stocks Wolf held and convert them into cash to reimburse themselves.

Broker Becomes Suspicious.

Discovery of the defalcations was brought about by one of the brokers Wolf had patronized. The broker became suspicious of the quantity and variety of gilt edged securities Wolf had been putting up for margins. He made secret inquiries and discovered that his customer was a bank employé.

About a week ago, according to reports, the broker carried his suspicions to a vice president of the bank. At the time Wolf was in the midst of a two weeks' vacation with his family at a cottage on the Fox river near Aurora.

The vice president immediately ordered an audit of the absent manager's books. The audit disclosed nothing irregular. The vice president decided to go deeper into the records.

He procured a list of the securities Wolf had put up with the broker. The list was compared with the records of the bank's own securities. The securities on margin with the broker were found to be of identical description with a number of securities unaccounted for at the bank.

Wolf Makes Confession.

Still the vice president was not wholly convinced of Wolf's guilt. It remained for the manager himself to disclose the extent of his defalcations. Some one in the bank, it was said, informed him privately that his books were under scrutiny.

The information sufficed to break Wolf's nerve. He hurried home to River Forest, conferred with his brother, Henry W. Wolf, secretary-treasurer of a loop fur company, and sent word through his brother that he wished to have the vice president call at his home.

The executive officer, who had known Wolf's family for many years, paid the embezzler a visit on Monday, it is reported. Without any preliminary parley Wolf began confessing and, in the opinion of the vice president, told all.

Thefts Began 10 Years Ago.

Wolf is reported to have admitted beginning his thefts ten years ago, continuing his speculations without impairing the bank's resources until the market crash of 1929. Thereafter, with his profits wiped out, he extended his thefts among the securities until the suspicious broker tripped him up.

In River Forest, where he has resided six years, Wolf has been regarded by his neighbors as a model citizen. He has a wife and a 13 year old daughter, Marjorie. His pleasures were gardening and an occasional game of bridge.

Wolf never used intoxicants, so far as his neighbors know, and had no taste for night clubs. At his daughter's confirmation in the Trinity church last June he acted as usher.

Wolf began his banking career as an office boy with the old Illinois Trust and Savings bank, and he has continued with the institution through two mergers.

NELSON WILLING TO TESTIFY; WILL NOT SIGN WAIVER

Clashes with Prosecutor on Waukegan Bank.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson will appear voluntarily before the Lake county grand jury today, but whether he will testify regarding the affairs of the defunct Waukegan State bank depends on a change of attitude by him or by State's Attorney A. V. Smith. The state auditor said he would be glad to appear before the jury in his official capacity, but did not see why he should be asked to sign an immunity waiver. On the other hand, the prosecutor declared that an immunity waiver would be required before the auditor would be allowed in the grand jury room.

A. V. SMITH.

Prosecutor Smith issued a statement saying that if Nelson did not appear voluntarily the prosecutor would send a sheriff to subpoena the auditor. However, Nelson had already signified his intention of appearing voluntarily to tell what he knows of the closing of the bank on June 17 with deposit liabilities of $1,224,000 and cash on hand of $38,000.

Jurors Told to Delay Statement.

A heated session was predicted by the court attachés in view of the verbal exchanges between the prosecutor and the state auditor. The jurors themselves took a hand in this exchange yesterday when they called in Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady, it is reported, to ask him if they could issue a statement regarding the attitude of Auditor Nelson.

The judge advised the jurors to let any statements wait until their final report to the court. The jurors then spent the day listening to reports of auditors showing that much public money was deposited in the bank. They ended the session with the reported voting of a true bill against Milton E. Smith, a real estate dealer and former vice president of the bank. The jurors on Monday voted true bills against Norman O. Geyer, president; Carl Stenger, chairman of the board, and John Murray Connors, vice president.

Smith, the evidence is reported to have shown, withdrew his checking account fund of $290 just before the bank closed, and after it closed ordered clerks to give him his wife's account of $500 and his father's account of $275. He is charged with conversion of the bank's funds. He carried no other account in the bank.

Prosecutor Assails Nelson.

In lieu of a statement from the jury Prosecutor Smith after the adjournment for the day issued a new blast at Auditor Nelson, saying that "an innocent man need not fear to sign an immunity waiver."

"I notice that Nelson said that I am a candidate for congress. I am not a candidate for any major office," the prosecutor said.

"Mr. Nelson is a public official whose duty it was and is to protect the public in matters of this kind. From the evidence already presented to the grand jury and from further information I cannot help but feel, to say the least, that Mr. Nelson has been extremely negligent. He certainly—obviously—is not a fit man to hold the important office of state auditor."

Nelson Makes Statement.

Auditor Nelson said "the auditor has nothing to hide in the Waukegan bank matter."

"I will be glad to go before the grand jury in my official capacity as state auditor of public accounts," he said.

"I do not think the supervising authorities should be asked to sign immunity waivers."

In reference to the connection between the National Bank of the Republic, which was the Waukegan bank's Chicago correspondent, Auditor Nelson said that the dealings between the banks were as individuals.

"I hold 66 shares of stock of the National Bank of the Republic, but that has nothing to do with this situation," he said. "The National Bank of the Republic had nothing to do with the Waukegan bank except as individuals. I have been a stockholder in the National Bank of the Republic for three or four years. We examined the Waukegan bank in September, 1930, and again in March of this year, and found nothing wrong at that time."

George Woodruff to Be Witness.

George Woodruff, former president of the National Bank of the Republic, which is now merged with the Central Trust company as the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, is another witness summoned for grand jury examination today. Eleven other officers of the former Republic bank were called for examination yesterday, but only one appeared. Attorney Sidney H. Block said the other officers were engaged elsewhere but would appear today and, as far as he was then advised, would sign immunity waivers.

Aaron Conlon, executive vice president of the Chicago Trust company, appeared to be questioned about $400,000 worth of securities which were held in escrow by his company to protect bonds given by the Waukegan bank for public funds. The other officials are to be questioned about a reorganization of the Waukegan bank last November and an effort by Chicagoans to sell stock they held in the bank to Waukegan residents.

The closed bank had on deposit some $725,000 of public funds, it was shown by an audit. William J. Stratton, secretary of state, owns five shares of stock in the bank and had $15,027 of state funds on deposits, an auditor reported. The state treasurer had $35,000, the county treasurer, $367,000, the city of Waukegan, $223,000, and the park board, $55,619, it was said.

Cook County Jury Action.

The Cook county grand jury yesterday revealed the names of the three officers previously named in true bills in connection with the Lake View State bank failure of Sept. 22, 1930. They are Edward McCabe, former president; William O. J. Hatstaedt, former vice president, and Daniel M. Rives, former cashier and director.

A petition was filed in the Superior court of Hammond, Ind., yesterday asking for the removal of A. Murray Turner and W. C. Belman, joint receivers for the defunct First Trust and Savings bank of Hammond. It is charged that their former connections with the bank disqualify them from acting as receivers. Turner, formerly was chairman of the board, and Belman, vice president.

Toledo Bank Scandal.

Toledo, O., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Scores of suits to recover between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 reported to have been drained from the Security-Home Trust company here the week before it closed were announced today by Gilbert Bettman, attorney general of Ohio.

The attorney general revealed that the state has been investigating for weeks reports that many large depositors withdrew their accounts the final week the bank was in operation.

SEIZE RECORDS OF CITY UNION IN GARBAGE STRIKE

Racket Bureau Acts After Plea from Sprague.

All books and records of the Sanitary Teamsters Chauffeurs and Helpers' union, which has been on strike against the city for a week, were seized yesterday by a squad under Sergt. Michael Ahern of the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office.

SERGT. AHERN.

The raid was made on the request of Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, who asked the state's attorney to seek evidence on which true bills might be sought against union officials. Commissioner Sprague charged that the union, with the majority of its members civil service employés, is endangering the health of citizens by the refusal to work unless granted a minimum of five days work each week.

Can't Find Financial Records.

An inspection of the books did not reveal any evidence of an incriminating nature, according to Assistant State's Attorney Edwin Duffey. The prosecutor reported, however, that a thorough search of union headquarters at 639 South Ashland boulevard failed to bring to light a cash book or any record of financial transactions. An old check book, with half the checks torn out, but with no notations as to the amount of each or to whom paid, was the only thing resembling a financial record found. A pencil notation on the back of a stub indicated that the treasury held only $1,465.50.

The minutes of meetings revealed the names of present and past officers, several of whom have been involved in criminal charges. All of the present officers will be questioned, Mr. Duffey said. The only person in the union offices at the time of the raid was George Cowan, a clerk.

Find 153 Voted for Strike.

The records show that Fred Sass, business agent, as well as treasurer and secretary, succeeded William "Three Finger Jack" White, labor racketeer convicted of the murder of Policeman Edward Pfaume of Forest Park. White succeeded "Big Dave" Earsman, labor racketeer, burglar and involved in jury bribing at the time of the trial of former Gov. Small. Earsman died in bed on March 10, 1930.

According to the minutes of the union the present strike was favored by 153 out of 174 who voted, although the union has a membership of more than 700.

Commissioner Sprague has threatened to bring charges against the union men before the civil service commission and to give the work of collecting garbage to private contractors. He is delaying action until the union meets tonight. Despite reported protest of Sass and John Sutherland, president of the union, a general meeting to consider the strike situation has been called for tonight.

Hope for Settlement Action.

Police from the racket bureau under Sergt. Ahern will attend the meeting.

"It is our hope," State's Attorney Duffey said, "that the decent element in the union, who never voted for the strike and who prefer to obtain what work they can and what the city is able to pay for, will come out in sufficient numbers to override those under the control of Sass and Sutherland. We are providing police protection mainly for them."

JUDGE TO RULE ANNA IS CHILD OF CAPT. GROSS

Rebukes Attorneys for Both Parties.

Judge Joseph B. David, after reprimanding the attorneys, for both Capt. Christian Channing Gross of the United States diplomatic service and his divorced wife, who was Virginia Harrison, daughter of the former governor general of the Philippines, announced yesterday that he would sign a decree today holding that Capt. Gross is the father of the child, Anna, born to his wife three years ago.

JUDGE DAVID.

Capt. Gross has petitioned the court to rule on the paternity of the child. He testified yesterday that he had no knowledge of Anna's existence when he was granted his divorce in Chicago on Aug. 8 last year. He asked for ruling, he said, in order that he might share in a $1,000,000 trust fund established for the other two children of himself and Mrs. Gross.

Introduce Birth Certificate.

Attorney Robert Cantwell Jr. presented Gross' petition. After some preliminary discussion, in which Judge David indicated that he was willing to sign an order amending the divorce decree to show the child's parentage if proof of it were introduced, Capt. Gross was called into court from his attorney's office.

In the course of Gross' testimony Attorney Cantwell introduced a petition bearing a certified copy of the birth certificate of Anna, issued in New York, where she was born. Judge David looked at it and immediately asked Cantwell and Attorney T. H. Fisher, who appeared for Mrs. Gross, into his chambers. When they emerged, he said to Cantwell:

"I am doing my best to save this woman's reputation. It may not amount to much in France, but it means a great deal in the United States. You had better withdraw that birth certificate. It is a scurrilous document."

Certificate Is Destroyed.

Attorney Cantwell did so, and tore it up. Then Judge David turned to Fisher, saying:

"Cable Mrs. Gross and ask her if she is willing to concede that Capt. Gross is the father of the child."

"I refuse to do anything under oath," Fisher replied.

"I don't get your attitude," Judge David said. "The future of this infant is the only thing in which the court is interested. The views of the attorneys in the case are incompre-hensible to the court."

"In view of the attitude of Mrs. Gross' attorney," the judge told Cantwell, "I am going to order you to prepare an order amending the divorce decree to show that Gross is the father of the child. Bring it in and I will sign it tomorrow."

Fisher later filed the precipes of three suits for $100,000 each in the Superior court against Gross. The plaintiffs are Mrs. Gross, her New York attorney, Arthur Garfield Hayes, and de Zayas, a Mexican artist.

FIND BURNED CAR BELIEVED USED BY LYNCH KIDNAPERS

Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, said yesterday after a conference with Deputy Sheriff Don Bleau of Kankakee county that he believed they had found the automobile used by the kidnapers of John J. [Jack] Lynch, wealthy head of a racing news service.

The car was found burned beside a road near Bourbonnais early in the morning last week on which Lynch was freed by his kidnapers. A farmer of the neighborhood, driving past the spot a few minutes before the car was discovered on fire, saw one man sitting in it.

The spot where the car was found is only half a mile from the farm where Billy Ranieri, Chicago boy, whose kidnapers are now serving prison terms, was held by his captors two years ago. The car was traced through its motor number to Frank Rabb Jr., 1628 South St. Louis avenue, from whom it was stolen June 11.

Officials of the Racing Form, turf newspaper, informed Roche yesterday that they have offered $25,000 for the arrest and conviction of the kidnapers of Lynch. They also offer $10,000 to any policeman who captures or kills a member of any gang engaged in kidnaping for ransom and $5,000 to any citizen who will give confidential information leading to the arrest and conviction of any such kidnaper.

MAN WHO ASKED HOW TO WILL HIS $10,000,000 DIES

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—The man who two years ago asked the public for advice on how best to dispose of his $10,000,000 fortune died in London yesterday with his plans still a secret, it became known here tonight. He was C. Harold Smith, vice president of the Columbian Carbon company and for twenty years president of the Binney & Smith company, manufacturer of carbon blocks.

Not until his will is filed will it be known whether he followed the suggestion that won the $1,000 prize he offered for the best answer to the question of what to do with $10,000,000.

The winner was Dr. Henry E. Garrett, professor at Columbia university, who suggested that Mr. Smith establish an institute for mental hygiene, where patients might come for advice and to study juvenile crime.

CHILEAN FLEET REBELS AGAINST CUT IN SALARIES

Men Seize Officers; Force Them to Sign Petition.

BULLETIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 1.—Private messages from Santiago, Chile, tonight indicated the naval revolt there is more serious than is officially admitted. Strict censorship in Chile is being enforced.

VALPARAISO, Chile, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Crews aboard vessels in the battle fleet at Coquimbo winter quarters revolted today and forced their officers to sign a virtual ultimatum to the government that the navy will not permit proposed reductions in salaries.

As soon as the demand had been signed by the officers the crews returned to their posts and the revolt was over. Officers who had been held prisoner were released.

The battle fleet consists of the battleship Almirante La Torre, the cruiser O'Higgins, and the destroyers Orelela Serrano, Aldea, and Hyatt.

Order Police to "Shoot at Sight."
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALPARAISO, Chile, Sept. 1.—"Shoot at sight." This edict went forth to the police at midnight following a conference at the presidential palace in Santiago, at which the cabinet considered reports of violence and looting in Santiago and other cities throughout the republic. Simultaneously, orders were issued to provincial governors directing that the police deal drastically with all opposed to law and order. Tonight mounted police were using cold steel on street crowds.

The government surveyed the situation in the light of country-wide reports of public disturbances, strikes and looting. Transport strikes were reported from Valparaiso and the southern cities and menacing labor movements were reported from the nitrate fields.

Twenty Slain in Riots.

The government considered the Santiago situation to be "very grave." Twenty have been killed in a week of rioting and many shops have been looted by unruly mobs. The situation has been made worse by a flood of communistic propaganda and the passive attitude of the police, whose conduct has been called "unsatisfactory" since former President Carlos Ibanez fled.

The cabinet meeting was specially convened in view of the behavior of the police. Manuel Trucco, acting president, personally assured the metropolitan commissioner that the members of his force could rely on the whole hearted backing of the government in any repressive measures.

Movies to End Injunction; Their Operators Licensed

The Allied Theater Owners' association, at war for the last month with the motion picture operators' union, last night consented to the dissolution of the temporary injunction issued a week ago by Superior Judge Ross C. Hall restraining the police from interfering with theaters using imported operators.

The bill of complaint on which the injunction was issued will be withdrawn next Tuesday, according to attorneys for the owners.

Notification of the new development was given Leon Hornstein, assistant corporation counsel, in a letter from Attorneys Howard Ellis and Theodore Levin, representing the owners. Mr. Hornstein has been seeking to have the injunction removed in hearing before Master in Chancery Sidney S. Pollack.

Report Operators Licensed.

"Since the filing of the bill of complaint," said the letter from Attorneys Ellis and Levin, "all of the moving picture operators employed by the theater owners have been licensed by the city.

"By this action of the city the whole purpose of the bill of complaint has been attained and there is no further relief which the court need grant our client in the premises. You, therefore, agreed on the part of the city, and we on behalf of the theater owners that the motion to dissolve the temporary injunction will be consented to.

"This is subject to one condition: that the city will continue to license capable and responsible men in the future as it has since the filing of the complaint."

Action Is Expected Today.

It was indicated that action will be taken this morning toward the dissolution of the temporary injunction. A hearing before Master Pollack is scheduled for 10 o'clock. At yesterday's hearing C. K. Cregier, city license examiner, was the only witness heard. His testimony dealt with the type of examination given applicants for licenses.

The theater owners imported New York operators after they had failed to reach an agreement with Thomas Maloy, business agent of the union, over the use of operators. The owners asserted that the employment of two operators by each small theater, as demanded by Maloy, was forcing them into bankruptcy.

POWERS' LOVE CAREER IN FIVE STATES BARED

Rover of Many Aliases, Many Sweethearts.

of Gildaw, then under the name of Powers, from Mansfield, O., where his postoffice box number was 415; also under the name of Powers at Vandalia, Ill. Then, in the last year, he assumed the name of Cornelius O. Pierson, and had mail addressed to him in a postoffice box at Clarksburg.

Wife Won by Mail.

Earlier in the day a batch of the correspondence that Powers saved so industriously turned up to embarrass Mrs. Luella Strother Powers, the 45 year old wife of the philandering Bluebeard.

It showed that she had been wooed by Powers five years ago in the same mail order fashion by which he lured the Widow Eicher of Park Ridge, Ill., and Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke of Worcester, Mass., to elopement and subsequent death.

Mrs. Powers, a hefty, red haired native of Clarksburg, has insisted all along that she and Powers were childhood sweethearts. "We was stuck on each other when we was just kids," is the way she puf it. But with today's discovery that she had met Powers through the familiar mail order route, that story collapsed.

In the letters written by Mrs. Powers, then Luella Strothers, to Powers, which she began to write in June, 1926, the details of their courtship were revealed. The letter of earliest date, June 26, was addressed to Harry Powers at Crestline, O., and read in part as follows:

"Your most welcome and very much appreciated letter of the 21st received and read many times with pleasure your letters are so interesting. Wish I could write you one likewise in return but as you can see that I'm not an extra good penman and to write a so-called fascinating letter is absolutely beyond my power.

That Dear Photo.

"O, that dear little photo. You certainly are a fine looking gentleman. I'm sorry but I haven't got any pictures of any kind. But listen, you can take my word for what I'm telling you, as mother always taught me not to story.

"We own several houses here and also property in the country where we used to live before coming here, also have a fine gas well. We are not rich by any means, but I'm glad to know we have this much.

"I don't wear my hair bobbed and I'm neither a flapper or a so-called flirt. I truly hope my future life will be a real bed of roses, without a single thorn."

The spinster wrote other letters to

Bluebeard Spent Summer of 1925 in Jail in Chicago

Harry F. Powers carried on his matrimonial swindles about Chicago six years ago and spent the summer of 1925 in Cook county jail, held on an indictment charging him with defrauding a woman he had wooed, it was learned last night.

Powers at that time operated under the alias of Joe Gildow. Authorities at Clarksburg, W. Va., where he is held for the murders of two of his dupes and three children of one of them, Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher of Park Ridge, discovered yesterday that he had used the same name in his mail order wooing in other localities.

His local victim was Miss Lena Fellows, at that time a resident of Hammond, and her experience with him cost her $5,400. Powers, or Gildow, proposed marriage to her, was accepted, and induced her to withdraw $1,600 from a savings bank and buy him a new automobile for an elopement to Joliet.

Robbed Her of Rings.

They stopped at a filling station in Chicago Heights to buy gasoline. Miss Fellows was wearing two diamond rings, each worth $1,000, and had $1,800 worth of building and loan shares in a suitcase in the back of the car. At the filling station her swain suggested that she hide the rings in the suitcase as a precaution against holdups.

Then Powers suggested that Miss Fellows step around the corner and mail a letter, while he waited to pay for the gasoline. When she returned from her errand he had driven away in the automobile.

The Chicago Heights police, after some search, located him in Mansfield, O. He was returned to Chicago Heights and on April 29, 1925, Police Magistrate A. I. Zeller of the suburb held him to the grand jury on a charge of larceny. Between the time of his flight and his arrest Powers had sold the rings, automobile, and stock, and spent Miss Fellows' money.

Had Smart Lawyer.

He lay in the county jail all summer. In the fall he was brought to trial and acquitted. When he was brought back from Ohio he had a large bundle of love letters from other women. Those were kept at the Chicago Heights police station, and Powers called for them there after he was freed.

"I asked him," Magistrate Zeller said last night, "how he managed to get off in the Criminal court. He told me, 'I got a smart lawyer and he convinced the jury that I didn't steal the stuff, that Miss Fellows gave it to me.'"

The magistrate was shown photographs of Powers taken since his arrest on the murder charges.

"There's no doubt in my mind," he said. "Gildow and Powers were the same man."

Powers of the same tenor, and on June 1, 1927, about a year after the correspondence courtship began, the pair were married at Oakland, Md.

The authorities are satisfied that Powers kept on in his matrimonial correspondence racket during the intervening years. The fact that he did not kill Mrs. Powers and take her property, as he did Mrs. Eicher and Mrs. Lemke, is explained hereabouts by the theory that Powers recognized in Mrs. Powers a woman who would keep a steady harbor for him, who would work for him, give him funds when he was low, and provide a permanent feed basket.

The commonwealth of West Virginia is not interested in moving for exemplary justice to Powers. This was demonstrated today with the announcement of the results of a conference between Judge John C. Southern of the Criminal court, returned today from a vacation, and County Prosecutor William Morris.

They announced there would be no special grand jury called to bring Powers to trial.

In Jail Till November.

As a result, Powers will remain in jail until November, when the next regular term of court is scheduled.

Whether there are additional bodies buried in the grounds about Powers' grotesque dungeon at Quiet Dell is concededly a conjectural proposition, but Sheriff Grimm and Chief of Police C. O. Duckworth believe that for a complete search a steam shovel must be taken to the site and every foot of ground turned over. Steps to ascertain the feasibility and cost of this are now being taken by the officials.

5 MILLION ART DONOR UNABLE TO PAY WIFE'S RENT

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—John Gellatly, 78, art collector, who in 1929 gave his $5,000,000 collection to the National Gallery of Arts of the Smithsonian institution, admitted in Municipal court today that he was unable to pay the rent for his wife's three room apartment.

Mrs. Charlayna Gellatly, his wife, a former actress and 43 years younger than her husband, attributed Gellatly's plight to his having spent his entire fortune for art objects. She charged bitterly that he turned his collection over to the government "in order to pose as a philanthropist."

Justice Murray reserved decision until Sept. 10 pending briefs by counsel.

FARMERS FIGHT RAIL BOOST ON THEIR PRODUCE

Say Agriculture Plight Is Worse than Roads'.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Exemption of farm products and live stock from the proposed 15 per cent increase in railroad rates is to be sought by central and western states' representatives at the interstate commerce commission hearings now under way in the Hotel Sherman.

Witnesses from twelve states, shepherded by former Gov. Clyde M. Reed of Kansas, are to make the plea for the farmers, telling of the debacle in the land industries and setting forth the inability of the farmers to pay any more freight rates.

"This talk of collapse of railroad credit, in comparison with farmer credit, is like comparing a zephyr with a cyclone," said Mr. Reed. "The railroads are still earning money, while farm loans have stopped."

Farmers' Groups to Be Next.

The farmers' unions, coöperatives, and granges of Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Dakota, and Wisconsin are next on the program in the hearings before the commission, in which final evidence on the rail rate increase is being taken. A hot battle is in prospect over this issue, as the railroad representatives have made it plain that this rate increase must be a general one, and not used to "subsidize" any special interests.

It was Wall street's inning yesterday, with Fairman R. Dick of Roosevelt & Sons, investment bankers, on the witness stand nearly all day, under cross-examination by Luther Walter of the Industrial Traffic league and other representatives of the shippers. Mr. Dick is spokesman for $1,700,000,000 in rail securities.

He declared the bankers' present attitude toward the railroad situation is that the roads' credit generally has collapsed, and that an assurance that they will be protected and stabilized is essential to start the flow of private capital again.

What Railroads Face.

"The railroads must go on," he said. "Either private capital must come in or there will be government ownership."

He viewed the possibility of the commission refusing this rate increase as "too horrible to think about."

Mr. Walter tried to show, from the exhibits of the railroad spokesmen, that they were attempting to collect from the rate payers about $300,000,000 more than was necessary to bring the weaker roads up to a safe investment point.

Mr. Dick combated this, declaring that the suggested pooling arrangement would merely help individual carriers by taking money away from the prosperous ones, and that it meant the "scrapping" of section 15-A of the commerce law, which gives the railroads the right to earn 5¾ per cent on their investment.

Questioned by Commissioner.

"If the testimony shows that the increase in rates will not actually increase revenue (concerning which a grave doubt has been raised), is it the duty of the interstate commerce commission to allow the increase?" Commissioner E. J. Lewis asked the witness.

"If the commission is absolutely positive the increase will not bring increased revenue," Mr. Dick replied, "a call should be issued for an immediate session of congress. If the industry can't get any more money it will be insolvent. It is impossible for the railroads to raise new money through normal channels."

A long and academic discussion as to the duty of the government to protect the railroads in bad times, the principles underlying investment, and the course of the railroad bond market was interjected into the testimony. The troubles of particular roads were not gone into, as Mr. Dick said he did not like to mention these by name. He said that capital just now is "scary."

Advance in Bonds Cited.

He did not know of any great unloading of railroad securities by the banks and denied that there had been any banks' propaganda to depress the securities. The advance in the railroad bond market of the last five days was called to Mr. Dick's attention, and he said that it might have been the effect of these hearings.

Using the Santa Fe general 4 per cent mortgage bonds as his yardstick, Mr. Dick testified that since March 1, 1930, and March 1, 1930, only four bonds have improved, eight have remained unchanged and thirty-four have declined in market value. Since last February, he said, it has been difficult for the roads to dispose of their bonds. He asserted that the securities were no longer regarded as secondary reserve by the banks, and that there were only three roads whose bonds could be regarded as a "Triple A" investment. These were the Santa Fe, the Union Pacific, and the Norfolk and Western.

Mr. Reed brought out on cross-examination that during this period the declines of 19 bond issues was not attributable to any condition now confronting the railroad industry.

See Use of Truck Lines.

Representatives of the Indiana Chamber of Commerce and the Kentucky Bituminous Rock interests testified at the short line hearing that present freight rates were too high and that if there is an increase in railroad rates business in their section will go to the truck lines. Milton Bauman, on behalf of eastern shippers, told the commission that if the railroads increased their tariffs the truckers would do likewise.

One witness, T. V. Buckwalter, representing the Timken Roller Bearing company, was in favor of the increase.

Moves for Dismissal.

At the conclusion of the hearing Isaac Born, attorney for the paper interests, made a motion that the proceedings be dismissed and that the commission discontinue the hearings. He said the roads had not been operated in an efficient manner. He declared the carriers should have gone before the railroad labor board, since 60 per cent of their operating expenses were due to labor costs. The commission took the motion under advisement.

SEIZE FIVE WHO KIDNAPED HEIR TO 10 MILLIONS

Defeat Gang's Plan to Kill Chief.

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Trapped by serial numbers on money paid to them for the safe return of Charles M. Rosenthal, wealthy 24 year old broker of Lawrence, L. I., four men and a Negro girl were behind bars tonight charged with kidnaping him.

A. M. ROSENTHAL.

The leader of the band, according to police, was Nicholas Green, proprietor of the Hotel Vendig in West 47th street, and the holder of a long criminal record. He had been marked for death by other members of the gang, it was said, for refusing himself to half of the ransom fund of $50,000.

Girl Denies Her Race.

Theodore Adinolfi and Albert Sileo, members of the gang who took turns standing guard over Rosenthal in a Harlem flat from Aug. 11 to Aug. 28, were plotting Green's death when detectives broke into their apartment in force.

The girl used as a decoy was arrested in Atlantic City where she was living in an apartment with a Negro lover, who was taken into custody but later released. She gave the name of Bettina Green, alias Betty Stewart, and although she was entered on the police blotter as a Negress, she insisted she was white.

The girl is stylishly dressed and her appearance gave no clue to her race. She too declared she had been cheated out of her share of the spoils. Waiving extradition, she was brought back to New York by airplane.

Recover $16,330 Ransom.

In all $16,330 of the ransom was recovered in the roundup which police believe has saved several rich young victims of night clubs from an experience similar to Rosenthal's. It unfolded a story of crime in which gamesmanship and perfidy were strangely mixed.

Although the original demand was $60,000 for Rosenthal's release from captivity he was set free upon payment of $50,000 and the explanation of the reduction as told by the kidnapers and confirmed by the young victim was unique. According to their story Rosenthal improved the idle hours of his captivity by playing poker and dice with his captors.

They said Rosenthal won approximately $10,000 from them, and after giving him their I. O. U.'s they agreed to knock that much off the price they had placed upon him, although, according to Jack Markham, another prisoner, Sileo and Adinolfi would have preferred to kill Rosenthal then and there.

Mother Is Delighted.

Mrs. Rosenthal, who intrusted $230,000 to Inspector Harold R. King of Nassau county to use as he saw fit to rescue her son from the gang that had him prisoner, was elated when news of the roundup was communicated to her.

"I am greatly pleased," she said, "that the police have found that my son told the truth about being kidnaped. There were so many suspicions that my son had concocted the story for some reason best known to himself."

Bank Teller Upsets Plot.

Markham, the first of the gang to fall into the hands of the police, was trapped after renting a safe deposit box at the Fifth Avenue branch of the Harriman National bank and asking a teller there to change a $100 bill. The serial numbers of the bills turned over to the kidnapers had been transmitted to the banks and the teller called the police. Markham, who the police said was the black sheep of a good family, confessed he was one of the kidnapers.

Markham revealed the hiding place of Adinolfi and Sileo to the Newark detectives who went there, broke down the door and found Adinolfi and Sileo in gaudy silk dressing gowns listening to the raucous notes of a radio. Stuffed into a woman's suede glove they found fifteen $500 bills. Tucked away in the corner of a bureau were forty $20 bills and Sileo's pockets gave up another $2,030. The sum of $17,230 represented what was left of $12,000 paid to them by Green as their share of the ransom.

Since payment was made, however, they had learned that the little black bag which contained only $25,000 when they saw it, held $50,000 when it was left in the West Forty-seventh street hotel by Edward Nathan, Rosenthal's friend and attorney.

How Plot Was Worked.

According to the police the kidnaping plot was hatched by Green and Markham. Green apparently knew Rosenthal. It was said he had met the young broker at a night club and subsequently entertained him at the hotel where several parties were staged.

He knew that Rosenthal's father had left an estate of about $10,000,000 when he died a year ago. So he induced Markham to join him in a plot to extort some of the legacy from the young man's mother. It was agreed that a woman would be the lure.

According to the Green woman, who apparently is not related to the hotel man, she entered into the plot unaware that it was a kidnaping. Markham told her, she said, that Rosenthal owed him a large sum of money but that he had welshed on repaying it. He asked her to help him corner the young broker and promised to give her $5,000 for her work. She did not know she had abetted a kidnaping, she insisted, until he read of the case in the newspapers. Then she was afraid to tell her story to the police, she declared.

Lured to Nigth Club.

The girl telephoned Rosenthal using the name of an acquaintance, and lured him to a night club, thence into a taxi, and to Harlem where the plotters seized him.

Louis Pagny, 17 years old, 2339 North Meade avenue, was shot and killed yesterday by a gun in the hands of his 16 year old friend, Robert Micheles, in the attic of the latter's home at 3531 Oleander avenue. Micheles told Capt. Ira McDowell of the Irving Park police that they had found a 12 gauge shotgun and he was showing Pagny how to load the gun when it was discharged. Capt. McDowell was satisfied the shooting was accidental, but he held young Micheles for an inquest this morning.

BERWYN'S CHIEF RESIGNS; CHARGED WITH BRUTALITY

Chief of Police Thomas C. Bartunek of Berwyn last night gave his resignation to the Berwyn city council—in an effort, he said, to clear himself of charges of brutality brought recently by Michael M. Brooks, 3227 Clarence avenue, Berwyn. No action was taken on the resignation.

In asking to be relieved of his post as chief, Bartunek suggested that he be retained on the force as a sergeant and under the jurisdiction of the board of police and fire commissioners which is investigating the charges against him. Brooks was arrested recently charged with driving without lights, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. He was acquitted on Monday by a Berwyn magistrate. He testified that he had been beaten by Chief Bartunek, who denies the accusation. Lieut. Alfred Marshall has been named acting chief pending consideration of Bartunek's resignation.

CONVICT TELLS PAYMENTS MADE TO GET PAROLE

He Names State Senator and Ex-Congressman.

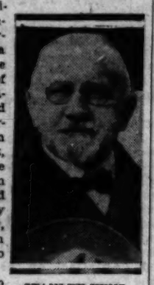
Roman Hempel, a convict serving a term of one to fourteen years in the Joliet penitentiary for manslaughter, yesterday made a charge to the state board of pardons and paroles that he had paid $600 to former Congressman Stanley Kunz, $1,300 to State Senator William F. Gillmeister and $950 to Attorney Charles L. Daly, 6707 Sheridan road, as fees to get him paroled.



STANLEY KUNZ. [A. P. Photo.]

Hempel also charged that Daly introduced him to James R. Howe, another Chicago attorney, with offices in the Steuben building, representing Howe to be Speaker David Shanahan of the state house of representatives. On the representation that the impostor was to use political influence to effect his freedom, he signed a contract promising to pay $3,500 to Daly and Howe after he was released, Hempel charged.

Reveals Copies of Checks.

W. C. Jones, chairman of the parole board, which has been investigating the case for some time, revealed at the board hearing photostatic copies of checks bearing the purported indorsement of Gillmeister, a receipt purporting to have been issued by Kunz, and the contract executed by the two lawyers with the convict.

All of this material, with a transcript of testimony taken yesterday from Hempel, Daly, Howe, and John Cipenski, 5052 West 29th place, Cicero, a friend of Hempel, who testified that he served as a go-between in the negotiations, will be turned over to State's Attorney Swanson within a week or ten days, with a request that he investigate the evidence, Chairman Jones said.

Sent to Prison in 1929.

Hempel was found guilty of manslaughter and sent to the penitentiary on July 18, 1929. On Aug. 8, 1928, he drove his automobile onto the sidewalk on a crowded Chicago street and killed Mrs. Catherine Skala. He is a war veteran.

Howe appeared before the board yesterday and began reviewing those facts when he was interrupted by the chairman. Mr. Jones placed Attorney Daly on the witness stand and questioned him for half an hour.

Lawyer Admits Getting Checks.

Attorney Daly admitted that he had received checks on the Cicero State bank, signed by Hempel, for a total of $950. But he charged that he had returned $450 of that to Cipenski. He said he had known Hempel for ten years, and had represented him in former matters before seeking to get him a parole. He admitted the existence of the $3,500 contract, but said that he considered it inoperative since Hempel had refused to post the money in escrow pending his release.

Hempel was then brought before the board. He denied any long acquaintance with Daly, saying that he had retained Daly to get him paroled last March. He told of Daly's introducing Howe to him as "Speaker Shanahan." At that both Daly and Howe interrupted to characterize the charge as "a lie" and "absurd."

Then Jones asked him: "Did you pay money to any one else."

Charges He Paid Senator.

"Yes," replied Hempel. "I gave $1,300 to Senator William F. Gillmeister."

Jones introduced photostatic copies of four checks, totaling that sum, issued by Hempel between Nov. 19, 1930, and April 4, 1931. Three were made out to Cipenski and bore his indorsement, and one purported to be that of Gillmeister. The fourth was written to Gillmeister and bore his purported indorsement alone.

"Did you pay any one else money?" Jones again asked.

"I gave ex-Congressman Stanley Kunz $500," Hempel said. That payment, like the ones to Gillmeister, was made through Cipenski, the convict testified.

Cipenski was called to the witness stand and corroborated Hempel's story of the payments to Daly, but asserted that he got only $100 back from the lawyer. He also told of acting as a go-between with Gillmeister and Kunz." His daughter, he said, first gave Kunz $100. Then, he asserted, he went to the then congressman's home and gave him $500. Kunz promised to get Hempel out of prison in ninety days or return the money, Cipenski asserted.

Purported Signature of Kunz.

A copy of a receipt, bearing the purported signature of Kunz, was introduced. It was dated May 28, 1930, and contained a promise to return the money after ninety days. He has made frequent trips to Kunz's home since to recover the money, Cipenski said, but always has been told that Kunz is not there.

Gillmeister wrote the board one letter on behalf of Hempel, Jones said. The records show no activity by Kunz on the prisoner's behalf.

Pullman Co. Makes Extra Charge for Two in Berth

No longer will it be possible for two to ride as cheaply as one in a Pullman berth. The Pullman company has filed a tariff with the interstate commerce commission establishing an extra charge for a second passenger occupying a berth or section. The rate, to become effective on Oct. 15, will be 20 per cent of the lower berth rate. However, it is said, more than 90 per cent of Pullman passengers will not be affected by this new regulation. Moreover, the extra charge will not apply to children under 12 years old.

"couldn't keep house without these flakes"

Mrs. Harry K. Curtis

She's a Washington girl, born and brought up in the Capital City. But she had to come to Chicago to discover the double-sudsing soap that puts longer wear into clothes, and cash into struggling budgets — American Family Flakes!

"I asked my laundress what in the world she had done to give my linens such a gloss, almost like silk," said Mrs. Curtis. "And she said she just used American Family Flakes. So I ordered it for my personal use, as I like to do my lingerie myself. And I'm absolutely amazed at the difference in my clothes already.

"This soap doesn't take the color out like other soaps. And I'm getting just ages longer wear from my things — especially silk stockings. I don't have to buy so many pairs — and things look so much lovelier." — Which is the same story that comes from 4 out of 5 of Chicago's millionaire Gold Coast homes, where fabrics of unbelievable frailty and cost withstand years of daily use, because they are laundered only in these pure American Family Flakes double-suds.

Why not readjust your household and clothes expenses on an American Family Flakes basis? Get longer life from all washable fabrics . . . get greater cleaning power for the money (compare the rich double-suds of American Family Flakes with ordinary suds). And get all your dishwashing, laundering, household cleaning done in double-quick time!

Incidentally, you'll find it as gentle with your hands as the finest toilet soap.

Mrs. Curtis is a real Titian beauty, with burnished red curls, almond-blossom complexion, long curving black lashes. Her husband is son of Vice-President Curtis. But young Mrs. Curtis prefers a good horse race to the glitter of diplomatic life, and a canter in the park to all formal social affairs. She loves to entertain informally — beautiful oval table, cloth of delicate drawn-work and embroidery, gay china of quaint English ware. "Father Curtis brought me the cloth from Japan. It's so frail I hesitated to use it very often until I discovered these pure flakes. They are especially nice for china and glassware too. They make velvety suds. Leave such a nice glow. And even when dishes have stood awhile, they cut the grease with no effort at all."

The Flakes—double-sudsing—the only soap trusted with the costly laundry of 4 out of 5 Gold Coast women.

The Cake Soap—double-sudsing—for ninety years used by more Chicago women than all other laundry soaps combined.

It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes.

BRITISH EXPERTS 'WARN' AMERICA AGAINST 'DOLE'

Believe Yanks Willing to Take Lean with Fat.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Inherent racial customs, prejudices, and the sharply defined class distinctions are the principal reasons why British labor relies to an ever increasing extent on state protection and safeguards, which eat up such a large part of the national income.

English labor has gradually emerged to its present position from the feudal system, from the time when an overwhelming majority of the population were vassals, the personal property of aristocracy. They were considered as chattels of the land, as much a part of a landed estate as the forests, buildings, and live stock.

Slowly through the centuries in the various great reforms which rolled over the country, rights of the "commoners," then the lower class, and finally the poor workers, were wrung from the crown, from the barons and vested interests, and recognized.

Men Emerge from Slavery.

Men emerged from serfdom to a greater degree of independence and liberty, conferred on them by the state in the class struggles that marked the different phases of Britain's history.

So it is to the state that the people always turn in their efforts to ameliorate their situation, and it is invariably the government which puts through plans for bettering their conditions, improving their standard of living, providing for sickness and old age, and now insuring them against unemployment.

Because of the different mentality of English people—which is shared by continental Europeans generally as they have risen from practically identical conditions—economic students here do not believe that the United States will allow itself to be forced into instituting the "dole" for unemployed during the present depression regardless of how severe the situation may become during the winter.

See Dole Cry Counterbalanced.

English economists believe that the initiative, ambition, determination of Americans, rich and poor alike, their readiness to take chances in their efforts for success, their willingness to take the lean with the fat in the scramble to make good, will more than counterbalance the outcry of the few for government assistance and state financial aid.

Moreover, British opinion concurs unanimously that if ever the United States accedes to "temporary" federal help for unemployed and poverty stricken workers, it will never be able to terminate the engagement. The British also believe that the time element will increase the difficulty of winding up the dole system regardless of the return of prosperity. They point out that persons who have become accustomed to government aid lose initiative and fall into the sloth and hopelessness, as thousands have in this country. They have become indifferent to jobs and wages so long as they are assured of the "wherewithal" to live from day to day.

"Nobody has perished of starvation in any civilized country in the last fifty years," I was assured by a government official whose duty is to check up on living conditions all over the world. "During the world war we were told harrowing stories of hunger in Germany due to the food blockade. Since then we have learned that while the central powers were on reduced rations they were never famishing."

Stunts Individual's Initiative.

Reliance on the state, it is stated here, helps stunt the ambition and initiative of the individual, and dries up automatically the mutual protective measures which would otherwise develop spontaneously in the relations between capital and labor.

The great mass of British industrial concerns provides no social aid for their employés. There are no company hospitals, group insurance, pensioning funds, low rent workers' homes, and coöperative shops connected with most manufacturing concerns here. It is all left up to the government to provide or for the local authorities to arrange for.

Indirectly, these concerns pay for these improvements and conveniences, but since it is indirect aid, they reap no appreciation from their employés. The gratitude of the worker, if it exists at all toward such a nebulous anonymity, is directed toward the government or the local board of aldermen.

SENATOR PADDOCK TAKES GUN IN HAND TO KEEP THE PEACE

State Senator Ray Paddock [Rep.] of Wauconda has as a neighbor Mr. John Hapke, Mr. Hapke has as a pet a small spider monkey. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Hapke decided to clean the monkey cage. When the door was opened the monkey went for a walk.

The senator was reading in his home when he heard shrieks from children around a tree. Sauntering out he saw the monkey flash through the lower branches, swing by its tail and pull a little girl's hair. Another child complained the monkey had bitten him on the cheek.

Senator Paddock got his double barreled shotgun. The monkey gestured and swung to an outlying limb. The senator took careful aim. The monkey screeched and dropped on the senator's shoulder. The shotgun discharged harmlessly through the leaves. The monkey grasped the senator's straw hat in one small paw and leaped lightly back into the tree.

Senator Paddock ran for more shells. While he was in the house a small boy peeled a banana and offered a portion to the monkey, which descended the tree. The boy took the monkey back to the cage and gave the hat, somewhat battered, back to the senator.

BRITISH CABINET STRIKES SNAG IN DRIVE TO CUT PAY

Finds Economy Program a Difficult Task.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The emergency national cabinet which yesterday began a week of continuous session is not finding the task of making economies easy. Great importance was first attached to the proposal to make a flat cut in salaries of all public employés, including school teachers, policemen, soldiers, sailors, and civil servants.

Of the lot it seems likely upon examination that only the salaries of civil servants are within the power of the government to be slashed. Teachers are not employed by the government, but by municipalities and counties. It is true that the government contributes 60 per cent of their salaries to local authorities, but this is under an act of parliament, and even if the act were repealed or modified there is nothing to prevent the local authorities from taxing their own people to maintain payments.

Cabinet Rules London Police.

It is the same case with the police. Only the London metropolitan police are directly controlled by the government. With all other county and municipal forces, the government again makes a grant toward their general maintenance, but has nothing to say as to the actual rate of pay.

In the case of soldiers, sailors and military airmen, it is pointed out that when they enlisted for seven years it was under contract to serve that period for a fixed rate of pay, and that even the government has no moral right to vary the contract without the consent of the other party. The officers' case is even stronger, for it has always been the custom, when the army and navy is reduced, to grant officers a gratuity equal to the capitalized value of their job for the unexpired period.

Another factor is that with the violent discontent such as may follow cuts in the dole for the unemployed and social services, the cabinet probably deems it unwise or unsafe to do anything which may weaken the loyalty of the police and troops upon whom depends the preservation of order.

May Delay Parliament's Session.

It is still unknown when it will be possible to summon parliament. The tentative date, Tuesday, Sept. 8, is still officially unchanged, but no summons has yet been issued and technical difficulties in framing the economy program may cause further delay.

The cabinet sessions are running on direct schedule, measured to split seconds, and railroad efficiency in assembling committees and full meetings of the cabinet in order to prevent overlapping and to save every possible second.

The cabinet is carrying on its work in the midst of national calls for economy as typically voiced in one quarter by Dr. Henry Wilson, bishop of Chelmsford, in a paper which will be read in all churches in Essex next Sunday. It declares that the country has been seized with a mania of postwar spending and that as a result there is nothing left during the present depression. The bishop's paper says: "We will have less money and fewer luxuries. These are not necessary to happiness while the country is pinched, but the will to work and to sacrifice is."

DOAK IS PLEASED AS JONES QUITS U. S. JOB SERVICE

Washington D. C., Sept. 1.—(AP)—An attack on the federal employment service by Francis I. Jones in a letter of resigning as its director general drew replies today from two quarters.

Secretary Doak said the service would benefit by Jones' departure and E. C. Babcock, national commander of the disabled American veterans, defended the organization's activities toward finding jobs for former service men.

"The resignation of Mr. Jones was demanded for the good of the service," the secretary of labor said. "The service will benefit by his departure."

Jones, in resigning, said the present organization of the service is "unsatisfactory and bitterly disappointing."

SEIZE HOMEWOOD SUSPECT IN TWO EXTORTION PLOTS

CRIMINAL COURT.
Frank Boniack and Frank Kellar, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Charles A. Williams.

Edward Henke, 23 years old, of Homewood, who the county highway police at Homewood believe wrote blackmail letters to two wealthy farmers demanding $1,200 from each on threat of death, was arrested yesterday. Henke denied writing the letters.

The farmers who received the threatening letters are Edward Meinheit of Matteson and Alfred Henke of Tinley Park, the latter a second cousin of the accused man.

They were instructed in the letters to drive their automobiles between the hours of 9 o'clock and midnight in front of their farms and on a green light signal from another car to throw out the package containing the money.

Meinheit reported the letters to the county highway police and the search for the extortionist caused a curious mixup in which the farmer, Alfred Henke, mistook two policemen for the blackmailers when he went out to pay $730 of the sum demanded.

Lieut. Robert Seiter of the county police assigned Policemen James Fleming and George Truesdale to watch Meinheit's home last Friday night. The policemen saw a sedan drive slowly past Meinheit's place and they ordered the driver to stop. "Don't shoot," cried the motorist as he handed out the $730 package. "That's all the money I could get." The driver was Alfred Henke, one of the victims.

Edward Henke was arrested as a suspect after Meinheit told the police that he had had trouble with him.

OWEN D. YOUNG TO MOBILIZE FUNDS TO HELP JOBLESS

Agrees to Head Committee Named by Gifford.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric company, today accepted the task of mobilizing the country's relief funds in preparation for the coming winter, according to an announcement by Walter S. Gifford, chairman of President Hoover's new organization on unemployment relief.

OWEN D. YOUNG.

Mr. Young has accepted the chairmanship of the committee on mobilization of resources, which will function as a part of the larger organization. Various other men were appointed to serve on the committee under Mr. Young.

Nation-Wide Movement.

Mr. Gifford took pains to point out that this committee will not conduct a national campaign for a national relief fund, but will foster a "nation-wide movement in support of local efforts to meet local needs."

Mr. Gifford has been insistent that the new organization set up by President Hoover will make no attempt to raise funds.

"The committee which is now constituted under Mr. Young," Mr. Gifford said, "will cooperate with the state committees on the mobilization of relief resources. The committee will cooperate also with the Association of Public Welfare officials and the federation of Community Chests and Councils and other national organizations concerned with securing of adequate relief funds for the winter."

The appointment of this committee marks the completion of the first step in setting up the machinery with which President Hoover hopes to cope with the employment problem this winter.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr. will represent Chicago on the committee appointed today.

NAMES VICE CHAIRMEN

Charles S. Dewey, chairman of the board of trustees, and professions divisions of the joint emergency relief campaign organized by the governor's relief commission, yesterday appointed six vice chairmen, as follows:

JOHN F. GILCHRIST, vice president of Commonwealth Edison company.

DAVID A. CRAWFORD, president of Pullman company.

MILTON FLORSHEIM, chairman of the board, Florsheim Shoe company.

SCOTT BROWN, attorney.

ARTHUR ANDERSEN or Arthur Andersen & Co., public accountants.

MERLE J. TREES, vice president, Chicago Bridge and Iron works.

Mr. Dewey met with his associates and Samuel Insull Jr., chairman of the general drive committee, to raise $8,800,000 for relief of the distressed.

Plan for Raising Funds.

The plan agreed upon is to divide the different trades and industries into groups and allot to each group a vice chairman. For each trade group there will be appointed a chairman, who will appoint his committee to solicit funds. More than 50,000 names already have been collected, and from these persons cash donations will be asked.

"Knowing the seriousness of the situation," said Mr. Dewey later, "and knowing that there will be but one relief drive this fall and that hundreds of people throughout the city are giving their time freely and without expense to this duty of helping alleviate the temporarily unhappy conditions that face some of our good friends and neighbors, there is no doubt that the required funds will be speedily collected.

"There is no doubt but what the continuation of the present economic crisis throughout the world will be severely felt by a large number of our brother Chicagoans during the coming winter, yet the realization of this fact will go a long way to bring a cure."

GOVERNOR KEEPS EAST TEXAS OIL FIELDS CLOSED

Acts in Spite of Order of State Commission.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Gov. Ross S. Sterling is keeping the east Texas oil fields closed with troops in spite of the new pro-ration order of the state railroad commission, which has power over all conservation problems.

The commission is drawing a new order hoping to meet the governor's approval.

The original order of the commission allotted a production of 225 barrels a well and rejected a production based on acreage.

Sterling immediately ordered Brig. Gen. J. F. Wolters not to permit the opening of a single well except on his express orders. He pointed to the fact that the big oil companies have 325 set wells "on the sand" ready to come in. These, he said, would immediately raise the total production to 450,000 barrels daily. The governor says 240,000 is far in excess of the amount necessary to avoid wastage.

Sterling said the commission's order would "put the little fellow out of business because he hasn't the money like the big operator to drill more wells."

Drilling of new wells was not restricted by the martial law order, and Gen. Wolters estimated that 1,800 wells would be ready to open by Thursday.

Petroleum for 219 Days.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Supplies of petroleum and petroleum products in the United States July 31 were reported today by the bureau of mines of the commerce department as sufficient to last 219 days, a decrease of two days from the supply of June 30.

There was a total of 649,205,000 barrels of crude oil, actual gasoline and other petroleum products in the country July 31, and 652,620,000 at the end of June.

The report also noted a rapid falling off of stocks of motor fuels during the month. Stocks of this product July 3 were 40,322,000 barrels, a decrease of almost 4,000,000 barrels from June 30. This total represented 28 days' supply, the bureau said.

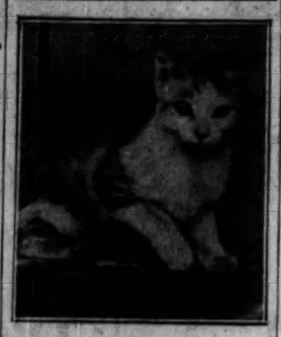
Not Due to Martial Law.

Although the report noted material decrease in Oklahoma production, due to curtailment in most fields, it was explained that this was not due to the martial law since Gov. Murray took his drastic stand after Aug. 1. Consequently the closing of the Oklahoma and Texas fields will not be reflected in the reports until Oct. 1, when the August statistics are due.

The east Texas field, now under restraint, was again credited with having kept petroleum stocks up during July. Only this field, the Kettleman Hills field in California, and the Mount Pleasant field in Michigan showed increases. The east Texas field increased its average daily production about one-half during the month, jumping from 355,000 barrels daily to 519,000.

The daily average production for the country jumped to 2,515,000 barrels, an increase of 11,000 over June, but increased demand more than compensated for this increase. The decrease was in stocks of crude oil.

CAT COMES BACK



TOM.

Tom, the gray and white cat adopted by workmen on the University of Chicago's new men's dormitory in 60th street, between Greenwood and Ellis avenues, returned to his benefactors yesterday. It was the occasion for a mild celebration, because Tom has been a missing cat since Sunday night.

Construction work has been disrupted before through Tom's wanderings. The cat has a liking for dark places. Sunday it was necessary to issue an emergency call when Tom was found walled up in a staircase panel. Bulley & Andrews, contractors, sent a carpenter in a taxicab. Tom was liberated, and work was resumed. Workmen had to tear down a section of the wall in the same building a month ago to free the cat.

Fred Hart, the watchman in the building, attempted to put Tom in a basket for safe keeping Sunday, but the cat jumped out of a window. There was rejoicing when Tom returned, but steps were taken to see that in the future the wheels of progress are not impeded. Tom, bedraggled and hungry, was washed and fed and placed in the office of the building. All doors, windows and apertures of any kind were securely fastened.

REPORT 2 MORE ARE INDICTED IN 'GAS' TAX INQUIRY

State Asks Early Trial of Twelve Others.

Two more alleged gasoline bootleggers were reported named in true bills returned by the grand jury yesterday and the state moved to bring twelve other defendants to an early trial. The action in the courts is part of a campaign to suppress evasion of the gasoline tax which allegedly has caused a loss of hundreds of thousands to the state.

Assistant State's Attorneys John O'Hara and John Holman, who presented the evidence against the two defendants, refused to divulge their names, fearing they would escape before apprehension. Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, on motion of the prosecutors, assigned the other twelve cases to Judge John Prystalski and they are to be set for trial today.

Twelve Defendants Named.

The defendants in these cases are Louis Weiss, Ben Pohn, Max Glasser, Morris Pohn, Daniel Lavin, Elmer Berg, Jacob Franks, Arthur Anderson, William Rathbun, John Wagner, Roy Glover and Harry D. Eccleston.

Anderson, Wagner, Rathbun and Glover were promoters of the Quaker City Oil company. The others, except Eccleston, were connected with the Fidelity Oil company, which allegedly evaded payment of $120,000 in taxes. Eccleston is charged with perjury in an affidvait to the state finance department.

Police to Aid Campaign.

Mayor Cermak, who has promised the support of the police and fire departments in the war on gasoline bootleggers, yesterday informed Frank V. Martinek, chairman of the tax evasion committee of the petroleum industry, that the police had been ordered to stop all tank wagons which have no legends to designate ownership. These "blind" wagons, it is alleged, are used by the gasoline bootleggers to avoid payment of licenses and posting of bonds.

Gov. Emmerson has announced his intention of appointing a fact finding commission to conduct an investigation of gasoline bootlegging.

REPORT NEW BILL VOTED AGAINST BOND CO. HEADS

An additional true bill was reported to have been voted by the federal grand jury in Boston yesterday against William J. Moore, former president of the American Bond and Mortgage company, and four other former officials of the company. The five men were indicted two weeks ago on charges of using the mails to defraud. The new action, it was reported, is based on similar charges in connection with the issuance of $475,000 in bonds on a Brooklyn apartment building.

The men were also indicted by a New York federal grand jury on Aug. 26 for using the mails to defraud in transactions involving 57 million dollars.

Those named in the new bills with the former president of the company are his two sons, Harold A. Moore, former vice president in charge of the Chicago office, and Kenneth W. Moore, former sales manager of the entire organization; a stepson, Charles C. Moore, former vice president in charge of the New York office, and Hayden W. Ward, former eastern sales manager.

Oxygen, the Coffee Racketeer demands 45% -but VITA-FRESH delivers full-flavor Coffee every time

OXYGEN is the thief of coffee freshness—a flavor racketeer that has baffled science these many years. Oxygen, contained in the very air we breathe, robs coffee of its freshness and flavor.

These facts show how Oxygen loots coffee flavor

Just read these amazing facts established in the laboratories of a leading Eastern University:

(1) Loose or bag coffee loses 65% of its flavor in nine days after roasting.

(2) Coffee in old-fashioned cans loses 45% of its flavor in nine days after roasting.

All due to the attack of Oxygen!

Think of it! Forty-five to sixty-five per cent of the flavor gone from nine-day-old coffee. Even vacuum packing, a definite improvement over old-fashioned methods, removes only part of the air from the can, leaving sealed in enough Oxygen to cause flavor loss and deterioration.

The new Vita-Fresh Process removes the air so completely that the most rigid chemical analysis reveals no trace of Oxygen in the Vita-Fresh can after packing.

Remember—Oxygen is the destroyer of coffee freshness and flavor. The Vita-Fresh Process alone gives full protection to coffee goodness. Maxwell House and Maxwell House only gives you this guarantee of full flavor, full value in every pound.

Your money back if you don't agree it's finer

After trying Vita-Fresh Maxwell House Coffee, if you and your family do not agree that it is the finest coffee you have ever tasted—simply return the can with unused portion to the grocer from whom you bought it and he will gladly return the full purchase price.

MEXICO SHAKES UP GOVERNMENT AS INCOME DROPS

Rubio Bares Plight in Message to Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 1.—President Ortiz Rubio tonight announced plans for a thorough reorganization of the Mexican government to enable it to operate with its reduced income.

ORTIZ RUBIO.

In a speech before congress he laid bare the financial situation of Mexico, tracing the caused of the financial depression and pointing out the great decrease in the government's income since the first of the year. President Rubio blamed the adoption of a higher tariff by the United States as the chief reason for the decrease in income from customs receipts.

High Tariff Cut Receipts.

"Our exportations were deeply affected by the high protective tariff adopted by the United States one year ago," he said. "In order to defend the budget and to encourage agriculture and our national industries, we adopted a protective tariff against imports, with the result that our custom house receipts have fallen off heavily.

"This has adversely affected our exchange with foreign nations, depressed business generally and caused monetary instability and has brought with it a greatly reduced consumption on the part of the Mexican population.

"As a result the national income has steadily declined since August of last year and it became evident at the beginning of the present year that the national income would probably not be large enough to meet expenses."

Faced with Deficit.

President Rubio then declared that the government was left with a deficit of more than 80,000,000 pesos (about $24,000,000) for the year.

This, he said, had to be met with a radical reduction in government expenditure, dismissal of many government employés, the reduction of salaries of others, and the suspension of all expenditures except those absolutely necessary.

WOODCOCK DISMISSES TWO AGENTS; REBUKE FOR GIRL EMPLOYE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Prohibition Director Woodcock today ordered the dismissal of two enforcement agents accused of "liquor deals," and summoned a third for his arrest recently with a 17 year old girl who said she had been hired to help enforce the law.

The federal dry chief acted after recasting the setup for supervising administrative districts in line with a determination to "make everybody think" in enforcing prohibition.

Ralph E. Dell of Buffalo was called to tell his own story tomorrow of his arrest in company with the 17 year old girl and the activities that preceded it. Woodcock said he hoped that a recent order forbidding employment of women as "blinds" and "decoys" would preclude recurrence of such incidents.

Robert L. Bowlin and Howard S. Richards, the agents dismissed, had been suspended in Providence, R. I., Aug. 13 after their names were brought into a federal hearing about a bootlegger's probation. It was learned the agents were accused of entering into beer and liquor selling deals, speakeasy proprietors complaining that they ordered drinks on duty, then refused to pay their bills.

POPE AUTHORIZES NEGOTIATION OF PACT WITH SPAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 1.—The holy see has authorized Papal Nuncio Tedeschina at Madrid to open negotiations with the Spanish government for a new concordat to replace the old one, which is admitted to be antiquated and inadequate under present conditions.

Conversations to this end are expected to be started toward the end of this month between the nuncio and President Alcala Zamora and Fernando de los Rios, Spanish minister of justice.

It is hoped the new concordat will settle the religious controversy in Spain, and it will be negotiated around the following subjects: Elimination in the proposed new Spanish constitution of the declaration that Spain is a lay state; full liberty of public instruction or teaching; maintenance of three religious orders, to be determined by common accord, and elaboration of a new law which will regulate activities of the three chosen orders. The holy see desires that the orders shall not be governed by the ordinary law controlling associations.

POLICEMAN WHO GAVE BLOOD TO PAL KILLS SELF

Policeman Timothy Fahey, 47 years old, attached to the Pekin district, shot and killed himself yesterday in his home at 3736 South Campbell avenue. Relatives said he had been despondent over ill-health. He had been in the police department for twenty years.

That his weakened condition might have resulted from an act of kindness for a fellow policeman was the belief expressed by Mrs. John Boyle, 6300 Broadway, a sister-in-law, who found the body. She said that three weeks ago Policeman Fahey had submitted to a blood transfusion to aid Patrolman John Brown, who was in ill health. Since then Policeman Fahey had complained of illness.

Policeman Fahey married a few months ago. His wife is out of town on a visit.

Your Lawn Needs New Seed NOW!

And Prices of the Fine Lawn Grasses Are Lower!

ALL lawns have suffered from the hot weather. Fine grasses were burned out and must be replaced by sowing new seed.

NOW IS THE TIME! Every day you wait shortens the precious interval before freezing, during which days are short, rains frequent, nights cool and everything favors grass growing. New grass plants must be well established before the ground freezes.

Above All, No Timothy!

Better now no seed than timothy, which is hay seed, a cheap field crop, used to adulterate lawn mixtures. An enormous amount is now sold and sown in the Chicago area, where it is the greatest enemy of lawns. It comes up quickly, but its coarse stems rob fine grasses of food and it inevitably ruins a lawn.

Vaughan's Chicago Park Lawn Seed

Contains NO TIMOTHY. It is composed solely of Kentucky Blue Grass, Red Top and White Clover, in a blend which 54 years' experience has proved best for midwestern lawns. Price, ½ lb., 35c; 1 lb., 50c; 5 lbs., $2.25; 10 lbs., $4.00.

CITY WELCOMES GERMAN FLYERS ON SECOND VISIT

coast the Gronland Wal headed for Povungnitjl, an Eskimo village in northern Quebec, where they sighted a few camps of Eskimos and landed for the night.

They Meet Detroit Flyers.

Going next to Port Harrison, Que., Capt. von Gronau and his crew met Edwin Preston and Robert Collignon, the Detroit to Copenhagen flyers.

"We had a cooking apparatus and we had plenty to eat and got along nicely," said the captain, smiling. "But along the way we saw few human beings, and those few were not interested in us. Then we arrive here and there are so many—" and the captain blushed and smiled. "It is good to see."

Later, when photographers asked the captain to manipulate himself into various poses, such as pulling off his shoes and climbing into bed wearily, he laughed and cried, "But I am not an actor; I am a pilot!"

Head of German Flying School.

Capt. von Gronau is 38 years old, married, the father of three children, and the head of a flying school principally government owned. His crew consists of three former pupils, Edward Zimmer, co-pilot, young and slight; Fritz Albrecht, radio operator, and Hack, who was a pupil only last year.

At the ramp, a committee of leading Chicagoans of German descent, headed by Ernest J. Kruetgen, greeted the flyers and later accompanied them to the Bismarck hotel, where a dinner was given for them. The flyers will meet Mayor Cermak at 11:30 o'clock today and later will be guests at a luncheon in the Century of Progress administration building.

A delay of 45 minutes occurred before the flyers alighted from their ship, while Anthony Czarnecki, collector of customs and other customs officials went on board. Later it was explained that inspection had been waived, but the officials had wanted to see the ship.

Stench Bomb Is Hurled in Cleaning Shop Window

A small stench bomb, thrown through the front window of the Seventy-nine Cent Cleaners and Dyers, 2378 North Neva avenue, early yesterday, caused little damage and apparently was intended merely to drive trade from the shop, according to the police. No acid was contained in the bomb. The shop is owned and operated by Harry Besserer, 117 Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park.

Tennessee Judge Denies New Trial for Caldwell

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Judge Chester K. CANNON COMMITTEE HEARINGS EVIDENCE GOES TO PROSECUTOR

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—The senate committee hearings on the use of campaign funds by Bishop James Cannon Jr. were placed in the hands of District Attorney Leo A. Rover today.

Though Mr. Rover declined to discuss his plans, the transmission of the hearings to his office may point to two possible courses. It is possible that the whole case may be laid before the grand jury. Chairman Gerald P. Nye [radical Rep., N. D.] of the senate committee has already openly charged that the evidence shows that political funds intrusted to Bishop Cannon were diverted to his personal accounts.

The other possibility is that District Attorney Rover may confine himself to the question of whether or not Miss Ada L. Burroughs and the Rev. J. Sidney Peters, colleagues of the bishop in the anti-Smith Democratic committee in 1928, should be cited for contempt for refusing to testify before the senate committee.

In a letter accompanying the committee records Senator Nye volunteered to furnish any additional information required.

POLICE PRAISE RADIO AS BEST CRIME WEAPON

Report on Ten Months of Operation.

That the radio is the foremost weapon the police possess in combatting crime was the belief expressed yesterday in a detailed report from the police department submitted to Mayor Cermak. A total of 10,085 arrests were made as the result of 72,536 emergency calls over the police radio from Oct. 1, 1930, to July 31 of this year, the report revealed.

COMMISSIONER ALCOCK.

The figures on the police radio were compiled by Acting Commissioner Alcock and Frank A. Rafferty, radio engineer.

Radio alarms led to the arrest of 43 slayers in the ten months in which the radio has been in operation. The number of arrests for other crimes include 336 charged with assault; 443 burglars; 168 holdup men, and 107 in larceny cases. The radio also resulted in the recovery of 364 stolen automobiles.

The report stated that only 496 calls had been missed. From Oct. 1 to Dec. 31, 1930, the average response time on a call was 3.1 minutes, while from Jan. 1 to July 31 of this year the average was 2.84 minutes.

The use of the radio in the apprehension of criminals was introduced in Chicago by THE TRIBUNE and its radio station, W-G-N. After its success had been demonstrated the police department established its own broadcasting system.

"Radio is the only means of immediate communication or contact with mobile equipment such as squad cars," Engineer Rafferty said.

Wife Gets $200 a Month Pending Separation Trial

Harold M. "Where have you been all my life?"

When the right one comes along . . .

You wonder why you wasted time on the others!

This been-waiting-all-my-life feeling has hit millions of smokers, men and women both . . . when they broke open their first Chesterfield package and caught its more pleasing aroma . . . when they lighted their first Chesterfield and knew, that minute, that it was milder—not sharp or biting.

And after a few puffs, they knew that the taste was better. Here were the cigarettes they had always hoped for, and looked for.

Here were cigarettes that satisfy! Satisfy—that's the word that "fits."

The right tobaccos—the CHESTERFIELD kind of tobaccos, Domestic and Turkish—cured and aged, blended and cross-blended in the right way. Everything that goes into Chesterfield is the best that money can buy and that science knows about. The paper is just right. Everything about them is just right. Notice the difference.

They Satisfy . . . and—they're milder. Smoke as many as you like!

AYLES FLIES AT 207 MILE SPEED AT PLANE RACES

Exceeds World Record, but It's Unofficial.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Flying a one mile straight course in front of the national air races grand stand this afternoon, Lowell Bayles in his Gee Bee low wing monoplane, powered by a Wasp Jr. motor of 615 horse power, traveled faster than the world's speed record for land planes, favored by a twenty mile an hour wind, and surpassed the American record held by Lieut. Alford J. Williams with his average speed on two dashes.

Bayles flew the mile twice with the wind, and twice against it, making 237.287 and 186.853 miles an hour on the two down wind dashes and 264.9 and 207.540 miles an hour on the two dashes into the wind. His average for the four dashes was 267.342 miles an hour, as compared with the American land plane speed record of 266.59 miles an hour set by Lieut. Williams on a 100 kilometer course on Nov. 4, 1923.

Mark Not Official.

Bayles' fastest dash time, 286.852 miles an hour down wind, surpasses the world speed record for land planes, 283 miles an hour, set by Adjt. Boyer of France, but does not qualify for the record. The world's speed record for seaplanes is 357 miles an hour, set by Squadron Leader Orlebar on Oct. 13, 1929, after the Schneider cup race.

Bayles' dashes cannot be considered as establishing new records, because they were not made over the regulation three kilometer course.

Bayles announced his intention of attempting to break the world's speed record for land planes if arrangements can be made with officials of the National Aeronautical association.

Bayles flew the small yellow Gee Bee only fifty feet from the ground. The plane is powered by a Pratt & Whitney Wasp Jr., which is supercharged. As a result the motor's horse power is raised from 500 to an estimated 615 to 535.

Qualify for Thompson Trophy.

Bayles and Robert L. Hall flew their planes over the mile course to qualify for the Thompson trophy race. The qualifying speed is 175 miles an hour, which Hall easily exceeded at an average speed of 213.867 miles an hour for the four dashes.

Roy O. Howard, Chicago air mail pilot who won $5,750 in prizes at the races at Chicago last year in his Gee Bee low wing monoplane, this taking first place in five races and third in two, qualified for the Thompson trophy race with an average speed of 178.679 miles an hour, just over the mark. His small white plane, dubbed the Pylon Polisher, is only a 90 horse power Gypsy motor but he is known as a foxy racer and it was widely assumed he did not use all the speed his plane has in today's qualifying dashes.

Army Flyer Jumps into Lake.

Lieut. Thayer Olds, pilot on an experimental Boeing fighter in the 36th squadron of the First pursuit group from Selfridge field, Mich., jumped from his plane at an altitude of 500 feet when he was forced to leave the squadron formation by terrific vibration in the left wing, and came down safely fifty feet from shore in Lake Erie, while his plane crashed on a sidewalk of West Lake road, fashionable residential district of Rocky River, Cleveland suburb.

Breaks Leg in Glider.

Early this morning, before the air race session began, Oliver Merard, member of the Lakewood Gliding club, broke his left leg when the shock on his glider jammed and the glider crashed from a height of twenty-five feet.

John H. Livingston of Aurora, Ill., who has won more race events than any other man in America, won another $500 first prize this afternoon in a thirty mile race for men flying planes with less than 650 cubic inch motor displacement. The three first planes were taken by Warner powered monoplanes, Vernon Roberts of Moline, Ill., taking second prize of $360 and Peter Brooks of Hicksville, L. I., third prize of $240.

Livingston also took a second prize of $60 in the men's dead stick landing contest, without the use of brakes, losing to Elden Cessna, flying a Cessna, A. W. Warner powered. Cessna stopped eleven inches from the mark and Livingston one foot.

Mayor Orders Hoover Sign Off Haven for the Needy

Mayor A. J. Cermak yesterday ordered the removal of the "Hotel Hoover" sign from the entrance to the old Criminal courts building, Dearborn street and Austin avenue, which is being used as a haven for jobless men. Mayor Cermak declared that he regarded the writing of the name on the wall "as an insult to our President and an act of disloyalty to our country." He added: "The city and organized charities in Chicago are ready and willing to feed the hungry and lodge the homeless who are gentlemanly."

ZEP HOPS 5,000 MILES; LANDS IN BRAZIL "ON TIME"

Makes Flight in 72 Hours at 72 M. P. H.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin landed here tonight at 6:10 o'clock [4:10 Chicago time], within 20 minutes of the time estimated by Dr. Hugo Eckener when he started from Germany on the nonstop flight of about 5,000 miles.

The distance was covered in exactly 72 hours, at an average speed of 72 miles an hour, Dr. Eckener said. The governor and his staff boarded the dirigible shortly after it arrived and welcomed Commander Eckener, the crew, and the 13 passengers, who were then taken in automobiles to hotels.

The Graf is scheduled to leave here Thursday evening for Friedrichshafen, Germany, on the return trip. Today's flight was the second the ship had made to Brazil. It was hailed in wireless messages to Dr. Eckener from officials here as "opening a new route and holding forth great prospects for Brazil."

Poised for Pacific Hop.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 1.—Don Moyle and C. E. Allen, California flyers, today announced that they will probably take off on a nonstop flight to Seattle on Thursday. The plane successfully underwent speed tests at the Tachikawa airfield this afternoon and during the trial spin developed a speed of 111 miles per hour.

A final test will be made tomorrow morning. The flyers said they were confident they would receive a permit by noon. Upon receiving it they expect to fly to Samushiro beach, northern Japan, from where they will take off.

While here, the couple are the guests of American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes.

BELGIAN GOES ON TRIAL IN ITALY AS FOE OF FASCISM

Accused of Smuggling In Propaganda.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 1.—Five years' imprisonment was demanded by the prosecutor for Prof. Leo Moulin, 26 year old Belgian, who was put on trial today before the special military tribunal for defense of the state on charges of anti-Fascist activities. He is alleged to have smuggled letters and subversive propaganda into Italy last spring in a false bottomed trunk.

Four Italian accomplices from Milan, Turin, and Monza are on trial with him and verdicts are expected early tomorrow morning.

Moulin's arrest last April aroused much agitation in Socialist and student circles in Belgium, and manifestations there were met with counter-manifestations in Rome.

Belgian Officials Present.

The tribunal was presided over today by Lieut. Gen. Cristini. Attending the trial were the Belgian ambassador, Comte de la Faille de Leverghem, the councillor of the Belgian embassy, and the Belgian Socialist deputy, Broukere.

Moulin admitted today that he had carried letters and propaganda from Belgium to Italy which, he said, had been intrusted to him by an anti-Fascist, Giovanni Bassanesi, leader of a movement called "Justice and Liberty." Moulin, however, claimed he did not know the significance of his act. He insisted he was the dupe of Italian anti-Fascists in Belgium.

On his arrival in Milan, he admitted, he delivered the letters and subversive pamphlets to a lawyer named Albasini of Monza, who is said to be Bassanesi's agent in Italy.

Seized Trying to Escape.

Moulin attracted police attention when he was seen constantly in the company of Albasini, who is known as an anti-Fascist. He was arrested when trying to escape back across the frontier.

Bassanesi made a spectacular airplane flight over Milan some months ago, dropping subversive pamphlets from his plane. He was arrested by the Swiss authorities when he made a forced landing, and was given a light fine.

Joliet Convict Attacks Guards with Knife; Shot

Fred Pondexter, 23 years old, a Negro convict serving forty years for a murder in Chicago, was shot and wounded twice yesterday after assaulting guards in the old state penitentiary at Joliet. The guards were taking him from a cell to a place in solitary confinement when Pondexter pulled a knife and slashed at his captors. A tower guard, 100 yards away, shot him in the left hip and left hand. Pondexter was sent to prison in August of 1928.

CHICAGO HOMES TO GET NATURAL GAS IN 2 WEEKS

City Asks Reduced Rate Pending Hearings.

The new mixture of natural and artificial gas will probably be turned on in Chicago homes within the next two weeks. Permission of the Illinois commerce commission is expected before Sept. 15, when hearings are scheduled to begin on the question of establishing a new low rate to the consumers.

Mayor Cermak and the corporation counsel's office took steps yesterday towards insuring a temporary reduction in the gas rates pending a final decision on a fair rate.

The commission last week suspended for four months the proposed rate reduction of 3½ per cent offered by the gas company. The city in its petition will insist that this reduction should be allowed pending a final disposition of the case.

"With the gas company willing to reduce rates, there is no reason why the people should not have immediate benefit of the reduction," said Mayor Cermak. "We hope that a greater reduction will finally be ordered by the commerce commission. But as soon as the new mixture is turned on, a reduction in rates should be allowed.

"The hearings will last a long time, perhaps years, and it would hardly be fair to make the consumers suffer for this prolonged litigation. Let them at least have the benefit now of what the gas company is willing to offer."

May Ask Closed Border Against Juarez Gambling

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 1.—(AP)—The board of directors of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce announced today that unless gambling in Juarez ceases the board will recommend to the treasury department that the international bridge between El Paso and Juarez be closed between 7 p. m. and 6 a. m. The present closing hour is midnight.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MR. KAHN SAYS A MOUTHFUL.

Views of Mr. Otto Kahn upon American conditions and problems in this period of depression, expressed while in the city on his annual visit to the Ravinia opera, contained as much meat as anything we have had from our leaders of finance. Mr. Kahn is not only one of the ablest of American bankers but a citizen of great public spirit and varied interest. His survey is the product of experience in American and international finance and business, and of intelligent concern for all the elements of American solidity and progress, social and economic.

We think his most important observation is upon the current complaint against the waste and ruthlessness of competition, a socialistic theory which is not much concerned with the balance of facts. Mr. Kahn remarks that our anti-trust laws are largely responsible for excesses of competition which an enlightened self-interest in private enterprise has been making largely ineffectual efforts to correct. We have no intention, as Mr. Kahn points out, to submit to unrestrained monopoly, but in trying to protect ourselves from this danger we have run into its opposite. There is nothing in our present system of regulation of private enterprise that so much needs sensible reconsideration and correction as our laws suppressing proper voluntary action to restrain forms of competition that are wasteful and demoralizing in production and distribution. Now that we are so conscious of the results of the unbalanced productive activities which the pressure of forced competition have brought about we ought to be ready for the substitution of a more intelligent system of regulation. It is not the lack of regulation of private enterprise but ill-advised regulation that has encouraged the excesses of which we are now rather tardily complaining. It is not more government that America needs but less and of a much more intelligent quality.

We have also to thank Mr. Kahn for some sensible comment on the prohibition experiment, the serious evils it has spread throughout the country, and a practical suggestion for reducing taxation through repeal of the dry law. "By repealing the experiment," Mr. Kahn asserts, "we should raise vast revenues for the government, we should help agriculture and decrease unemployment, not to speak of the hideous brood of bootleggers and gangsters and of other grievous items in the long register of prohibition and Volstead ills."

NATIVITY AND CRIME.

The conclusions of another group of investigators for the Wickersham commission in regard to the racial factor in crime call for some cautionary comment. Statistics can be and indeed usually are interpreted according to some bias, deliberate or unconscious. In this case the conclusion emphasized is that they reveal that the native born are responsible for more crime than the foreign born. That conclusion must not be taken for its face value.

If we are to draw any inferences worth while we must examine the term native. In general use the term is used with reference to Americans not merely of native birth but of some generations of American ancestry. In studying the racial factor the mere fact of birth in this country is of little weight. We realize that the first generation of immigrants pass through a trying period in which they often have lost the restraints of the social discipline under which their ancestors lived and have not yet adopted the mores of American social character. Their parents have come to a new country and live under conditions which are not expressive of the main current of American life, often in slums which are created by their own poverty and the demoralization of new adjustments. These conditions do not exist to any great extent in communities of native Americans, using that term as it should be used as meaning Americans of the older stocks and of established living under American conditions. In recent decades immigration has chiefly flowed into the cities, creating conditions, political and social, which are not generally characteristic of communities of settled native character. To assign criminal statistics of these city districts to American nativity gives an erroneous impression so far as the question of the racial factor is crime is to be usefully examined.

Another consideration, from the same point of view, is the high rate of crime among the Negroes, especially of certain districts of the south. This is of course native crime, even defining it in the sense of generations of American residence. It is the result of American conditions, but they are special conditions which do not bear upon the question of modern immigration or race infusion.

Unless these qualifications were taken into account, the conclusion of the report that our immigration policy "can safely be determined on general racial grounds" is not to be given much weight. We are willing to make some discount from the theory that the factor of race alone may be relied upon as determinant of immigration policy. What is sometimes ascribed to race is more properly ascribable to social conditions not only in the country from which the immigrant came but in the situation he finds or creates in this country. But it will take better digested findings than those of this report to overthrow a policy which is founded on a sound discrimination among national strains.

MR. JUSTICE JONES.

The state is to be congratulated by the election to the Supreme court of Judge Norman L. Jones of Carrollton. Whatever political or party implications may be drawn from the victory in the Second district, by a substantial majority, of a Democrat are of little moment as compared to the general benefit assured to Illinois in the service of a citizen of high character and a jurist of rare experience both in the trial court and in the Appellate. Judge Jones is young enough to carry the heavy burden of judicial work in our highest court of review and will bring to its decisions learning and good judgment. We hope his career will be as long as we are confident it will be useful and distinguished.

AN ASSIGNMENT FOR CHICAGO'S SCOTLAND YARD.

Three motion picture theaters in Chicago were bombed on Thursday night. They are among those involved in the controversy between the theater owners and the motion picture operators' union.

In the Chicago police department some months ago there was organized a bureau which was dubbed Chicago's Scotland Yard. It was created for the purpose of solving crimes in which persistent and unrelenting pursuit seemed indicated. Ordinary crimes of violence and passion were to be handled in the usual fashion, but the detectives attached to the new bureau were to stick with an investigation until the criminals were caught and the evidence against them was complete.

These latest bombings are precisely the sort of crimes for which the bureau was created. Bombing is a crime seldom punished in this community. That is why it is commonly resorted to by racketeers of many sorts. In these latest cases there can be little doubt of the agency which had the bombs thrown or of the motive. All that the detectives need do is obtain the evidence which will prove what is already obvious.

That evidence may be difficult to get, but it is not to be doubted that a persistent search can reach it. Ordinary police methods have proved almost if not entirely unavailing against bombers. The new bureau should be put to work on the moving picture outrages. If the detectives assigned to the detail fail, it will be because they are incompetent.

ARMS AND THE LEAGUE.

Monsieur Paul-Boncour, chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the French chamber of deputies, suggests that all the military and naval forces of the world be put under the control and direction of the league of nations. This will not have the enthusiastic support of Lord Beaverbrook and others who, if less frank, agree with him that the league of nations is a branch of the French foreign office. It will be approved by our American leaguists, but what will be the reaction of Americans who like to think of our state department as a branch of the British foreign office we would not venture to predict.

EMPLOYMENT, RUSSIAN STYLE.

Among the admirers of the soviet plan and critics of planless America, the fact of present unemployment seems to be taken as a conclusive demonstration of the superiority of the former. Here is planless America with millions of men and women looking vainly for work, and there is Russia with its plan and everybody working.

No doubt it reveals a sorry condition of conscience, but the contrast is not so persuasive with our 100 per cent American mind. In the first place, a survey of actual conditions will show that except for a small percentage the American unemployed are better fed, better clothed, and better off in all essentials of physical condition than the mass of Russian employed. And in the second place, we can put all our unemployed to work if they will submit to the same terms as are imposed by the bolshevik government upon the Russian workers. Very few of our unemployed would pay that price, and they would be foolish indeed if they did.

Editorial of the Day

THE DUTY OF THE INDIVIDUAL.

[The Illinois State Journal, Springfield.]

"For many years," says Peter A. Waller of Kankakee, "I have talked of the responsibility of the individual citizen, and unless he does his duty in the state and nation we are going to be worse off than we are now because the cost of government is getting unbearable, and unless the proper authorities take steps to reduce the cost of state and national government, taxes are going to eat us all up—not only the farmers but the manufacturers as well."

Mr. Waller speaks with truth and with understanding. None the less, the individual citizen will be disposed to resent the indictment. For many years the individual has been taught that his personal responsibilities are the concern of government. Little by little the state and its constantly increasing municipalities have been assuming his duties and undertaking to do for him things he ought to do for himself. He is so far habited to dependence that he doesn't relish being reminded of duties.

Government has made itself a valet to the individual—the sort of valet who fixes his own pay and feeds his family and improvident relations at the boss' dining table. By no means a competent valet, government has been managed thus far to get away with the rôle and create the impression that sloppy ministrations outside the domain it was created to serve are necessary.

Mr. Waller realizes that this extraordinary service of government is unnecessary and wasteful. We fear, however, that he will find some difficulty inducing his fellow taxpayers to join him with more than the feeble protest:

"The service is rotten and the cost is outrageous, but we can't get along without it."

A RED HOT SERMON.

"A Louisiana Negro was telling a friend of a certain church service he had attended," said Lieut. Edwin Holden at the Army and Navy club.

"'De preacher wasn't feeling so good last Sunday,' he said, 'and so he made de stove preach de sermon.'

"'Made de stove preach?'

"'Yessuh, made it red hot from top to bottom and den tells de sinners to take a look at it and go to thinkin'.'"—New York Sun.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. W. M.

WELL, THE FARM BOARD SAYS the country will not buy up any more wheat or cotton for the purpose of holding up the price and helping the farmer. The board says it's come to this decision because it's discovered that it's no use. This noble experiment has cost us only five hundred million dollars, but the five hundred million dollars is well spent if it will convince us that a man cannot make himself taller by pulling up on his bootstraps. Five hundred million seems a lot of money to spend to find that out, but it seems we didn't know it before or we wouldn't have done it. Of course, it seems reasonable enough that the more you pull up on anything the higher you raise it. But the farm board's experiment seems to prove that when you're pulling up on your own bootstraps you give a downward pressure with your body that equalizes the pull upward that you're giving on your bootstraps. A lot of people have suspected this before, but now the farm board proves it. All we're afraid of now is that one of the many commissions down at Washington will shoot another five hundred million to prove that two and two, when properly added together, make four, or that it is colder in winter than in summer, or that what goes up must come down. Still, it's worth while to find these things out even if it does cost five hundred million bucks.

ON FINDING AN OLD VALENTINE.

Somebody sent you years ago when I was eight or nine,
A glad and gallant message in a gay red Valentine.
I don't know why I saved you, I'm sorry to confess,
Or why it was I treasured you and liked the others less.

My memory has improved with time, and now each souvenir
Has its own special meaning, but I regret, my dear,
That once when I was eight or nine, my fancy ran away,
I know I thought your name and face would always, always stay!

It might have been the black-eyed boy who sent it, still I think
It must have been the freckled one who used to sit and wink.
Then there was another who had red hair. . . . I forgot
We ever used to write glad notes . . . he sent it like as not.

But that of course was long ago, I'm only curious now,
I'd like to know the sender of the little crimson vow.
When I was eight or nine or ten it stood for something true,
And I've forgotten what it was. . . . Ah, dear, I wish I knew.

"HE WAS A GOOD HUSBAND," says Mrs. Powers, wife of the West Virginia wholesale murderer, "and a great help around the house." Which only proves that a man may help wash the dishes, give the canary its bath, take Fido for his constitutional around the block, crochet tidies, and do other helpful things around the home and yet be a very horrid person in the garage.

AND READING MORE of what Mrs. Powers said regarding her wifely opinion of Mr. Powers we find that she exclaimed in a burst of conjugal affection, "I sure do love that kid!" But when she said that the searchers had only exhumed five bodies in Mr. Powers' garage. If they find the fifty missing victims that Mr. Powers is said to have done away with we expect his devoted helpmeet will say of her spouse, "I'm just crazy about my big boy." In these degenerate days such wifely devotion is indeed both remarkable and truly touching.

—:—

MRS. POWERS' declaration of her deep regard for Mr. Powers illustrates how direct and simple we are today in expressing the thoughts that spring from away down deep in the human heart. When Juliet told of her love for Romeo she said:

Give me my Romeo; and, when he shall die,
Take him, and cut him out in little stars,
And he will make the face of heaven so fine,
And all the world will be in love with night,
And pay no worship to the garish day.

A very fine speech, but strangely flamboyant and insincere compared to Mrs. Powers' simple statement of her conjugal regard for her husband, "I sure do love that kid!"

"UNEMPLOYED NAME OLD JAIL 'HOTEL HOOVER.'"—The Trib. But maybe this is just more of the press agent work of the energetic secretaries of the President in their great propaganda campaign to humanize their chief. For, after all, what is more human than a jail in these days? So many of us are walking around with the great dread in our hearts that dry sleuths will slap us into a jail before sundown that we think jail all the time, and it has become very human indeed.

FATS AND HOT WEATHER DIETS.

SOMETHING within us makes fats and greases distasteful in hot weather. On the other hand, when man goes into regions of extreme cold he finds that he can eat fats almost like a native.

We know that fat contains almost twice as many calories, pound for pound, when compared with starchy foods. This holds true for sweets and lean meats as well. A man eating an ounce of fat meat would get more than twice the energy or heat from it that he would get from a like amount of sugar or lean roast beef. The fact that fats and greases are so readily burned to make heat is enough reason for excluding them from the hot weather diet.

Drs. Klingler, Geiger, and Mueller offer an additional reason for not eating these foods in summertime. When the diet of young rats included 20 to 35 per cent olive oil it was found the animals stopped growing, the coats became rough, and there were other indications that they were not thriving. They lost their appetites and presently began to lose weight. The symptoms were those of a deficiency in vitamins. While this condition sometimes developed at other seasons, it was especially manifest when the air was hot and the humidity was low.

The investigators found that they could overcome some of the effects of too much fat in the diet by giving some food rich in vitamin B. The one they used was yeast. One of their conclusions was that giving food overly rich in olive oil in hot weather produced a degree of vitamin starvation which was contributed to by the effects of heat.

They agree with Arnold that heating the skin unduly changes the circulation of blood in the upper part of the digestive tract. This serves to lower the antiseptic powers of the stomach and the tract which continues from it. Bacteria taken in with food and drink, ordinarily killed by the juices of this region, survive and stand some chance of causing infection when they get into more favorable territory. In this way hot weather increases the danger of infection with typhoid and diarrhea microbes.

Dr. Klingler and his associates think it also causes a diet too rich in olive oil to destroy vitamins, or to make the system need more of them than the food ordinarily supplies. The vitamin shortage causes appetite to fail and growth to stop.

BITTEN IN THE GRASS.

Daily Reader writes:

1. How can one tell a snake bite?
2. What is first aid for any bite—snake, spider, or whatnot?
3. Recently I was standing in tall grass and felt something bite my ankle. I noted a small wet spot on my stocking. The skin beneath showed a red spot and four tiny holes like pin pricks. There was no blood and no discoloration. On the fourth day the bite area was red, but it was not sore or swollen. On the fifth, blisters appeared. On the eighth day I awoke faint, dizzy, and nauseated, and my ankle was red. I was told that a snake bite shows two pin pricks and does not swell. The opinion was offered that a snake bit me twice in quick succession. A checkered snake was seen in that grass a few days before I was bitten.

REPLY.

1. To be bitten by an unseen snake is a common occurrence in a snake country. About one-half the people who are bitten never see the snake before, during, or after the bite. An experienced person can tell that the case is one of snake bite by the size and spacing of the pricks. It is possible to judge of the size of the snake by the size and spacing of the pricks. If the snake is poisonous there is general shock, and the wound may ooze blood. The wound area swells quickly and may become discolored.
2. If there is reason to suspect bite by a poisonous snake, slash the wound with a knife. Suck it with the mouth, or with a cup. Apply a tourniquet properly. If the bite is not that of a poisonous snake, no treatment is required.
3. My guess is that you were bitten by a field mouse. If it was a snake that bit you, it was not poisonous. It may have bitten you twice, but I doubt it, though four pricks from a snake would mean two bites. You had no reaction until the fifth day, and no constitutional reaction until the eighth day. That rules out bite by a poisonous reptile or insect. It is probable that the teeth of the biter carried in some infection and this required several days of incubation before causing trouble. Rat bite fever acts that way, as do some other infections.

THAT SEEMS ENOUGH.

H. H. W. writes: Will you please advise how to keep sanitary ice trays and dividers?

Last year I had a severe case of cystitis from some impurity reaching the ice cubes, and this condition arose while I was a patient in a hospital. This summer I am keeping house and all that I do to treat trays and dividers is to boil them once a week in soda water. Is this sufficient care?

REPLY.

I think you are doing enough.

NEED REPAVING.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—[Friend of the People.]—I have been living in this vicinity for several years and can firmly say that 70th street east from South Park avenue to the New York Central railroad has never once been repaired and Eberhart avenue from 69th to 71st street is also in a very serious condition. The holes have caused many broken springs and tire trouble. Will thank you to look after this matter. T. F.

The pavements in streets mentioned by the writer are old macadam streets, paved years ago, and are now beyond repair. However, repairs have been made from time to time until this year, but further work would be a waste of funds. Streets should be repaved by special assessment and it is suggested that the writer request the alderman of the ward to take necessary steps to this end. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

LEASE IS BINDING.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Although working at the time of signing a one year lease for our apartment, I am now unemployed. 1. If I find it necessary to move can I be held to this lease until its expiration date? 2. Can my car, which I own, be affected? 3. Would placing its ownership in my wife's name make it impossible for the landlord to touch it in any way? 4. Would my landlord be able to garnishee my wife's weekly salary? The lease is in my name. A. E. C.

1. Yes.
2. Yes.
3. Such a transfer by way of gift could be set aside as being in fraud of existing creditors.
4. Rent accruing while you are occupying the premises would be a family expense and, as such, would be collectible from your wife. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DEPENDS ON AGREEMENT.

Des Plaines, Ill., Aug. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I have a second mortgage on a house where the insurance has just run out. 2. On renewal of insurance do you have to take out tornado insurance and fire insurance? 3. I have the fire insurance for $3,300 and the man holding the first mortgage insists that I have to take out the same amount in tornado insurance. Is this right? B.

1. We assume you mean that you own property subject to a mortgage rather than that you own the mortgage.
2. Not unless you have so agreed.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 2, 1915.

CHICAGO.—The Chicago Teachers' federation was declared an outlaw by the board of education. By a vote of 11 to 9 the trustees passed the Loeb resolution ordering the 3,000 or more members of the federation to resign from the organization forthwith on penalty of fine, suspension, or dismissal. Margaret Haley, business representative of the federation, declared the teachers will fight to the last ditch. Trustee John J. Sonsteby declared the rule will bring anarchy into the school system.

NEW YORK.—That it is the hope of Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador at Washington, that President Wilson take action looking to the reëstablishment of peace in Europe was learned here. The envoy has made known his ideas to the kaiser in a message the purport of which was: "In my opinion peace could be achieved at this time only by the influence of the President of the United States." The kaiser is credited with desiring to end the war now while he is an acknowledged victor and is able to exact the price of triumph in the readjustment that will be sanctioned by the peace congress.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The submarine controversy between Germany and the United States has been ended with complete victory for this country. Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, acting on instructions from Berlin, called on Secretary of State Lansing and informed him that Germany is ready to concede before the world the American contention with respect to the conduct of its submarine warfare against merchant vessels.

LONDON.—The Russian fortress of Lutsk, 35 miles east of the Galician border, a modern stronghold erected within recent years to ward off possible Austrian aggression, was captured by Austro-Hungarian and German troops. It is the tenth Russian fortress to be captured since the fall of Warsaw on Aug. 5.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 2, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Vice President Theodore Roosevelt talked for half an hour on "The Strenuous Life" at Trinity Reformed church. He also made an address at the First Methodist church, after which he left for Minneapolis.

CHICAGO.—"Captain" Streeter and fifteen of his faithful followers marched into the "District of Lake Michigan." They did not attempt, however, to break down the fences around the property but contented themselves with camping at the foot of Superior street in the Lake Shore drive. It was just as well perhaps that they did not attempt to invade the property, for men armed with rifles, and vowing they would shoot the first man that entered, stood guard all night.

CHICAGO.—The hosts of organized labor will celebrate Labor day today by a big parade starting from Jackson and Ashland boulevards at 8:30 a. m. More than 100 unions have asked for places in the line of march.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPT. 2, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Garfield is no better and there is some doubt whether or not he is worse. He certainly has gained no strength and the public is beginning to lose confidence in the constantly repeated story that to maintain his ground is to gain. The bulletin of Secretary Blaine to Minister Lowell at London was of a melancholy nature and caused considerable apprehension. The day was hot beyond anything remembered in Washington for September. At 3:30 o'clock this morning the President was sleeping and the physicians were dozing at his bedside. The question of removing Mr. Garfield from the White House to some other city was again discussed by the physicians, but no action was decided upon.

SPRINGFIELD.—The most notable social event Springfield society has known for several years was the marriage of Charles N. Hickox of Chicago and Miss Kate J. Chatterton of Springfield which occurred at St. Paul's Episcopal church with the Rev. E. A. Larrabee officiating. A brilliant reception followed the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Chatterton and the display of presents was the most elegant ever seen in this city.

CHICAGO.—Philo Morehaus died at his home, 1400 Wabash avenue, and his death removes another whose life and work constitute a part of the commercial prosperity of the last thirty years. He was born in New York in 1812 and at the age of 21 came west in the saddle, and located at Elkhart, Ind. After some years he organized the First National bank there and was its president for many years. Long before this, however, his power and influence was known and recognized in business circles from Chicago and New York. In addition to his work of reorganizing the Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana railroad, after he came to Chicago, he engaged with H. H. Porter and Jesse Spalding in an extensive lumber business in which he accumulated a fortune.

REAL ESTATERS IN HISTORY.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—The editorial the other day on realty subdivisions, high pressure salesmanship, and the depression might have been more comforting if it had suggested the fact that the high pressure boys are no novelty at all.

If we pass over Biblical references to the Canaan realty development, described as "a land flowing with milk and honey," we can comfort ourselves by the fact that the settlers in Massachusetts Bay colony were high pressured about the land and the climate.

That old song about them, which asks the question, "What sought they thus afar?" that was in the school song books, is answered by Roland Green Usher's quotations describing a mild climate, suitable to vineyards and ease.

John Randolph of Roanoke was disgusted because congress, through a committee of investigation, took so mild a view of land sharks and their high pressure stuff, while the redoubtable Daniel Webster, in his reply to Hayne, was speaking on a proposal for restriction on the opening of government land in the west. Mr. Hayne was for opening the land and the New Englanders were finding it inconvenient, because factory hands were moving out, and that had an effect on wages. Mr. Hayne cited New England's coldness to "Mr. Madison's war" [1812], and Mr. Webster replied, with a finger pointing to Lexington and Concord. The western migration continued.

In early Chicago realty high pressure booms and cholera epidemics alternated to provide excitement for over fifty years.

The high pressure salesmen hereabouts are older than the buggy ride; they go back to the oxcart. J. C. C.

THE MOTHER OF WESTERN UNIVERSITIES.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Permit me to correct a misstatement made in James O'Donnell Bennett's very interesting interview with Dr. Walter Dill Scott regarding Northwestern university. He quotes Dr. Scott as saying that when Northwestern university was founded in 1850 "never up to that time, and later, had an academic degree been conferred west of Chicago."

Throughout the west and southwest, St. Louis university has, for over a century, been acknowledged the oldest university west not only of Chicago but the Alleghenies as well. Established as a college by the Society of Jesus in 1818, its first academic degrees were conferred in 1822. It received its charter as a full fledged university in 1832 and as early as 1834 conferred the degree of master of arts. Its college of medicine was established in 1836, its college of law in 1842, its school of divinity in 1844. Today, with an enrollment of more than six thousand students, the fourth generation of many pioneer families are attending this "mother of the universities of the west."

WHERE TAXES ARE TAXES.

Centreville, Mich., Aug. 29.—Let me say that you Chicago and La Crosse taxpayers are mere pikers. Here in this town our taxes were $5.35 per $100 valuation, and our valuation twice as high as we could dispose of the property for. This, of course, includes state taxes.

F. W. KEASBY.

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS.

Old Bennington, Vt., Aug. 28.—The New York papers of yesterday printed accounts of the inauguration of a movement by certain influential business men of Chicago to wage a systematic war against the increasing tendency of government to enter into competition with its citizens in industry and business. Will you permit me space in which to express my gratification at this inauguration of what I believe will prove to be the most significant and influential movement in the politics of our time?

Such men as Charles A. Wilson, president of the Chicago Live Stock exchange, and Bernard W. Snow, with their associates, are to be congratulated for the enterprise, vision, and courage which led them to organize the Federation of American Business Men. More power to them! The nation has sorely needed such a movement for a long time. We have gone much too far in the direction of paternalism and communism, narrowing the sphere of individual opportunity and individual responsibility and gradually paralyzing the very nerve centers of progress.

Government in industry and business means, universally, bad business and bad government. There is not a reputable economist anywhere on earth who will contend that the frightfully expensive farm board has helped the American farmer the least bit, or done anything but harm to agriculture and imposed useless burdens upon the taxpayers generally. The same may be said of every other experiment of substituting government enterprise for private enterprise. If we are to escape the perils of financial disaster such as that which has brought Germany and Great Britain to their lamentable depths, we must give up our foolish pursuit of ways which have brought those nations to their plight. Let none mistake the fact that England's position today is the logical result, clearly foreseen by sound economists and warned against in vain, of adding to government functions and responsibilities for which it was never intended and is wholly unfitted.

For a long time I have been urging in magazines and newspapers in which I could secure a hearing, that our business men ought to bestir themselves and fight against government competition with private enterprise, which is always unfair competition and, likewise, always attended by economic and political demoralization. I hope that the movement launched in Chicago will be successful and will spread to every part of the nation. There could be no better issue upon which to unite the progressive and genuinely liberal forces of the nation in the forthcoming presidential campaign. For the good of both government and business get the government out of business. JOHN SPARGO.

HORSES AND HATS.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—The new style hats are very smart on some people, and if you don't happen to be one of these people, why complain about it? The suggestion that riding habits and horses be given with every hat sold is utterly ridiculous, as the new hats do not suggest horses, as A. W. seems to think.

MISS VIRGINIA GREENFIELD.

THE NEW HAT.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—I surely felt like a jackass when I tried on an Empress Eugenie. Imagine the new hat on a full moon, snub nosed Irish face! Off the face the style was bad enough, but the new hats are harder to wear unless one has perfect features. Yours for bigger and better hats.

AUTO DEATHS FEW AS DRIVERS OBEY MILWAUKEE LAW

Only 53 Are Killed in '31 by Motor Crashes.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—In this city without a state [illegible] law, but a national reputation for law enforcement, the death [illegible] motor vehicle accidents is less than a third of Chicago's rate when considered in proportion to automobile registration, and two-thirds of Chicago's rate when considered in proportion to population.

These statistics attracted the attention of the World's Fair traffic committee headed by Sidney Gorham.

Miles Barton, traffic engineer of the Chicago Motor club, was sent here to learn why it is much safer to drive an automobile in Milwaukee than in Chicago. His study is to be used in an effort to reduce the hazard for the thousands of motorists who will visit Chicago in 1933.

Reason for Difference.

"There is a decided difference," said Mr. Barton, "between a Milwaukee motorist and a Chicago driver in his attitude toward traffic regulations and traffic policeman. Beyond doubt, this is the primary reason for the difference in motor death rates in the two cities.

"In Chicago, drivers slide through stop signs when there is no policeman looking. Motorists dash through intersections with the change of traffic lights. Even where there are policemen on the corner, the Chicago driver steps on the gas when the officer starts to raise the whistle.

"In Milwaukee, stop signs are respected. The police make arrests for each violation and the tickets for the habitual violator are not fixed by a policeman or precinct captain without the defendant appearing in court. At the corners protected by lights, the amber is obeyed as a signal for traffic in both directions to halt for a few seconds while the intersection is cleared of vehicles and pedestrians.

Enforce Traffic Rules.

"The Milwaukee traffic policeman does not permit cars to move in the new direction of traffic before the intersection is cleared of cross traffic nor before pedestrians are safely out of the vehicular lanes.

"The motorists know that the traffic officers enforce regulations impartially, courteously, and firmly and that an arrest slip can't be fixed."

In the first seven months of 1931 there were 53 deaths from automobile accidents in this city of 578,000, as compared with 521 deaths in Chicago with its 3,500,000 population. In this same period there were 74 fatal automobile accidents in Milwaukee county, which has 168,000 automobiles, as compared with 660 deaths in Cook county with its 500,000 automobiles.

Progressive Timing for Sights.

"Another factor," said Mr. Barton, "is that Milwaukee has a large portion of its boulevards with a progressive timing for its lighting system, such as has been advocated for Michigan avenue, but which has been blocked by the south park board. On Michigan avenue, under the present simultaneous timing of the lights, drivers in a hurry step on the gas to make as many lights as possible before being stopped by a red.

On Wisconsin avenue here, for example, the cars move in a fairly uniform rate of thirty miles an hour because to drive faster or slower means an avoidable stop for a red light. The lights change for red to green on approaching intersections by driving thirty miles an hour."

"Accidents have been reduced," said Howard F. Ilgner, superintendent of electrical service for the city, "and cross traffic and pedestrians have been aided in crossing the boulevards without undue delays through the installation of the progressive timing system."

FOSHAY AND SIX AIDS GO ON TRIAL; MAIL FRAUDS IS CHARGE

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 1.—(AP)—A man who developed companies valued at $30,000,000 after family reverses forced abandonment of an art career, went on trial today charged with using the mails to defraud.

WILLIAM B. FOSHAY.

He is W. B. Foshay, whose enterprises, including public utility, industrial banking, hotel transportation and office building projects, found him operating in 14 states, Canada, Mexico, Honduras, and Nicaragua before they entered receivership nearly two years ago.

On trial with him in federal District court, where selection of jurors began after Judge J. W. Molyneaux overruled a defense motion for dismissal of the jury panel, are H. H. Henley, R. J. Andrus, H. E. McGinty, P. V. Mabry, H. F. Welch, and C. W. Salisbury. All were officers of the largest Foshay firms, the W. B. Foshay company, the Public Utilities Consolidated corporation, and the Foshay Building corporation, whose most ambitious project was the 32 story local Foshay tower, completed here a short time before the receiverships.

PROBE SHOOTING OF POLICEMAN IN FOREST PRESERVE

An investigation by the city and forest preserves police departments was being made yesterday into the shooting of a forest preserve policeman by a city policeman in a so called "lovers' lane" at 95th street and Wolf road Monday night.

At the Little Company of Mary hospital, where Jack Heath, the wounded policeman, was taken, it was said his wounds were not considered serious yesterday. The bullet passed through his right shoulder.

Conflicting stories of the shooting were told. Policeman William Cleary of the Stanton avenue station, who did the shooting, said he was with his girl and in his parked car. He said a man emerged from the bushes and that he fired when the man started to run. Heath declared the shooting occurred when he warned Cleary to turn on his light.

Cleary worked his regular tour of duty last night after making a detailed statement to Capt. Frank Matchett. The statement will be forwarded this morning to the commissioner of police. Charles G. Sauers, superintendent of the forest preserves, is also making an investigation.

HARDING TO OPEN HAVEN FOR STRAY G. O. P. SURVIVORS

But What to Call It Is a Political Puzzle.

BY PARKE BROWN.

George F. Harding, one of the few Chicago Republican leaders active these days, intends to open headquarters in the near future for ward committeemen and others who share his political sympathies. It probably will be in the City Hall Square building, and will take over some of the functions of the regular county committee offices closed a month ago for lack of funds.

It is conceded by all factions that the Republicans need some sort of a gathering place, but it is difficult to determine just what sort of a headquarters it should be. It can't very well be called the county committee headquarters, because Mr. Harding and his friends are at outs with County Chairman B. W. Snow. Also, Mr. Harding has refused to undertake running the entire county or even the entire city for his party. To call it the Emmerson headquarters would be paradoxical, as Gov. Emmerson is a dry and this is to be a meeting place for wets.

May Be Nameless.

Under these conditions the headquarters may remain nameless—just a suite of rooms with a number—unless some one can think up a name.

But word that such a haven was to be opened to the homeless Republican chiefs and sub-chiefs caused cheerful smiles around the corner of Clark and Randolph where regular debates are staged on the question whether the party has gone completely to the dogs. Even if it means getting into the Emmerson wagon, where Harding is—at least so long as the question whether the governor will seek another term is unsettled—a substantial majority of the regular committeemen are expected to rally to the new center.

Has a Limited Program.

Mr. Harding says he believes the two dry congressmen from Cook county, Morton D. Hull and Carl D. Chindblom, should be replaced with men who represent the wet sentiments of their districts. He expresses hope that county harmony may be arranged on a slate centering around the two county officials whose terms expire next year, State's Attorney Swanson, Deneen man, and Circuit Clerk Wallace, a Brundage lieutenant. Beyond these two matters he has no well defined political program.

Despite his willingness to open a headquarters because one is needed, Mr. Harding is reluctant to assume the reins as "the leader" in city and county Republicanism. His position is that he will take care of his south side wards but that he will not step over to the north or west sides.

Mr. Harding has made it plain since his return from Europe that he is not "handling" Cook county for Gov. Emmerson. The governor, it is said, is picking his own allies among ward committeemen and the negotiations are being handled by President James of the west park board.

PEACH HARVEST IN MICHIGAN TO BRING TIDE OF PROSPERITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Gov. Brucker of Michigan is not to be outdone by Gov. Emmerson of Illinois in the matter of promoting interest in peaches. He announced today to the growers of the state, whose headquarters are in the Twin Cities of Berrien county, that he would hop over to Chicago from Lansing by plane Friday afternoon, there to broadcast to the world the oncoming Wolverine peach harvest. And he will proclaim Sept. 6 to 15 as officially Michigan Peach week.

JOSEPH McKEE.

Following on the heels of Illinois and Indiana peaches, the Michigan crop of one and a half million bushels is expected to pour into Chicagoland in another week, picked off the trees just the day before they fill the city markets.

Not only will the growers who last year had no peaches whatever be harvesting the golden fruit to turn into cash, but employment has been contracted for the expert pickers and packers, giving some 150,000 Michigan people employment for several weeks in the face of a long cold winter.

County agricultural agents, as well as farmers themselves, declare today that in the making of the boxes and baskets and the physical handling of bumper crops of fruits and vegetables unemployment of regular farm hands would be rare. They indicate that cities like Chicago will not need to worry about caring for idle farm hands from Michigan.

AUSTRO-GERMAN CUSTOMS UNION TO BE ABANDONED

GENEVA, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Germany, Austria, and France have reached a tentative agreement on the vexatious Austro-German customs union question and a joint statement by Germany and Austria shelving the plan will be made here. This was learned tonight.

The joint statement will be issued before the advisory opinion of The Hague court concerning the customs union proposal is made public. The statement probably will be delivered before the Pan-European commission Thursday or Friday.

The Hague court decision is expected to be made public Saturday, after which the league council will discuss the question, from which political dynamite will have been extracted. Dr. Curtius, German foreign minister, and Andre Francois-Poncet, French spokesman, conferred on the question tonight.

Post and Gatty Tell of 8-Day World Circling

Almost Blase in Beating Verne's Dream.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Around the World in Eight Days," by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty. [Rand McNally.] Published yesterday.

It was exactly 58 years ago that a man named Jules Verne wrote a book called "Around the World in Eighty Days," which has since come become a classic. M. Verne's contemporaries, however, looked on his literary materpiece as fantastic to the extreme, not because of its writing but because of its utter impossibility—circling the globe in eighty days was a matter for wild romancing, indeed his generation said. The hero of the book might as well bet half—or all—of his fortune on riding on a shell to the moon, they probably said.

A few years later Verne's book would have been called "A hop dream." But in less than sixty years science has found that circling the world in eighty days is not even romantic enough to fill the newspapers. There is, in fact, a "hop dream" that has become a reality and that has changed that unit to "eight."

In June of this year Wiley Post and Harold Gatty actually did go around the world in eight days [plus 15 hours and 51 minutes]. They "hopped" across two great oceans and three vast continents. They clipped the zero off of Jules Verne's eighty days which, in the last quarter of the nineteenth century, was a flight possible only to the mind of a romancer and not to be realized with the possibilities of a man's actual propelling of his body through space.

"Around the World in Eight Days" they both tell the story of the flight. They do it with the most genuine and delightful simplicity. To themselves they are no more heroes than is the man who runs a boiler in a factory is a hero; to each his own job in life. To the man of the air belongs the job of keeping his nose pressure right, to Post the job of piloting an airplane across land and over lands, through fogs and storms, and to Gatty the job of knowing where those lands and seas are under the fogs and storms and under his mental eye on them. Every man to his own work. That is the spirit of the book. There are no fireworks, no wise cracks, no emotions, no soul-searching. They were two men [anyone and thirty-eight years of age] who in their chosen profession had an opportunity of doing a little unusual work and they leaped [literally] at the chance. Gatty had the[illegible] navigation over the sea that he wanted to put into practice and then he wanted to be sure that he tested out aerial navigation had a real believer. Post wanted to test before test his airplane—beliefs about its reliability—more than he wanted to be sure of seeing the sun set twenty years later. Just part of their jobs, but right around the world, with no nonsense about its being heroic.

But if it wasn't heroic to them it was a thrill. Post says in his chapter on "How It All Began and Why" that "I got a kick out of my history book which shows a picture of Columbus looking out to sea. Columbus thought he was going around the world to Asia, and just that phrase, 'going around the world,' had a great thrill for me, especially as my view of the world was the flat horizon of the sea."

Gatty admits (in his first chapter) that "All my life I had been seeking adventure, and twice I had thought it was to make up for any possible disappointments of a lifetime, past or future."

Both of the two tells his story of the flight. Post writes a short history of his life; Gatty describes the log of the flight, and there is appended a facsimile of the historic pages of that document.

And the book has as an added attraction an introduction by Will Rogers which was evidently a speech of welcome or celebration or something that he gave upon the return of the two men to Oklahoma. In it he mentions a fact which neither of the two takes the trouble to call attention to. "They carried no Parachutes or Rubber lifeboats; they simply made it or ELSE," says Mr. Rogers. Post, Mr. Rogers declares, "was raised on a Texas 'norther' and weaned on an Oklahoma cyclone. So a little thing like fog looked like a clear day to him." And he goes on to say: "After he had flown over seven hundred hours the Government (on account of what they thought was a physical infliction by the loss of one eye) Did'ent want to give him a license. Now they got men looking and offering a bonus to One Eyed Pilots. You see, the that he lost saw the bad weather and the bad landing fields; this one just sees the good. He is a determined looking little Rascal, and when he says quit, You can bet there would be no more gas or no more air."

If you liked The Edwardians, you'll find the new V. Sackville-West novel...just out... even more beautiful and exciting. The title is "ALL PASSION SPENT." It is a best-seller in England. Just read and be thankful, my critics there.

U. S. THEATER OWNERS MEET IN THE EAST TO 'DEFLATE HOLLYWOOD'

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—The call to "deflate Hollywood" and keep down the price of movies to the public was sounded today. The Motion Picture Theaters Owners of America and the Allied States Exhibitors' association met here to protest against a producer's 10 per cent, perhaps more, increase in the price of films.

The two organizations represent virtually all of the 14,000 theaters in the country. Through David Barrist, Philadelphia theater owner, they spoke their collective minds.

Mr. Barrist, former publisher of theatrical journals, said the movie industry suffered from the big salaries paid to stars, directors, executives, and others in Hollywood and the sums expended for stories. He said Constance Bennett gets $30,000 a week from Warner Brothers, although, he added, that concern does not pay dividends.

"Our complaint," he said, "is that these high salaries are not being paid by the producers and their stockholders, but by the theatergoing public."

Defends Advanced Rentals.

New York, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Felix Feist, sales manager of Metro-Goldwyh-Mayer, defended the policy of his company in raising rental fees on pictures at a meeting today of protesting movie theater owners.

Feist denied his company's new rates, which allegedly demand from 20 to 30 per cent of gross theater receipts, were to be effective nationally and said the increases, wherever possible, would be "flexible" to meet local conditions.

"It is not our intention to hurt business," Feist asserted. "We have too little to gain by doing so. No sales policy can apply to all situations and our men were so instructed."

The increase in rates, the Metro official explained, was designed to raise the quality of his company's pictures. He pointed out Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has failed on twenty films to receive a return equal to 50 per cent on production costs.

The theater owners unanimously adopted a resolution protesting filming of "gangster pictures and pictures on indecent subjects."

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Is "The Woman Between" a good picture? I'll tell you what I think about it and you can draw your own conclusions.

Tempestuous Lily Daunta, who in "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" seemed one of the big finds of the screen world, has never given a repeat performance. This time she is uneasy and restrained in a rôle that, truth is, hadn't much to offer her. The entire story is obvious and the director didn't waste any too much thought over his job. Excellent acting by the supporting cast and sound and photography that click are the film's high lights.

The "woman between" is a Paris mannikin who marries a New York millionaire who buys her a swell dressmaking establishment in order that she may retain a dearly prized independence. Her hubby's daughter loathes Stepmamma, but old Whitcomb's son, young Whitcomb—well—that's where the "between" comes in.

See you tomorrow.

EXTRY!

Mr. Clarence Darrow set the police on the censors with the result that the "Adults Only" ban has been lifted from "The Mystery of Life" and children can now see it. Life DOES have its little compensations!

Friends Carry Mail 40 Years, Walking 120,000 Miles, Retire

Henry Serenson and Charles M. Nelson, both 63 years old, called the "Damon and Pythias" of the post-office department, retired from service on pensions yesterday at the Wicker Park postal substation, Division and Paulina streets. They had been employed as mail carriers for the last forty years. Each man walked an estimated 120,000 miles.

Mr. Serenson, who is married and resides at 1031 North Mozart street, and Mr. Nelson, a bachelor whose home is at 2637 North Kimball avenue, took the postal examination together. They entered the service on the same day, June 16, 1891. They have carried mail together on the northwest side since that time.

"Their retirement will be a great loss to the service," said Supt. Frank A. Krasgroch. "Their faithfulness is shown in the fact that they both have about sixty days' sick leave coming to them. That has piled up through the years." The superintendent presented the veteran carriers with gold watches, purchased by their mates in the station.

Chicago Schools Lack 61,977 Seats; Some Buildings Are Obsolete

When school opens Sept. 8 almost 62,000 children will be confronted with irregular and inadequate accommodations, it was revealed by Supt. Bogan yesterday. There is an actual seat shortage of 61,977 seats and many of the older buildings lack adequate toilet facilities, not to mention auditoriums, gymnasiums, and play yards, the report shows. The building program virtually is at a standstill for lack of money.

Of the total seat shortage that in the elementary grades totals 27,632, that in the junor high schools 2,000, and in the senior high schools 32,345. Regarding the old buildings which need remodeling, Supt. Bogan said: "It is difficult to teach a twentieth century curriculum in these nineteenth century structures."

It has been repeatedly urged by members of the school board that permission be obtained through the state legislature to issue $50,000,000 in bonds to raise money for immediate completion of the building program already planned. To this end nothing definite has been accomplished.

"Under the circumstances every effort is being made," Supt. Bogan said, "to accommodate the children as best we can by careful distributions and the full utilization of all available space. Even so it will be necessary in many cases to utilize the rotary shift organization and extended day sessions."

"A brighter side of the school situation appears," he said, "in the annual report of the Montefiore and Mosely schools for the adjustment of retarded and unruly boys. The six hour day and the twelve month session is giving these boys opportunity to overcome their difficulties and at considerable saving over the old method.

"August saw the graduation of 58 of these boys from the eighth grade, at least five months earlier than they could have accomplished the work under the regular schools, at a saving to the taxpayers of $2,443. And, having had specialized attention, under circumstances better suited to their problems, their attainments were undoubtedly better."

Housewives Urged to Take Stove Holiday

Restaurant Owners Cite Fall in Prices.

Housewives will be encouraged to suggest eating meals away from home, and mothers of men of the army, navy and marine corps will be assured their boys are well fed as the result of two movements concentrated in Chicago.

Directors of the National Restaurant association met in the Hotel Sherman yesterday to discuss plans for a national advertising campaign in newspapers and magazines. The question of such a campaign will be considered at the association convention in Buffalo Oct. 5.

The advertising appeal will be principally to women, urging them to take a holiday from the kitchen occasionally and eat downtown. This is based on the theory that it is the wife's fault, not the husband's, that the family doesn't dine away from home more frequently.

The army, navy and marines are following the Napoleonic maxim, "An army marches on its stomach," and are sending officers to a sort of dietetic war college in Chicago.

Concerning the new lower prices in most restaurants, J. O. Mills, Columbus, O., a past president of the National Restaurant association, said:

"Our association does not oppose low prices. Naturally, a housewife who knows that fruits are cheap, that meats are less, and milk and butter cost less, would regard it as an insult to her intelligence if restaurants offered her food at the same prices they did two years ago.

"On the other hand," he said, "we are opposed to price wars."

Members of the National Restaurant association celebrated, they would have told you, because for the first time in its history a Chicago man had been elected president. So to do honor to Bert Buck, whose meal a minute slogan is known wherever the sandwich is popular, John P. Harding, of corned beef and cabbage fame, and several other food experts planned a three hour banquet at the Union League club last night as a testimonial of the good faith of the restaurant fraternity.

But had the layman seen more than a hundred restaurateurs nibbling at fifty-seven varieties of hors d'oeuvres, not to mention four other courses, he would have suspected that, after all, restaurant men like to seat and talk about food. "This breast of chicken à la Maryland is delicious," observed one veteran of the fraternity, cutting into a tier of Virginia ham and breast of chicken topped with mushrooms.

Army, navy and marine corps officers ordered to Chicago to take a nine months' course that will qualify them as food experts will begin their studies here today when the Quartermaster Corps Subsistence school opens its 1931 session at the Quartermaster depot, 1819 West Pershing road.

The training aims to give the officer students a practical and theoretical course designed to make them experts in all phases of food and its preparation for the military service. The course includes lectures, laboratory demonstrations, practical grading of foods, visits to food industries and inspection of canneries, milk plants and cheese and dairy establishments. Each officer will spend about a month as a cook in the mess conducted for the enlisted men at the headquarters of the Sixth Corps Area. The month of December will be devoted entirely to the art of baking, to be followed by practical experience in handling all army rations.

"Life of Christ" Last Work Done by Sir Hall Caine

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Sir Hall Caine's last work, "Life of Christ," it was stated tonight, has been completed but held back, awaiting a psychological moment for publication. The manuscript totals 3,000,000 words, forty times the length of the average novel. Publication in England and the United States was contracted for several years ago. It is believed Caine's fortune was about $2,500,000.

THE STAGE

TWENTY-EIGHT stage productions—nineteen plays and nine musical shows—are named in the first formal announcement of the Messrs. Shubert for the new theatrical year in Chicago. The list includes many Broadway successes, and will be augmented as the season progresses.

No definite dates for premières are mentioned, but the promise of "soon" is attached to "Crazy Quilt" [with Phil Baker, Fannie Brice and Ted Healy], "The Third Little Show" [with Beatrice Lillie and Ernest Truex], and "Girl Crazy." "Crazy Quilt" will probably begin the bookings at the Grand Opera house; if not, "You Said It," with Lou Holtz, will be the opener.

Al Jolson in "The Wonder Bar" is scheduled for a late fall or early winter engagement. Ed Wynn and Fred Stone in new musical productions are due here in the spring. "Princess Charming," an operetta with Guy Robertson as star, is included among the musical shows, and is earmarked "soon." The Great Northern, where Shubert operettas flourish mightily, would seem to be the right place for it. "Rhapsody in Black," an all-Negro revue with Ethel Waters as principal singer, is also headed toward Chicago.

The dramatic portion of the Shubert announcement promises Ethel Barrymore early in the fall, no doubt in "The School for Scandal"; Katharine Cornell in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," whenever she finishes her New York run; "Grand Hotel," with Eugenie Leontovich, and new plays with Billie Burke, Grace George and Helen Hayes as their stars.

The list furthermore includes: "Méfo," "Mrs. Moonlight" [with Edith Barrett and Sir Guy Standing], "The Silent Witness" [with Lionel Atwill], "The Improper Duchess" [with Irene Bordoni], "The House Beautiful," "Lean Harvest" [with Leslie Banks], "Once in a Lifetime," "The Vinegar Tree" [with Mary Boland], "Five Star Final," and new plays for Philip Merivale, Mae West and Maurice Schwartz. These titles, no doubt, represent in part the program of subscription drama under the auspices of the Dramatic League, at the Harris theater.

The Chicago Civic Shakespeare society's season, with an expanded company including Fritz Leiber, William Faversham and Helen Menken, will be given at a Shubert theater. The plays will be "Hamlet," "The Merchant of Venice" and "Julius Cæsar." The company is about to begin rehearsals at the Princess.

The Goodman repertory company may be dead and disbanded, but its members go marching on. Tonight Katharine Krug begins an engagement as a radio actress for the National Broadcasting company, with James Spottswood of "High Hat" and Judith Lowry as colleagues. . . . Harry Mervis has joined the players who will help Maurice Schwartz, the Yiddish star, make his English-speaking debut. The play is Sholem Aleichem's "If I Were You"; the première is announced for Sept. 23 at the Ambassador theater, New York. . . . Whitford Kane will act with our Civic Shakespeareans, as Launcelot Gobbo in "The Merchant of Venice," the First Cobbler in "Julius Cæsar," and the First Grave Digger in "Hamlet." . . . And Roman Bohnen will come to the Blackstone next January in Rachel Crothers' hit, "As Husbands Go."

"The Good Companions," dramatization of J. B. Priestley's novel, will have a New York première Sept. 28 at the Forty-fourth Street theater. The play was one of the outstanding successes of the London theatrical season. Rehearsals began this week under the direction of Julian Wylie, who staged the English production.

Howard E. Snyder 50 Yrs. with Marshall Field Co.

Howard Emory Snyder, 5336 Glenwood avenue, today will celebrate the 50th anniversary of his continuous service with Marshall Field and company. There he now holds the office of traffic manager. Mr. Snyder started to work as cash boy Sept. 2, 1881. In 1885 he was a clerk in the receiving and freight department. In 1905 was given full charge of the receiving department and warehouses. He was made traffic manager in 1927. Mr. Snyder has five daughters and one son, all of whom reside in Chicago.

Rudy Vallee's Bride Plans Six Weeks with Parents

New York, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Rudy Vallee, bride of the radio singer, left today for Santa Monica, Cal., where she will spend six weeks with her parents.

Vallee said his wife refused a bodyguard for her railroad journey, despite a reported threat of kidnaping.

Rap Illinois Hot Dog Stands, Billboards.

After a five thousand mile trip by automobile over the highways and byways of Illinois, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lawton of the National Council for Protection of Roadside Beauty had a thing or two to say yesterday about a superfluity of billboard advertising, hot dog stands, and filling stations along the otherwise scenic vistas of the state.

Mrs. Lawton told the Prosperity club at a luncheon in the Illinois Athletic club that during the survey of Illinois roads she had discovered a heartening attempt to sow vegetation on unsightly barren banks, and to keep the highways clean of waste paper.

"But we found," she added, "the weeds of commercialism thriving in hot dog stands, billboard advertising, and filling stations, two or three to the mile, especially on the approaches to Chicago. Another unsightly weed is the automobile dump, where Lizzie spreads her bleaching bones, quite unashamed, to public view. And there are to be 2,500,000 cars to be junked this season."

The billboard from the point of a menace to public safety, as well as a nonesthetic angle, was discussed by Mrs. Lawton.

"The danger of billboards placed at curves and intersections cannot be stressed too much," Mrs. Lawton declared. "Billboards are designed to compel attention. If they do not they are useless as advertising.

"If they do attract attention, what right have they to be placed at the danger points where the entire attention is needed on the road? The American Association of State Highway officials urges every state to prohibit signs within 500 feet, better 1,000 feet, of curves and intersections.

On the new arterial highways leading into Chicago what provision is made to reduce the number of signs and filling stations," was the question Mrs. Lawton next raised. "Every filling station and hot dog stand is one more invitation to cut in and out of traffic, one more cause to slow down, one more point of danger.

"The county board is keeping the stations on Route 64 set back of the 50 foot strip of additional right of way which the board controls on either side of the highway. But it will require county zoning to limit the number of stations.

"The county board also has the right to forbid advertising signs within the extra 50 foot strip, yet the signs are allowed. In a short time they will probably average one every six or seven seconds, as on the other older approaches to the city."

Mrs. Lawton told how Pennsylvania, one of fourteen states with a state program for roadside beauty planning, goes out periodically to clean up roadside signs. One of these cleanups, she said, brought the elimination of 33,000 signs, 3,000 of which were on private property. Thousands of signs may be found on private property, placed there without the owner's consent, she added.

The speaker told how other states had accomplished much in their road beautifying campaign. For instance, in Connecticut, where a road has been curved, the plot between the new road and the old one has been landscaped and planted into a highway garden. There are swinging tavern signs showing a motorist where to turn off to eat lunch, and in a small park may be found a spring and a fireplace.

"While the Illinois roads, we were pleased to find, are universally green from fence to fence and clean of waste paper, we believe there is much tree planting to be done," Mrs. Lawton said. "Ten trees should be planted to every mile in the open treeless stretches of highway where the asphalt glares ahead in the sunlight. These trees should be good old fashioned oaks and elms and should be ten or fourteen feet high when planted."

Indians Take Law Path to Seize the Chicago Gold Coast

Shawnee, Okla., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Chicago's gold coast, happy land of many dollars, glittered as the prize today when several hundred citizen Pottawatomie Indians began, in the businesslike way they've learned, to seek modern money for the tranquil lake shores their fathers loved and lost.

Through their business council the Indians voted to retain a firm of Washington attorneys to claim indemnity from the government for lands along the Chicago shore in Illinois.

There wasn't any chief to guide them. Their guiding lights are George Haas, Andrew Johnson, Joe Shoemann, and Omer Lewis, business councilmen.

They recognize what a long struggle it will be to gain their end, for they awarded the attorneys, Davies, Jones, Beebe & Busick, a five year contract, gave them five years to start suit and a ten per cent fee up to a maximum of $25,000. Congress first must authorize suit in the United States Court of Claims.

The Pottawatomies' fathers migrating to Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Indiana from Manitoba were ousted, the modern Indians claim, between 1836 and 1841. Councilman Johnson explained that lands were given up to the whites willingly except for a tract now along the Chicago lake shore, including Lincoln park and the "gold coast," which they reserved as a fishing and hunting reservation. He said some of the original rocks in the reservation are now in Lincoln park.

Although they intend to try for an appropriation equivalent to the present day value of the lake shore land, the Indians say the government has paid off in previous instances at the rate of $1.25 an acre.

Playing With Fire

By WILLIAM MAC LEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Reynolds is owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined and starved the cattle. School friends from the east come as paying guests. Lee quarrels with her ranch foreman, Ranse Brennan, partly on account of a new hand, named Smith, she hired without his permission, and partly because she rejects his love suit. Brennan is discharged and swears revenge. Dane Daggett, an old ranch helper, recognizes Smith as Jack Hadley, millionaire oil man of California, whose father was murdered by outlaws. Hadley tells Daggett that he is searching for the murderer of his father. Lee leases a Mexican ranch and moves the herd there. Mrs. Doris Silver, a flirtatious friend of Lee's, goes on ahead to the Mexican ranch. Brennan drops in on her just before Jack Hadley, who has been sent on by Lee, arrives. Hadley drives to Palo Duro for supplies and takes Doris with him. Doris wanders off and is abducted and Hadley has to fight several natives to rescue her. A revolution breaks out. Megares, bogey man of the border, is head of it, with Brennan his right hand man. Brennan tries to get Hadley, but he escapes.

INSTALLMENT XV.

AN APPEAL TO CÆSAR.

"Did you think I would start gunfanning and bring Megares' army down on you?"

"I was thinking about you." Lee said simply.

"When you put your hand on that bronc's nose?" Jack asked.

"Yes. That is, I wanted to shake his aim."

"You knew Tequila would start pitching?"

"He was in a circus once and learned the trick there."

"Lucky for me you remembered that." Then, with studied lightness, "I'll not forget," he added.

"Is it safe for you to be here? Oughtn't you to be riding for the border? Alone you might get across."

"As safe for me as for you."

Daggett had discreetly vanished. They turned and walked into the deep shadows of the live oak grove. Lee caught herself wondering at her emotion—a world remade, and all because a man was walking beside her.

"Why isn't it safe for me?" she asked.

He did not beat about the bush as he would have done with Doris. He told her his thoughts, sure that she would have the courage to face any danger that threatened.

"Brennan won't stop until he has ruined you—unless we can prevent him."

"Take my stock, you mean?"

"That anyhow." He left the answer vague, unless it was more definitive to say, "He's a bad hombre, and he hates you."

"Not as much as he does you now."

"I don't know. The point is you're within his reach. He'll put you in the wrong if he can. How can we prevent it?"

She loved that "we." He had identified himself with her. He had taken over her troubles for his own. All her life she had been mistress of the little kingdom about her except during schooldays in the east. She had liked the sense of power, the assurance that she was first and her will was law. Freedom had been second nature to her. Often she had exulted because she was her own woman with none to say her nay. She could ride into endless miles of sun and wind, fancy free, a part of the untamed life stretching all around her.

Now it came to her, thrillingly, almost as a shock, that freedom was a dubious gift. She did not want to lead, to give orders to others. She no wanted even to manage her own life. A strange new humility flooded her with delight. She wished to be told what to do and then to do it without question; to be owned, to be absorbed into the life current of this man whose voice set her pulses strumming. He might or might not make her happy. That was beside the question. Out of a world of men he was the mate her soul longed for.

"Ranse hates us both," she said, talking of the surface thing in her mind. "It's queer he could work for us so long and keep his real nature covered. I knew he was harsh and overbearing, but I didn't realize he was bad. Did Dane tell you he took fifty of our best steers with him?"

"Yes. . . . . He's driving through tonight?"

"He told his men he expected to make it beyond the pass before daybreak."

"Chances are he'll stay with the bunch till they are over the pass and then ride on to Palo Duro ahead of his men." He hesitated before telling what he had planned. "I wish I had met Megares and knew what he was like personally."

"Why?"

"He's a queer compound, they say. Vain and foppish, with a good deal of play at being the gentleman, but really as callous as an Indian. That's what I've been told. If he's as ambitious as they say he is, probably he wants to make a good impression just now on our government in order to give no excuse for intervention. What I'm getting at is this: Why not appeal to Megares over Brennan's head? It might do some good. If he gave an order Brennan's hands would be tied."

"How would we reach Megares?"

"I'd drive you in tonight. We'd see him as soon as we could in the morning and get our facts in before Brennan reports his version of the story."

"But you couldn't go to Palo Duro," she objected. "It's the very thing we've been trying to avoid."

He grinned. "John Smith, cowboy, couldn't go maybe without being put in the hoosegow, but Jack Hadley, millionaire oil man of California, wouldn't have any trouble."

Lee opened her eyes wide. "Are you a millionaire oil man?"

"Something like that. No credit to me. I'm rather ashamed of it. Other men found it and sunk the wells and pump it out of my land. All I do is collect the royalties. If there's any justice in that I don't see it. But I don't complain. It's convenient for me."

"I should think it might be," she said.

His smile was persuasive. "Come! Be a sport, muchacha!"

"We'll start in just fifteen minutes," he said decisively. "I want to get across the pass before Brennan."

During the first hour of that rush through the night they talked little. She was content to sit beside him, to know that he was near. His gaze was intent on the road, and she could steal little glances at him unobserved. He had a face not easy to read, sometimes hard and cold, often mocking.

Two or three times he stopped the car to listen. What he wanted to hear and what at last did come to them on the night breeze was the bawling of restless cattle on the move. He was driving without lights, and he detoured slowly to pass the drive without being observed.

The wheels bumped over the rough ground for what seemed an interminable distance. Jack nosed expertly through narrow lanes fenced by cactus and mesquite. Time and again he backed to find another passage. Once he got out to see if the sand of a dry wash was negotiable. At last, after a long and tortuous circuit, the car came back to the road well ahead of the Brennan party.

Before they reached the pass Jack turned on the lights. There was a straight run ahead of them now, with no likelihood of interruption until they reached the outskirts of the town. They followed the road into Palo Duro.

From the hill which looked down into the town they could see troops in the plaza. The road was guarded by soldiers. They were stopped and arrested.

Hadley spoke in Spanish to the officer. "You are one of the patriot army?" he asked.

"Yes. Who are you?" the man replied.

He too used the same language.

Jack gave their names, and added that they had come to see Gen. Megares on important business.

"I don't know whether he'll see you," the Mexican said. "He's pretty busy. What is your business?"

The American's smile was disarming. "If you don't mind, captain, I'll tell it to the general."

"He's asleep now after being up nearly all night."

"We'll wait," Hadley said.

They spent five hours, without breakfast, in an adobe hut adjacent to the general's headquarters. There was a bench inside the room, but no chairs. Two soldiers guarded them. Jack did business with the more intelligent. He had already sugared the palm of the captain, but he did not want to run any risk of having Megares go about his affairs without having been informed of their presence. The guard kept his eyes open. Five dollars in good United States currency did not come his way every day.

"The general will see you," he announced at last.

Lee and Hadley were led into the government building, along a corridor, and into an office where a man sat at a desk. He wore a uniform with the insignia of a general. A stenographer sat near taking dictation. Other men came in, saluted, gave messages, received orders, and departed.

The man behind the desk was slim and trimly built. His uniform fitted him excellently. The boots he wore were small and highly polished. For a Mexican he was light in color, and he would have been handsome except for a scar disfiguring the alert face. The black beady eyes told no stories. It was the set of the mouth beneath the small brush mustache that backed the stories current about the callous cruelty of the man.

When he took time to look at his visitors he rose and bowed from the hips. "A thousand pardons, senorita."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Rather Thoughtless.

"Dear Miss Blake: What do you think of a fellow who has been going with a girl for two years and forgets her at every birthday? MIL."

Rather a thoughtless young man, isn't he? A birthday greeting would have shown that he remembered the occasion.

Weeping Over Love Obstacles Isn't the Way to Conquer Them

BY DORIS BLAKE.

This is the problem of a young woman, used to everything that money can buy, falling head over heels in love with a youth who can't afford to take her about; can't afford an engagement ring though every one knows they are engaged; a young man who isn't afraid to tell his girl that he cannot afford things and that he will build his life independent of his father's help.

"He is a fine chap in every way," the girl confides. "But I am dying of lonesomeness. He only gets to see me on week-ends. I see the old crowd off to a dance at the club. He is sport enough to tell me to go along with some one else. But what a jolt to me who never was dateless before in my life to be automatically eliminated because I am engaged. The crowd gives me the laugh. . . . My fiancé is hurt when he finds my eyes blood shot from crying because he can't afford to take me places. I love him with all my heart and I wish I could overcome my feelings. I know it won't be long before he'll make them all sit up and take notice? . . . Please tell me what to do? BUZZIT."

Impatient youth in love diagnoses you, Buzzit. You're all right, though, to stick it out. You could do it less rebelliously, however, for the boy's sake, if not for your own. You might meditate more on that threadworn old motto about a bird in the hand. Especially a good bird, as that boy of yours surely appears to be.

It's hardly to be expected that you adopt all the philosophy of age, or its patient waiting. That's too much to ask of youth. But turning up with bloodshot eyes doesn't seem to be quite the fair way to cooperate with your love. Even of youth, better sportsmanship than that may be rightfully asked. I'm afraid you're developing an ingrowing slant on your affair, with no thought of how the boy may be feeling. It's harder on him not to able to meet the social demands than on you. May be a little more thinking on how he must feel will brace you up when the crowd drives by your house.

Straight Shoulder Line Flatters, While Bent One Detracts

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I'm going to keep on hammering away at posture, as I've been doing the last few days, because I think it is the one thing on which the greatest majority of women are remiss.

It is puzzling, when you stop to think of it, how women will spend millions and millions a year for cosmetic beautifying measures; how they will endure martyrdom in the interests of a slimmer figure; how they'll sit under permanent wave and drying machines on the hottest day in summer—and yet on one simple trick which would make a terrific difference in the youthful appearance of thousands of them—they choose to remain blind.

I've noticed, recently, in conversation several of my friends have complained of how round shouldered they're getting. Now, if that were extra pounds that was the trouble, they'd be on diets already, and they'd be rid of the surplus poundage in no time.

When one is beyond the debutante age by a decade or more, let's say, that rounded shoulder piles on additional years thickly. And you do see countless numbers of women who dress well, who spend money regularly on their hair and face, yet who let that back shoulder view present itself as anything but young. In fact, I don't know of anything more genuinely ageing in appearance than the rounded upper back line.

If it is flesh burdened, just that much more age is added. An axiom might well be created to the effect that a woman is no younger than the straightness of her back. Business women have to be especially watchful. Their temptation is to bend over their work, and this, kept up year after year, tends to the old age shoulder curve.

Work can be done just as effectively from a straight back posture as the other. Every little while during the day it would be well to jack oneself up on this item, since there is such an excellent youth preserving secret within its practice.

Talk to Children on Your Own Level as Often as Possible

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

When your children pass their little childhood and get to be 11 or 12, or perhaps a trifle younger or a trifle older, there often comes a situation which makes you ask yourself, "What shall I do? Shall I treat Jane [or John] as if she were on my age level—or shall I continue to talk to her on her own?"

This decision is sometimes thrust upon you by a social emergency where we'll say, for example, it becomes imperative to discourage an insistent acquaintance—one who has no consideration for either your work or your leisure.

For instance, suppose after they have infringed upon both repeatedly, you have to arrange to be engaged, or to be going out. Shall you be evasive with your child and try to gloss over the social device? Or shall you be rather frank and talk to him on your own level, and let him see without rancor that when a person is thick-skinned and pushing and has no claim upon you that you don't need to be imposed upon but can legitimately find some way out without being rude?

Or you may be confronted with a crisis in which a grown up relative of the child's dictatorial, critical, completely lacking in understanding. Much contact with such a person will often precipitate a crisis. Shall you treat your child on his age level and try to get him to show respect and consideration and obedience where it is not necessarily due? Or shall you treat him on your level, admit the frequent unfairness and the foibles, and talk it over like two intelligent adults?

Often I think this latter course is the better one. Often it has a developing effect. It helps a child to face and deal with people, to make allowances, and to be the one to show control and poise. There are other points in favor of treating a child on your level instead of his in certain situations. It gives him a feeling that you see, understand, and appreciate his side of the story and that you are fair—also that you and he are friends who can talk over anything together.

Old Boys' Golf One of Several Links Features

BY THALIA——

THERE are numerous interesting minor golf tournaments taking place these days at the various country clubs. The titles to be won aren't as important as the championship being contended for out at Exmoor, to be sure, but the participants are probably having lots more real fellowship and fun. At Exmoor recently they had a spirited contest called the "Old Boys'" tournament, in which the entrants had to be at least 55 years old. Today at Exmoor there is a "Fathers and Sons'" event. Among the players already entered are Odell G. Bingham, Hubert P. Harris, A. A. Cushman, Ward W. Willson, George W. Blossom, Irving Rand, William H. Barker, Henry L. and S. Glidden, and R. E. Smith, and their respective sons.

The annual men's powwow at Onwentsia is to take place on Saturday of this week. The powwow is open to members of Onwentsia who will be there or more on their nearest relative, each one may invite a guest limited to the same age limitation. Thomas E. Clow Jr. is in charge of the arrangements. The annual women's powwow at Onwentsia is to be on Sept. 17, and Mrs. Kent Chandler is chairman of the group making the plans.

Annual Golf Tournaments to Ponder in Berkshires.

There was a false alarm about Kimball Salisbury not holding his annual invitation golf tournament at Pittsfield this year. We haven't heard the results of the tournament, but it was played over the week-end on the golf courses of the Pittsfield Country club, the Berkshire Hills Country club, at Lenox, and the Berkshire Hunt and Country club at Lenox. The house guests present for the tournament included the Darrow Bruce Fullers, and Mrs. Henry Gross, Kenneth Carpenter, Dr. O. E. Van Alyea, and Preston Boyden. Mr. Salisbury won up a trophy that has to be won three times for permanent possession. Mr. Fulton has won it four times, Mr. Boyden twice, and Mr. Salisbury once. The game is played, you remember, with wooden clubs and specially constructed golf balls.

Mr. Salisbury won the first award in a junior horsemanship in the first annual horse show held by the Pittsfield Riding and Polo club, and her sister, Mrs. Alexander Simpson, was second.

Kid of Youth and Bear.

Called "A Tale of the Very Rich Boy and the Big, Black Bear," it seems that the very rich young man, somewhere along a trail of adventure, become cheery enough to be heavily inspired with a great desire to visit a dog kennel. At the kennel there was a big, black bear and the V. R. Y. M. presently decided it would be simply swell to own the big, black bear along with the bear's owner consented to part with him for a price—about a dollar a pound it amounted to—because the bear weighed some two hundred pounds, and the cost to the very rich man this time very inebriated young man was $200. The animal was put forthwith into the rear of the car and on the way to the next saloon the bear broke all the windows of the sedan.

Arrived at the speakeasy, he proved entirely intractable in the matter of indoor manners. He swept all the glass from the bar, knocked over the tables and was generally pretty obstreperous. His new owner decided he had enough of his cumbersome pet and carted him back to the dog kennel. The moral of the story lies, I guess, in the sad fact that the kennel keeper charged the very rich young man $50 to take back the big, black bear.

C. E. Olmstead on Sept. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. DeForest Hulburd and their children are to get back today from a stay of several weeks at Crab Lake, Wis. Tomorrow evening they are to give a dinner party for Mr. Hulburd's niece, Miss Mary Elizabeth Olmstead, and her fiancé, Conway Olmstead, who are to be married a week from Saturday afternoon and who are to have their wedding reception at the Hulburd residence. Mrs. Olmstead's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus Olmstead who have been in the Hulburd house during their absence, are back in town at the Drake.

There's one young Lake Forest divorcée who won't be able to lease the same furnished apartment she had in town last winter. If the truth must be known, she wasn't such a good tenant. And my dear, the children roller skated in the drorring room!

Entire Family Destitute.

"My stepfather hasn't worked for four months and we owe gas, electric light and store bills and have received a notice to move. We all need clothing and can find no way of getting it unless you can help us through your department. My brother is out of work for the last year and needs a suit, size 36, and shirts, size 14½, and underwear. I wear size 20, my mother wears size 46. She needs dresses, a slip and almost everything else. My little brother wears size 6 years and my stepfather needs shirts, size 15½. M. S."

Unemployment and no income over a long period have reduced this family's circumstances to a level where they are truly grateful for your castoff clothing. If you have any to give in their sizes, please let me know.

Men like pie!

You may serve it with cheese or without cheese, with one crust or two, with whipped cream or just plain cream, with a fluffy meringue, or with none—and the statement still stands—men like pie.

I think the reason so many women often forego this dessert is that they have developed an inferiority complex about their own pie crusts. Let's banish the complex merrily away and start all over again.

The essentials of a good pie crust are that it be flaky, light, and adhere. Before you actually undertake the preparation of any crust, see to it that your ingredients are cold. If you can, use ice water, and don't hesitate to put your pastry flour in the refrigerator for an hour or so prior to the time you wish to make your crust. If you are one who makes her pastry with her hands, cool them, too. Otherwise you may melt the shortening when you work it into the flour.

Each cook has her favorite method of combining the fat and flour. I like a palette knife, because I shave the lard into the flour and then toss the flour over it and through it. Next, with my cold rolling pin, I roll the dough on a cold board. [Am I sufficiently emphatic about the word "cold"?]

When the dough is flattened I sprinkle it with the water until it is the proper consistency. This should require approximately one-fourth of a cupful of water for one and one-half cupfuls of pastry flour. Remember, you need only enough water to hold the dough together, and, whatever you do, don't knead it!

Good luck to you. Here's to more and better pies for our menfolk.

BUTTERSCOTCH PIE.
1¼ cups brown sugar.
1¼ cups water.
3 tablespoons flour.
¼ teaspoon salt.
3 tablespoons cornstarch.
3 tablespoons butter.
2 eggs.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Heat the sugar and water to the boiling point and pour over the dry ingredients. Cook until thick. Add the slightly beaten egg yolks, butter, and flavoring, and cook for one minute more. Fill the baked pastry shells and decorate with whipped cream or meringue.

CABBAGE AND PINEAPPLE SALAD.
Cup shredded cabbage.
¼ cup diced celery.
½ cup shredded pineapple.
Boiled salad dressing.

Rub the salad bowl lightly with a clove of garlic. Add the cabbage, celery, and pineapple and mix thoroughly with a boiled dressing.

Children Give Circus to Help Free Ice Fund

The last minute effort of a group of youngsters to add their bit to the ice fund before school starts boosted that fund over the $2,700 mark.

It was pretty late in the season for a circus, but the children living in the vicinity of 8019 Merrill avenue decided a nearby vacant lot should be utilized. For their trouble they accumulated $1.75 for the ice fund.

The circus performers, all boys, were Roy Kaderabek, Ted and Dick Morris, Russell Kearns, Paul Olson, Frank Ballard, Herbert Lindenberg, Norman Leaver, and George and Jack Shillinger.

Other gifts, small but helpful in making the ice and Camp Algonquin funds grow, arrived, one from a club, another anonymously, others from well-wishers, who believe in "better late than never," as one donor put it.

Upper Half of Paris Chic Given Lots of Attention

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The upper half of Paris chic, consecrated to the garments above the skirt, is getting a lot of attention from both dressmakers and women at large. I've seldom seen so many pretty, wearable blouses as float around the town with tailored suits these days.

The blouse can be made a trick whereby old suits look like new and many a clever Parisienne, with nothing much to spend, is working this trick successfully.

Three successful waists that I have seen lately are sketched today, and they are all simple enough to be made at home. The top blouse is made of bright red and white plaid dimity, and it is a straight jumper cut with short sleeves, held in at the waistline by a white leather belt. The scarf collar gives it the French character. This collar is made by cutting out a big handkerchief triangle, and blunting and fringing the pointed ends. The third point of the triangle is sewed on to the right side of the bust at the point only, and the scarf is then draped around the neck and tied in a knot.

Below this is a Schiparelli blouse made of white mesh, cut like any straight blouse with long sleeves, except that the two front pieces are bias and crossed surplice fashion. The right side is allowed to bulge a little just below the neckline, and it falls into the prettiest drapery, something like a cowl neck.

At the bottom is a Louiseboulanger blouse of pale blue georgette trimmed all over with diagonal tucks. It is open over a blue dickie to the waist in front, and the peplum ends in a georgette bow that is the only fastening of the waist.

No Large Pores with New Powder

Stays On Longer

Wonderful new Mello-glo Face Powder actually prevents large pores because it will not "clog" them. With it there will never be a pasty, flaky look. No more shiny noses.

New French Mello-glo stays on longer, spreads more smoothly and evenly. Each particle has been sifted through close-meshed silk. It blends naturally with any complexion and lends the touch of youth to the face.

Beautiful women say it is the kindest of powders because it artfully hides tiny lines, wrinkles and pores. And, no matter how sensitive your skin may be, you can use it with perfect confidence. It shows no trace of lead and is the purest face powder known.

For that fresh, natural appearance, try this delicately fragrant Mello-glo. Your face will look more youthful. Ask for Mello-glo Face Powder at your favorite store. One Dollar.

LANDLORD ...it makes money for you...

...SAVES money for your tenants

"HAS it an economical electric refrigerator?" That is the question heard on every hand. For no consideration is more important to the present-day apartment hunter.

That is why apartments with money-saving Westinghouse Refrigerators in the kitchens attract and hold the best class of tenants.

The apartment-dwelling public knows the Westinghouse "Completely Balanced" Refrigerator as the money-saving refrigerator—the refrigerator that can easily save amounts equivalent to a month's rent each year.

Westinghouse "money-saving" is the outstanding result of "completely balanced" construction, a Westinghouse development. Every feature is in balance with the other. No one feature is over-developed for mere "show" at the expense of another. No feature is slighted for unique appearance. You get the smooth, effective, economical performance that is only possible in a perfectly balanced product.

Add the appeal of the Westinghouse Refrigerator—its great name—its great beauty—its many fine features—its money-saving—to your apartments now. Hold your tenants. Save vacancy losses this Fall and Winter.

The Westinghouse line, from the kitchenette size Standard Model to the largest electric lighted De Luxe Model, comprises nine sizes of beautiful refrigerators.

Promise nothing! Pay nothing! Obligate yourself in no way—until you have had the special Westinghouse proposition to apartment building owners. Phone for a representative.

The Name "WESTINGHOUSE" is your guarantee

ONLY WESTINGHOUSE OFFERS ALL OF THESE ADVANTAGES:

1. It will pay liberal dividends in food saving, time saving and lessened operation cost.
2. It has a modern hermetically sealed quiet mechanism in the top out of sight that insures trouble-free performance.
3. It operates efficiently in "Dog Days," under pantry shelves, in wall recesses and other places where there is very little natural air circulation.
4. It will not only stop but start up automatically when unusual conditions interrupt operation.
5. It is "the best-looking refrigerator you have ever seen." And it offers such conveniences as a usable flat buffet top, broom-high legs, maximum shelf space, temperature selector in the right place, etc.

CHARITY GAME CERTAIN TO SET CROWD RECORD

Big Advance Sale Indicates Sellout.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Baseball washed away baseball at Comiskey park yesterday afternoon and the circumstance gave the Comiskey folks a good chance to review the records for a record attendance at the big charity game which is to be played on the south side a week from today.

As a result of yesterday's postponement the Cleveland Indians this afternoon will say farewell for 1931 at a double header. If the elements should decree another postponement one of the games will be played off in Cleveland on Tuesday and the other never will be played.

Big Advance Sale.

Back to the Cubs-Sox series scene. Secretary Harry Grabiner of the White Sox says there never has been as large an advance sale at Comiskey park a week in advance of a game. The nearest approach has been on two city series games. The Chicago all time record of $121,807 paid, set a week ago last Sunday, had an advance sale of less than half of the present charity game sales, Mr. Grabiner said.

There still are some box seats for sale, and when these are gone there will be no more tickets sold until the morning of the game, when 35,000 unreserved and 3,000 bleacher seats will be placed on sale.

"Those who have not and cannot now get the positions they prefer are not assured that they will not be accommodated by having to stand or be for grandstand seats next Saturday," Mr. Grabiner announced.

Gates to Open at 9 a. m.

"The first detail of ticket sellers, ushers and police will report at 9 o'clock and the force will be increased as the crowd appears. Arrangements have been made to handle the largest gathering that ever saw a baseball game in Chicago with an entire absence of confusion and inconvenience."

Reserved seats continue on sale at Wrigley field, Comiskey park and at the Loop office. The price of the reserved seats is $1.65. The grandstand seats will be $1.

CUBS LOOK AHEAD

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Although plans for 1932 seem to be premature, the fact remains that the Cubs still have a lot of work on their hands before digging in for the winter. For instance, there are two games to be disposed of this afternoon at Cincinnati, not to mention a number of other league engagements, the Sunday game with the Sox on Sept. 13 and, lastly, a city series with the White Sox.

With the above program out of the way, the Cub officials can have the time to themselves. And there will be plenty. Despite the inclination to look down the premature revelation that the Wrigley interests are after Jack Klein, the Phillies' home run star, the deal probably will be consummated.

Have Eye on Paul Waner.

There is one other fellow now in the Phillies who also stands an excellent chance of wearing the Chicago flannels next season. The name is Paul Waner, the Pirates' right fielder. Barney Dreyfuss, the Pittsburgh magnate, has been a bit sour on his star player for more than a year and would have peddled him months ago if a suitable exchange had been available.

The future of Hack Wilson will be decided by the above possible deals. If the Phillies are willing to let Klein go for an unprecedented price Wilson may be thrown in for good measure.

For the double header today Hornsby will depend on Root and Bush for effective pitching. The Reds probably will employ Benton and Johnson.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Three golfers, one from the central west, one from the east, and one from the Pacific coast, shared a tie for the qualifying medal in the 35th annual United States amateur championship at the Beverly Country club yesterday. They are Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, who shot a 70, one under par, for a 36 hole total of 148; Arthur (Ducky) Yates of Rochester, N. Y., and Charley Seaver of Los Angeles, each of whom duplicated 74's of Monday to tie Lehman.

It was the first time in the history of the amateur that a triple tie for the medal had resulted, and bore out advance predictions that this year's tournament, due to the retirement of Bobby Jones, would be a wild scramble for the medal and the 32 places in the match play rounds. Whether Lehman, Yates, and Seaver will each receive a medal or whether they will play off their tie later in the week has not been decided.

Lehman's 70 was the first under par card turned in at Beverly during scores of practice rounds for the tournament, not to mention the first half of the qualifying round Monday, when Jack Westland's 72 was the best effort of the day. Incidentally, Jack was all over the course yesterday trying to defend his lead, and took 84 strokes for a 36 hole total of 156, barely good enough to land him in the match play.

A score of 157 was the qualifying limit. Fourteen had that total, which necessitated a playoff to determine which five would continue in the tourney. The winners were Fay Coleman, Los Angeles; J. Wolcott Brown, Spring Lake, N. J.; Carey Bellew Jr., Kansas City, Mo.; Denmar Miller, Des Moines, Ia., and Owen Covey, Salt Lake City, Utah.

They played three holes before the quintet finally was chosen, and would have needed a battery of searchlights to go beyond that. At that, a sizeable gallery, including Jones, attended them. Coleman achieved a birdie four on the second hole, so that he was in at that point automatically. The cards for the others read: Covey, 4, 5, 4; Bellew, 4, 5, 4; Brown, 4, 5, 3, and Miller, 4, 5, 3.

Couch and Casey Fail.

Ira L. Couch and Doug Casey of Chicago were among the 14 who tried to win one of the five places. Couch dropped out on the first green when his second shot went into a trap and he took a 5. Casey three putted the third green for a five to eliminate himself.

The 32 qualifiers will begin match play today with 18 hole battles this morning and 18 this afternoon. The eight survivors of today's play will meet in 36 hole quarter final matches tomorrow. The semi-finals Friday and the title match Saturday also will be at 36 holes.

An early morning rainfall drenched the Beverly course yesterday, making most of the greens fairly slow and turning the deeper traps into

Sun Beau Champion of the Turf

(This is the second of a series of articles on Sun Beau, greatest money winning horse of all time.)

BY FRENCH LANE.

Sun Beau's first race did not indicate that he was ever to become a champion.

As the field came pounding down the stretch at Laurel when he was making his first start as a 2 year old he was fourth. He had been beaten by Scotch and Soda, Bobashela and Bar None and in turn he had defeated Charles H., Deposition and Cadet.

Folks who had wagered on him at 10 to 1 tore up their tickets in disgust. The only mention the chartmaker made was "Sun Beau raced well."

The remark was comforting to those who had refused to lose faith in the son of Sun Briar-Beautiful Lady, but it was rather painful to the many who had wagered on him. There is nothing so worthless as a pari-mutuel betting ticket on a horse that finishes fourth.

Six days later at the same Laurel track Sun Beau made everybody happy. The once awkward, crooked legged colt had his first taste of victory and in the betting paid those who supported him $17 for each dollar invested. As near as we can discover, it was the longest odds Sun Beau ever paid.

Victory Gives the Colt His First Big Thrill.

He must have got a new slant on life in this contest. He discovered a new sensation when he showed his heels to eight others of his age, a sensation which has thrilled him throughout his career.

Some horses that later were good ones—Fairy Maiden, Eugene S., Wellett, Vellas—trailed back far behind him. The chartmaker said, "Sun Beau raced in close pursuit of Vellas for three-quarters, passed the latter at the head of the stretch and outfinished Fairy Maiden."

Many times since that October afternoon back in 1927 the chartmaker has made a similar comment. For Sun Beau has always been racing in close pursuit of some horse to the turn into the home stretch and then has taken the lead to outfinish all his rivals.

Sun Beau made two more starts as a 2 year old. In the revival of the Manor handicap that fall at Laurel he ran one of his most disgraceful races. He finished tenth and Eugene S., which he had beaten two days earlier, was the victor.

Then, on Nov. 4, came his engagement in the Pimlico Futurity, a race in which he was badly beaten and in which he watched his boyhood pal, Reigh Count, fouled out of victory.

It was the first time Sun Beau and Reigh Count had ever been starters in the same race and they lined up at the barrier alongside each other.

At this time Reigh Count was looming up as a championship possibility and Sun Beau was just a colt that had been lazy most of his life and had won but one cheap race.

Reigh Count and Sun Beau both trailed in the early part of it. Maybe Reigh Count was asking Sun Beau how the fish were biting in the Susquehanna which ran through Kilmer's farm. But, whatever they were chatting about was soon forgotten, for Reigh Count began to move forward with a terrific rush. Sun Beau did his best to keep step with him. As they wheeled into the stretch Bateau, ridden by Earl Sande, moved over sharply and all but knocked Reigh Count over the fence into the infield.

Sun Beau Sees His Old Buddy Mistreated.

Sun Beau saw all this, for he was directly back of them. It was too much rough stuff for a peaceful young fellow like Sun Beau. Probably he shouted some encouragement to Reigh Count as his old playmate started to move forward again, but the foul Reigh Count had suffered was too much of a handicap. Glade, Petee Wrack, Bateau and Eugene S. finished in front of him. Sun Beau came in right back of Reigh Count and, no doubt, if a fight had started when they came back to be unsaddled the two old cronies would have battled their way out of it.

Bateau was disqualified, but it only moved Reigh Count into fourth place and Sun Beau into sixth position. It was the last time Sun Beau raced as a 2 year old, although Reigh Count kept at it a few weeks longer and demonstrated by victories in the Kentucky Jockey club stakes and the Walden handicap in Maryland that the foul he suffered had robbed him of the Pimlico Futurity.

Sun Beau's life that winter at Columbia, S. C., was uneventful. Sun Roman and Sun Friar were with him, but his best partner, Reigh Count, was far north, shivering through one of the coldest winters Illinois had experienced, and Sun Beau could get no word from him.

The Carolina winter weather was so delightful that Sun Beau was put into training early the next spring for

SCIALABA WINS C. A. A. U. TITLE AFTER 2 BATTLES

C. A. A. U. Champions

Flyweight—Billy Petracca, Northwest stadium.
Bantamweight—Nick Scialaba, Arcade gym.
Featherweight—William Lorens, Aurora, Ill.
Lightweight—Laddie Tonelli, Streator, Ill.
Welterweight — Mike Kamis, Biggerstaff A. C.
Middleweight—John Phagan, unattached.
Light heavyweight—John Persche, Brookfield A. C.
Heavyweight—Duffy Dranch, Great Lakes.

Nick Scialaba, International Golden Gloves bantamweight king, successfully defended his Central A. A. U. outdoor championship last night at the Coliseum north hall. The finals, which had been postponed from last week and transferred indoors because of inclement weather, saw six new champions crowned before a crowd of 3,500.

John Persche, Brookfield A. C. light heavyweight, who won the title in his division in the best bout of the night against Emil Pappas of Rockford, Ill., was awarded the sportsmanship trophy. The team championship trophy was won by the Northwest stadium, which achieved another title through Billy Petracca's victory over Jimmy Eliopoulos, Central A. A. U. indoor champion, in the flyweight final.

Tumble Out of Ring.

Eliopoulos' defeat was the upset of the night's fighting. Eliopoulos, Golden Gloves runner-up, made a desperate rally in the third round to gain a draw, but in the extra round Petracca forced the fighting and punched out a decision.

Persche, an amateur counterpart of the professional Battling Bozo, was outpunched by Pappas in the first round, but got the range with his right in the second and clipped Pappas repeatedly. One of these all but floored Pappas and he grabbed Persche. They rushed to the ropes, where Pappas slipped and pulled Persche out of the ring with him. They fell into Commissioner Fred Gardiner's lap and Pappas immediately untangled himself, leaving Persche buried under the commissioner's feet.

Pappas made a recovery early in the third round and chased Persche around the ring until he ran into a stinging right. From there on he was practically out on his feet, but Persche could not drop him.

Body Blows Weaken Ginter.

Scialaba won his final bout from John P. Ginter of the Northwest stadium, after having difficulty disposing of Victor Petracca, also of the Northwest stadium, in the semi-finals. Ginter had an easy time in his semi-final bout, knocking out Albert Stillo of Brown's gym with a punch in the first round.

Ginter used a long left and a stiff

Heavy Rains Hamper Play with Woods

Rain, which fell most of Monday night, made the going heavy for the early starters yesterday in the national amateur golf tournament, but did not appear to have much effect on the scoring. Although there was considerable water on the fairways and greens, most of it was removed by a large corps of workers who got busy around 4 a. m. The boys were getting little or no roll on their wood shots, but this was offset by the fact that the greens were loggy and a well-placed approach usually stopped dead on the carpet.

Johnny Lehman was in good spirits after his 70, the only par breaking round of the tournament to date. The former western champion was the recipient of much handshaking and backslapping. He was also in great demand by the photographers, whom he willingly obliged.

Tris Speaker, famous baseball player of several years back, joined the gallery yesterday and trooped up and down Beverly's hills and dales.

Gus Moreland, the Dallas, Tex., youth, got a break on the 16th hole when he sliced his tee shot, the ball lighting near the edge of the fairway. Instead of bouncing into the woods, it struck an obstruction and caromed back into the fairway. He continued from there to get a par four.

A large gallery was on hand to trail Phil Perkins and Jimmy Johnston, as

RETZLAFF LOSES TO SEKYRA IN 10 ROUND BOUT

GOODMAN IS MAN OF HIS WORD; GOES OUT AND GETS 40

At Beverly yesterday, where the flag of the U. S. G. A. hung damply over the second round of qualifying for the national amateur, followers of title meets were holding a clinic over the previous day's scores.

Students of the game—those who look for consistency and stamina in a player—were in accord when the name of the Omaha boy who beat Bobby Jones in 1929 at Pebble Beach was mentioned.

"Johnny Goodman looks first and shoots afterward," was one remark, "and he doesn't know when to quit. He'll be playing in the rain today, but he'll be hitting 'em from spot to spot where he wants to be."

Along Goodman's Trail.

The gentleman was right. Johnny played in the rain and he hit from spot to spot. Let's follow him for a few holes to see not only the compact swing of this medium sized fellow but more to get an idea of his battle plan as one shot leads to another.

When Johnny stepped to the first tee he had made up his mind that a 156 would qualify. With his 74 already on the board, that meant 82 would let him in.

"A pair of forties will suit me fine," was his idea of how he planned to play.

The drive on the first hole must be in the middle on account of traps left and right about 225 yards from the tee. The left side is the lower and the rain had drained down. Johnny hit his tee shot straight for the trap on the right and it came to rest safe by 15 feet on a dry spot.

Get Par 4 on Second.

His second shot had to be over a trap in front of the green and on line to the pin to avoid more sand on both sides. A crisp No. 3 iron and he was 20 feet from the pin, hole high on the 378 yard distance. His approach putt was up and he dropped his par 4.

The second hole is 454 yards from a tee on a hilltop with heavy rough to the right and a series of traps to the left. Goodman drove down the right, but the wind blowing across took the ball about a foot into the weeds. He could have played another wooden shot, but preferred to play safely with an iron to be in position for the green. On his next shot the soft course interfered and the ball stopped dead a few feet short of the green. His chip shot was past the cup and he was one over par with 6.

The 223 yard third is all carry to a flat green. He was right on the line, but caught the top of a bunker. He pitched over the treacherous wet spot to the pin and dropped a four footer for his par 3.

The fourth is a dog leg to the left. It requires a drive of more than 220 yards to be in position for the second shot, but must not be over 250 to avoid out of bounds. Goodman's drive

BATTLING RAIN AND PAR IN NATIONAL AMATEUR AT BEVERLY

Arthur (Ducky) Yates of Rochester, N. Y., who tied with Johnny Lehman and Charley Seaver for the medal in national amateur tournament.

Rudy Rothenberg of Delaware Water Gap, Pa., doesn't mind the rain when a chance to qualify for the national amateur is at stake. He's playing the ball out of a flooded trap at Beverly while Caddy William Simmons holds an umbrella over his head.

The 11th green at Beverly, the toughest hole on the course, where many a golfer stumbled yesterday in his attempt to gain a place among the 32 qualifiers. Here Tom Dwyer, Sacramento, Cal., is approaching the green while James C. Ward, Kansas City, looks on.

YANKEES WIN TWICE.

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Lou Gehrig took a lead of three over Babe Ruth in the major league home run race by pounding out his 39th and 40th in a double header with the Boston Red Sox today. The Yankees won both games, 11 to 3 and 5 to 1.

The two circuit drives ran Gehrig's string to six in as many games.

200 START TODAY IN CANADA $15,000 SWIM MARATHON

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 1.—(AP)—A warming south wind today forecast good conditions for the 15 mile Canadian national swimming marathon tomorrow in which 200 of the leading professionals of North America will take part.

Margaret Ravior of Philadelphia, winner of the women's marathon swim last Friday withdrew today because of an abscessed ear.

Last year's winner and runner-up—Marvin Nelson of Fort Dodge, Ia., and Isadore Spondor of Port Colborne, Ont.—are the favorites. Chief threats of their hopes are George Young of California, Mendel Burditt of Toronto, Eddie Keating and Bill Goll of New York, and Ernest Vierkoetter, the German. Prize money totals $15,000.

HUNTERS WANT DUCK SEASON TO START LATER

Beardstown, Ill., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Duck club owners and duck hunters, approximately 1,600 strong, will convene here Thursday night to organize an association to request the federal government to transfer Illinois from the north to the south zone.

The duck hunting season recently was cut from three months to one, the Illinois season starting on Oct. 1. The proposed association will protest the inclusion of Illinois in the northern zone where the season starts Oct. 1 and ends Nov. 1, and to move for the transferance of the state into the south zone where hunting begins Nov. 16.

LABOR DAY MAT PROGRAM OF SIX BOUTS COMPLETED

With the signing of Jack Smith, Chicago, and Charley Fox, Cleveland policeman, the heavyweight wrestling card of six bouts at Soldiers' field on Labor day was completed yesterday. Jim Londos and Jim McMillan will clash in the feature match, two falls out of three to a finish.

McMillen already is on the battleground and will work out in Soldiers' field this afternoon. Londos is due to arrive today or tomorrow.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

We started out to make this a column about golf but those football fellows stole it.

If you all pull up your chairs and gather around we'll listen to what Charles Baker has to say in the controversy over the relative merits of professional and collegiate ball.

DICK HANLEY.

Before he takes the floor, permit me to put Mr. Zuppke and Mr. Hanley right with persons interested in the discussion. There have been several references in contributors' letters to the coaches' desire for publicity. Neither Zuppke nor Hanley knew their remarks were for publication. They were asked a direct question as to what they thought about the two games and they answered emphatically in favor of the college brand. Their comment was so interesting that I wanted readers of this column to hear about it.

This is Mr. Baker, a Chicago fan, speaking:

"I have enjoyed the current argument in your column over the merits of college and professional football. Both sides have had much to say. However, it seems to me that professional football enthusiasts, Dr. David Jones, owner of the Cardinals, and C. C. Pyle, who made a fortune out of Red Grange, have almost monopolized your space.

"College men will agree that Bob Zuppke and Dick Hanley do not need, and do not want, a defense of what they have done in college football. I am willing to grant that Zuppke may have taken in too much territory when he says the 1930 Illinois team could beat the Bears or Cardinals. Undoubtedly he has been influenced by memories of his teams in other years which were supreme in the Western conference. Hanley, however, can point to the 1930 Northwestern eleven, the greatest in recent years, as a fit opponent for any professional team.

"It seems to me that a game between Northwestern or Illinois and either the Bears and Cardinals would be well worth seeing. Thousands would attend, but we all know that the Western conference would not permit such a contest. But, supposing a game could be arranged, I ask that George Halas, Dr. Jones, Mr. Pyle consider these arguments. Because of them a good college team will defeat a pro eleven.

"No professional team ever approaches the physical condition of a college team. Many professional players smoke, many keep irregular hours. Some of the players may train perfectly but the condition of the entire team is off at least 10 per cent because of the indiscretions of others who may indulge themselves more than just cigarets and late hours. Need I mention, for instance, George Trafton, for years the ranking professional center. A great player, but couldn't he have been better if he had 'trained'? Trafton merely illustrates the point.

"Superior weight in the line has been cited as evidence of professional strength. Most pro lines will average 200 pounds from tackle to tackle. Yet weight isn't positive proof of victory, else Notre Dame would lose half of its games each season. Speed is more essential than weight.

"A college team plays a faster game than the pros. In a one hour period the superior condition of a college team would make some of these big professional linemen wish they had stayed in at night.

"And how about forward passes? Is there any player on either the Cardinal or Bear team who can pass like Pug Rentner of Northwestern? Weight advantage in the line wouldn't help the Cardinal or Bear backfield men chase pass receivers all afternoon.

"But these arguments have been presented before. Here's a new one and one which positively guarantees a college victory. How about the officiating?

"If college officials refereed this game between Illinois or Northwestern and the Bears or Cardinals, the pros would lose a couple hundred of yards for holding, illegal use of the arms in blocking and for profanity. Professional officials overlook many infractions of the rules. If the linemen stay on side, everything else goes.

"Now this is O. K. for two pro teams. Both sides know these 'professional' rules. They talk back to the officials, they hold on the offense and are held. That's part of the game. But if the pros had to block cleanly and legitimately, which they have forgotten how to do, you'd find that the college boys would break up a lot of plays, or failing would benefit by the penalties inflicted on the professional team.

"Let the pro teams play each other. I like to watch them and so do others, as the gate receipts show. But let them remember that if they take on the college teams and play according to the rule book they'll recall a lot of things about football they have forgotten."

PERRY DEFEATS VINES; ENGLISH WIN 3 MATCHES

Manheim, Pa., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines, brightest of America's young tennis players, lost to Frederick Perry, England's No. 1, 6-3, 7-5, in the opening play of the three day international tennis matches today.

The first day was a clean sweep for Perry and George P. (Patsy) Hughes, the English team. In the first match Hughes defeated Marcel Bernard, 19 year old French boy, 6-4, 6-0, and after Perry's triumph over Vines the British pair disposed of the French doubles team of Jacques Brugnon and Christian Bousus, 6-3, 6-2.

Tomorrow Johnny Doeg, United States national champion, meets Marcel Bernard of France in the first singles match, while Perry encounters Andre Merlin. The doubles bring together George Lott and Doeg, former United States doubles champion, and Boussous and Brugnon.

Dizzy Dean Is Voted Most Valuable in Texas League

Houston, Tex., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, eccentric pitcher who was sent back to Houston this year by the St. Louis Cardinals, has been chosen the most valuable player in the Texas league. Dean has won 25 games for Houston and has 273 strikeouts to his credit.

N. Y. Hunters Bag Fortune in Wild Game

BY BOB BECKER.

After compiling statistics furnished by its hunters and trappers, the state of New York has announced that the commercial value of the fish and game taken last year by license holders in that state reached a value of $3,821,912.25. The figure actually is much higher because all hunters did not turn in bag reports.

However, it gives sportsmen and conservation officials an idea of what the hunting and trapping of a state means in dollars and cents. It also shows that the outdoor sports with gun and trap loom up pretty big in the economics of a state. In addition fish and game birds and animals represent thousands of dollars in food for the table.

New Side of Hunting.

Too frequently the hunting is figured only on the books of the ammunition companies, the makers of equipment and other manufacturing establishments or sales organizations which cater to the shotgun and rifle enthusiasts. Now New York, because it asks the hunter and fishermen to report the number of birds or rabbits killed or fish caught, is able to give interesting figures on the actual cash value of the game brought home and served on the family table.

However, even these figures do not put a cash value on the recreational side of hunting. The millions of dollars worth of fun and exercise the outdoor fans secured while afield is not accounted for.

The figures from New York's tabulation furnish a guide to the abundance or scarcity of various species in the state, and also indicate what the 1930 "harvest" was worth. One of the interesting items in this tabulation is the part that the rabbit plays in the average hunter's trip afield.

Gold in the Marshes.

More than $25,000 rabbits were shot by hunters and this kill is valued at $619,292.25. Pheasants totaled 193,870 and represent $775,480 in United States currency. Ducks reach a figure of 131,694 and a value of $395,082. Looking at the trappers' side of this dollar and cents valuation of a state's wild life resources, the muskrat totals show why marshes in their natural state can bring in as much, if not more, money than the same marsh drained for agriculture. Although New York is far from being a big producer of muskrats, 284,791 of these animals trapped last year were valued at $541,102.

GIANTS-YANKEES GAME SEPT. 9 IS TEST FOR SERIES

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—The New York Yankees and the New York Giants will play an exhibition baseball game for the relief of the New York unemployed on Sept. 9 at Yankee stadium, and if response to this contest appears to justify it the proposed six game series among the Giants, Yanks, and Brooklyn Robins for the interborough title will be completed at the close of the season.

An agreement was reached at a meeting held today in the office of Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, and under it the sentiment of the city will be put to the test before any final decision will be made on the projected series.

O'KELLY TO BOX AT WHITE CITY AGAIN SEPT. 9

Mique Malloy announced yesterday that he will bring back Con O'Kelly, heavyweight champion of Ireland, to appear in the windup at White City next Wednesday night, Sept. 9. Con made a big hit here several weeks ago when he gave Tuffy Griffith one of the best fights of his career.

Malloy expects to announce O'Kelly's opponent in a day or two. He is presenting his next show on Wednesday instead of the customary Monday because of Labor day. Five other bouts will complete the show.

Landis Loses His Pants—to Boston Bandit

Boston, Mass., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis casts his vote for two pants suits. A thief broke into a downtown tailor shop last night and among other garments walked off with a pair of the judge's trousers.

The commissioner was not confined to his hotel room as police sought his pants, but he did welcome their return early today, while the thief appeared in court.

HURLINGHAM TO PLAY FIRST GAME IN POLO TOURNEY

Westbury, L. I., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Lewis Lacey's Hurlingham polo team from Buenos Aires will ride out in the first match of the open championship against Sands Point on Wednesday, Sept. 9. On the scheduled announced today by the tournament committee of the United States Polo association the final of the tournament comes on Saturday, Sept. 19, granted the weather permits. All games will be played at the Meadowbrook club, Westbury, L. I.

The second Argentine team, Santa Paula, will go into action with the second game, to be played on Saturday, Sept. 12, having drawn the Roslyn team for opponents. Greentree and the Hurricanes drew byes and automatically went to the second round, which, with six teams competing, becomes the semi-final round.

Santa Paula Four Wins.

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Santa Paula of Argentine, unbeaten on Long Island, galloped to victory today at the Army Polo center at Mitchel Field against a 16 goal pickup, 14 to 5.

At Piping Rock a revamped Rosiya team of 27 goals won over the Champlons Hurricanes that also came out in new formation as a 32 goal team. The final score was 14 to 13.

In a third game played at Meadowbrook Sands Point was beaten by a pickup 21 goal team, 12 to 4.

Pirates Hand Coach Stanage His Release

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Oscar Stanage, coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates since 1927, was released unconditionally today, club officials announced. Stanage formerly was a catcher for the Detroit American league club.

Three Tie for Medal Honor in Amateur

miniature lagoons. A warming sun greeted the early starters, however, and the day seemed safe until mid-afternoon when another shower added to the natural obstacles on the course.

Gus Moreland, the 20 year old Texan who shot a 73 Monday to run second to Westland, kept up his steady pace yesterday, bringing in a 76 for a qualifying score of 149. He was tied by Samuel M. Parks Jr., University of Pittsburgh star, who added a 74 to his 75 of Monday.

Beverly, with its treacherously slender fairways and cunningly placed traps, proved too much for several of the pre-tournament favorites, and many a good golfer fell by the wayside. The most amazing example of this was found in the twosome, composed of Harrison Johnston, 1929 champion, and T. Philip Perkins, former British title holder.

Johnston was seeded number one in the draw for the match play, so highly was he regarded, and Perkins was third on the list of the elite. Neither played up to expectations in the qualifying round, for Perkins came out with a 162 and Johnston a 163. Cyril Tolley, the one time British champion who entered the tournament suddenly last week, was eliminated as suddenly when he turned up with a 167.

Voigt Comes Through.

Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, Ore., dentist, who was runner-up to Johnston two years ago, also was outside the qualifying 32, shooting a 159. Max Marston, champion in 1923, was another who failed to make the grade, carding a 160. George Voigt of New York was the solitary exception among the touted favorites, finishing with 155.

Lehman indicated he might play under par as soon as he reached the first green, where he dropped an eight foot putt for a birdie three. He had a par five on the second, but found a trap at the third and was one over. He missed an easy putt for a par four at the fourth, but followed the card to the seventh, where he pushed one in from ten feet for a birdie four. He played the eighth and ninth in par and turned the first nine in 36, par.

He took par on the 10th and 11th, missing a short putt for a birdie on the latter, Beverly's most difficult hole. He knocked off two birdies on the thirteenth and fourteenth, a fine spade shot bringing him a foot from the pin on the former while a six footer on the fourteenth put him one under. The fifteenth was not so good, however, for after putting his second shot in the rough, he had a poor out to the fairway and took a five, one over par. He played the card to the finish for a 34 on the last nine and his 70.

Seaver Plays in Rain.

Yates, who has distinguished himself by his iron play, sank a 30 foot approach for a birdie on the first hole. He matched par to the fifth, where his second shot rolled over the edge of the green and he was forced to take a five. A good second shot and a three foot putt brought him another birdie at the eighth. He was over par on the ninth, where he was too strong with his second shot.

He was even with par to the 15th, where his second shot found the rough. He was short with his approach at the 16th and at the 17th he missed an easy putt for a birdie deuce. He was over par on the home green, his third shot landing in a trap to the right. He was short in coming out and rimmed the cup in an attempt for a par five.

Seaver was the last of the low scoring trio to go out and played a portion of his round in the rain. He took one over par 5 on the first hole, when he dropped his second shot in a trap. He was over again at the third, another trap giving him a four. He redeemed this with a 50 foot pitch into the hole at the fifth for a birdie three. He took another birdie at the eighth with a three foot putt and was around the first nine in 36.

Eleventh Halts Seaver.

The eleventh halted him as it has dozens of others in the tournament. He came out with a six after being short of the green with his third shot and missing a 6 foot putt when he did get on. He was over par at the 14th, pushing his drive to the right and finding a trap with his second. He missed a short putt on the short 17th and took a four. He had a good drive to the last green, but his second struck the trees along the edge of the fairway, landing in the tall grass short of a trap. His pitch was short, but he put the ball within three feet of the cup and holed out for his 74.

the two seeded stars teed off in the early afternoon. Both had scores of 82 for the first round, but this apparently did not deter the fans' interest. Perkins held the British amateur title in 1928 while Johnston captured the American championship in 1929.

Col. Charles Beach, one of the founders of Olympia Fields, and a constant attendant on his protégé, Johnny Lehman, was the first to congratulate Johnny as the latter holed out on the 18th green. The colonel has been among those present at most of Johnny's golf triumphs.

Jack Westland just couldn't get them to go right yesterday. He encountered difficulty all along the way, the worst coming on the ninth hole where he hooked his drive into the trees. In trying to play over the trees, the ball failed to lift and it dropped dead under a low limb which forced Jack to blast it out at right angles. His fourth then sailed over the green and he eventually holed out in six, two over par.

Charles Kocsis of Detroit, achieved the biggest reversal in scoring for the tournament. After shooting 47—40—87 on Monday, he came back yesterday with a flashy 74 for a total of 161 which left him several places removed from the qualifying bracket.

One of the prettiest shots of the day was made by Dr. O. F. Willing when he laid his third, a full iron shot, an inch from the pin on the 18th. One more turn of the ball and it would have toppled in for an eagle 3.

F. H. Brown of Hawaii, gave the gallery at the sixth a thrill when he holed his shot from a trap next to the green. The performance gave him a birdie 2 for the hole.

The sudden downpour in the afternoon added further to the difficulties of the late starters. Chick Evans and Johnny Goodman, playing together, were one of the twosomes caught in the midst of the deluge. The rain continued for the remainder of the afternoon.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

SULLIVAN AND KILRAIN.

DEAR HARVEY: The Tribune editorial of Aug. 29 on Jake Kilrain was very interesting. The name always recalls his 75 round battle with John L. Sullivan at Richburg, Miss., July 8, 1889. Few persons know that Sullivan and Kilrain had another fight 20 years later. It took place at Butte, Mont., in 1909.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

Sullivan, on a vaudeville tour, had Jake with him as sparring partner. There also were a couple of wrestlers with the troupe. "Diamond Frank" Hall, who owned the Eden Musee and Mystic Maze on Wabash avenue, was manager and I was publicity man. John L. had been on the "water wagon" for a year or two at that time. As a matter of fact, he remained on it and died Feb. 2, 1918, at the age of 59.

Kilrain never was much of a drinker, but he liked a "shot" now and then. Between a matinée and night show at Butte, Jake met a couple of old friends, traveling men from his home town, Baltimore. The three of them parked their heels on the brass rail of the hotel bar, and by show time were feeling "pretty good." In the meantime the traveling men were urging Kilrain to sail in that night and knock out Sullivan.

"You can easily do it, Jake," they kept telling him, "and every newspaper in the country will print big headlines about it. You'll be the drawing card then instead of the ex-champion, and the big money will go in your pocket." (Sullivan was paying Kilrain $100 per week and expenses.)

Jake, in a receptive mood after the libations, said he'd do it, and started for the theater. His friends were sitting in the front row when Hall, who acted as referee and timekeeper, introduced the fighters and called "time."

"Be careful, Jake," cautioned the Big Fellow.

"Careful, hell," replied Kilrain. "You beat me once, but you can't do it again. I'm going to knock you out."

With that he soaked Sullivan another on the jaw.

Then the "Boston Strong Boy" lost his temper, and as Jake led again he blocked the blow and sent his famous right crashing into Kilrain's chin, and the latter went down, knocking over a piece of scenery as he fell. The curtain was rung down and stage hands carried Jake to his dressing room. He was "out" ten minutes. When he came to he was practically sober and apologized to Sullivan.

Then Jake went looking for his two friends, but they had discreetly disappeared. It was well for them they did, because Kilrain afterward said: "I may not be able to beat Sullivan, but I surely can beat the two guys who advised me to try it."

I saw Kilrain in Quincy, Mass., two years ago, and in appearance and weight (185 pounds) there wasn't much change in him from his prize ring days. Joe Dorney.

Peoria Three Eye Team Whips Cards at Night, 3-2

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—The Peoria Three Eye baseball club tonight defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National league, 3 to 2, in ten innings. Tripp Sigman's homer in the tenth scored the deciding tally.

was perfect, but again the soft course held his second just off the 365 yard green. He took 5, going two over par when his fourth rimmed the cup. It was raining hard again after letting up for a half hour, and the pairs ahead had dug up the greens and made them skiddy around the cups.

There is no trouble on the drive at the 414-yard fifth except the rough. Johnny drove down the middle, sacrificing as he did on many tee shots, ten or fifteen yards distance for accuracy. The shot then facing him was up a long hill lined with traps and bunkers. He chose an iron and was short, but he had played to the only safe spot. He chipped up and dropped the putt for par 4.

Goodman played a high No. 2 iron on the par 3, 187 yard sixth that had the breeze gauged perfectly. He was on the pin 25 feet short and rimmed the cup on a curving putt. There was no question about the next.

Plays Seventh Perfectly.

He drove up over the big hill on the long seventh, splitting the fairway, and banged a brassie to a place where he had an opening to the green. Goodman held his chip below the cup to insure an uphill putt and was down in par 5 for the 558 yards.

Goodman had to play to the low side of the fairway on the 375 yard eighth to avoid traps. His second was hole high to the left of the flag after he had played a high iron over traps surrounding the green, and he got his par 4.

The ninth is another dog leg to the left and the tee shot is down a narrow alley between woods. Goodman was in the middle for his second. Here the soggy course tricked him and the shot hit a bunker, the first shot of the nine not hit cleanly. He was short again and ended with 6 on a green of mud.

That was the round of a player the students say looks before he shoots, the round of a man playing under adverse conditions to qualify. He said he wanted a pair of forties. Add up the nine holes; you'll find they total 40. Then a 42 on the second nine gave Goodman a 158 total, which enabled him to qualify.

ABDEL DISPLAYS HIS COURAGE IN WINNING DAHLIA

Rallies in Stretch to Beat Voltagreen.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Abdel and Voltagreen, two brilliant sprinters, but each with a weak heart when challenged, staged a thrilling battle in the Dahlia purse at six furlongs at Lincoln Fields yesterday.

After they had fought it out from the head of the stretch and each had been leading a couple of times, Abdel proved to be the gamer and in the last half dozen strides poked his nose in front just in time to win by the length of it.

The people who direct Abdel's racing affairs have been sending him out in longer races lately and, when time after time he quit in the stretch, the folks on the lawn began to think his heart was small and they questioned his courag.

No Coward, This Abdel.

But he had plenty of courage in this race For Voltagreen moved out around him a sixteenth of a mile from home and was leading at one time by a good half length. It looked as if Abdel was going to be pinched off next to the rail.

Instead, Jockey Corbett began driving him and he squirmed through the narrow opening to get the decision in the final strides. Infinity was third and would have been closer but for some interference. He was running as stout as any of them when the verdict was returned.

Abdel ran his six furlongs in 1:15 1-5 and in the mutuels paid $11.82. Voltagreen had been the favorite and Infinity had many backers.

Rains which had visited many parts of Chicago skipped over and around the race course and the track was improving during the early part of the afternoon, but a storm was threatening when the last races were run. It was a big afternoon for the veteran jockey, Earl Pool. He kicked home three winners.

Sensational 2 year olds are developing almost overnight in the west these days.

Here's a New Star: Kakapo.

The latest is Kakapo, owned by H. S. Clark, wealthy easterner. The daughter of Macaw-Whisk By smothered her field in the Kensington purse at 6 furlongs and beat Depression, from Banker Farrish's barn, by five lengths. She made the slow track look fast when she pulled out into a tead of six lengths when she rounded the bend into the stretch.

Jockey Pool looked back and discovered he was safely home. Then he put tight wraps on the fleet filly and let her coast home. Depression was far ahead of Shaker Lady, which finished third. It was the third start Kakapo ever made. She lost to the stake winner, Butter Beans, in Kentucky when she was making her first trip to the barrier. Her next racing attempt was at Lincoln Fields a week ago and she was a handy winner.

The crowd flocked to her support in the Kensington and she was one of the shortest priced favorites of the season in Chicago, paying a little better than 1 to 2. Kakapo is a Whitney bred filly, but was purchased as a yearling by Clark. The speed she showed yesterday reminded the racegoers of the eastern champion 2 year old Top Flight when she raced to her impressive victory in the Lassie stakes at Arlington. The time over the slow, dull track was nothing exceptional, 1:15, but Kakapo didn't have to run any faster.

Pirates Buy Hurler Harris from Ft. Worth, Tex., Team

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 1.—(AP)—The sale of William [Hard Luck] Harris, right handed pitcher, to the Pittsburgh Pirates was announced today by the Fort Worth Texas league club. He will finish the season with the Pirates.

NEW YORK RING BOARD, POLICE STOP A. A. U. SHOW

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—After the state athletic commission formally assumed control today of amateur boxing in this state police turned away a crowd of 3,000 and prevented the show at the Long Beach stadium tonight, where an A. A. U. boxing tournament was scheduled under the auspices of the Long Beach Square club and several Knights of Columbus councils.

The first application of the recent rulings of Attorney General John J. Bennett and Supreme Court Justice Albert Cohen recognizing the jurisdiction of the commission to control and regulate amateur boxing tournaments in this state was enforced by a dozen policemen, who stationed themselves outside the stadium and refused the fans entrance.

The police said they were acting as a result of an order received by the district attorney's office from the athletic commission to prevent the show. Tonight was the first time police have been used to enforce the rulings and came after the commission took over formal control of amateur boxing despite the vigorous opposition of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, which had held jurisdiction over the amateur branch of boxing here for the last 40 years.

FIVE REGISTER PERFECT SCORES IN RIFLE SHOOT

Camp Perry, O., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Five shooters registered the highest possible score, 50, in the Crowell match of the National Rifle meet here today, but Vincent J. Tiefenbrunn, of St. Louis, was declared winner when judges found his target superior.

Tiefenbrunn, a member of the Sixth Corps area C. M. T. C. team, won over 1,255 riflemen, firing ten shots slow fire from 600 yards.

Others who scored possible 50's were Gunnery Sergeant S. J. Sziga, United States Marines; Sergt. William Cherry, United States infantry; Sergt. E. Freeman, Ohio National Guard, Cleveland, and Sergt. M. A. Zavadsky, United States infantry.

Gunnery Sergeant Henry Crowe, United States Marine corps, declared winner of the member match, also fired at 600 yard slow fire, on his superior possible 50.

MR. SPONGE RUNS FASTEST MILE OF SARATOGA MEET

Beats Flying Heels Three Lengths in Delaware.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—The fastest mile of the Saratoga meeting, run in smashing style by Joseph E. Widener's Mr. Sponge, prevented Flying Heels from winning twice in succession the Delaware handicap, which had its twenty-eighth renewal here today. Mr. Sponge was timed in 1:36 2-5, and he won by three lengths from Flying Heels, which just nosed Hillsborough out of second.

The time of Mr. Sponge is only two-fifths of a second off the Saratoga mile record, which was set in the Delaware of 1918, when Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Briar, sire of Sun Beau, ran the distance as a 3 year old under 113 pounds in 1:36 1-5. In 1919 Fair Wand, a 5 year old bearing the silks of the late Gifford A. Cochran, equaled the mark under 107 pounds.

Last year Flying Heels bore Mr. Cochran's silks to victory in the Delaware for the second time, but he could not win twice for himself. He now is owned by John J. Curtis and went to the post the 12 to 5 favorite in a field of eight.

Mr. Sponge was heavily backed to be the second choice at 5 to 2, particularly as he was in very well with 112 pounds as against 117 for Flying Heels. Hillsborough, the absolute outsider, ran a good race under able handling of Sidney Hebert and got up to land second, in the opinion of some.

his 3 year old engagements. Training was something Sun Beau didn't like. His laziness crept up on him time after time while they were trying to get him into shape beneath the hot Dixie sunshine.

Nevertheless he moved into Maryland early in the spring in fairly good condition and joined the other horses in the Kilmer string. It was in the Eclipse handicap at Havre de Grace that he made his first start as a 3 year old on April 21, 1923. After coming from behind and galloping into the lead in the stretch, he loafed right at the finish and Contemplate came along to beat him by a nose.

A few days later in the Pathfinder purse, with everybody in the state of Maryland and most of the people in New York backing him, he came from behind and won by three lengths. Water Lad, War Whoop, Arcade, and Ferry of Fate were some of those who trailed him home over a muddy track. The folks who bet on him got 1 to 2 for their money and they thought it was a good price. This was one of the few races Sun Beau ever won in the mud but he negotiated the heavy going that day like a tried and true mudlark.

He Comes from Behind, as Usual, to Win Again.

Then they began getting Sun Beau ready for his three big 3 year old engagements—the Preakness at Pimlico, the Derby in Kentucky and the Belmont stakes in New York. Sun Beau tried to be serious about his training but he wouldn't work as hard as his trainer, Bill Carroll, liked and when he was next to last in the Chesapeake stakes on April 30—a warmup for the Preakness—it seemed doubtful if he would fill any of his dates in the trio of wealthy stakes which were to follow.

Sun Beau, at long odds, next won an overnight handicap at Pimlico. He raced up from behind and beat Don Q. Solace, Strolling Player, and Night Life. This unexpected triumph on May 8 gave him his chance to run in the Preakness three days later.

Sun Beau ran nobly in the Preakness, yet the best he could do was finish fifth behind Victorian, Toro, Solace, and Strolling Player. He was beaten by about five lengths, and the chartmaker remarked, "Sun Beau was forced to race wide all the way and lost much ground."

Eighteen had started in the Preakness and Sun Beau demonstrated in this race [and many times since has he demonstrated it again] that he does not like a track which has short turns. On that account he never has won a race at Pimlico. Not long after this he also gave convincing proof that he wasn't going to be able to do his best on a muddy track.

This happened in the Kentucky Derby, run eight days later on May 19, where he was to meet his old partner Reigh Count for the first time since they had greeted each other while at the post in the Pimlico Futurity the fall before.

The Weather Man Does His Worst for Derby.

Mud, rain, thunder, lightning, and everything that was disagreeable prevailed when Reigh Count and Sun Beau, with some 25 other 3 year olds, paraded to the post in the Derby. The day was too stormy for Reigh Count and Sun Beau to have much of a chat together. Besides Reigh Count probably was too intent on winning to be very sociable. He—Reigh Count—splattered on to victory, but, even though Sun Beau finished eleventh, no doubt he thought this second meeting with Reigh Count was well worth the muddy journey of a mile and a quarter.

Less than a month later Sun Beau ran last in the Belmont stakes, which was won by Vito, and later he made his first trip west to be beaten by half a length on July 7 by Toro in the Lincoln handicap. Sun Beau forced Toro to run so fast in that race, however, that Toro went wrong soon afterwards. The race also took something out of Sun Beau for three weeks later in the Saratoga handicap he was fourth, beaten by Chance Shot, Black Maria, and Edith Cavell.

So went Sun Beau on his up and down career. He met Reigh Count for the last time five days later in the Miller stakes at Saratoga and again was badly beaten. It was the only time that the chartmaker ever wrote "Sun Beau quit."

IMPROVE ROADS AND SAVE LIVES IS MOTOR PLEA

Increased Death Toll Brings Demand.

Grade separations, elevated highways, and wider streets and roads would decrease automobile fatalities in the Chicago metropolitan area. This was the opinion of a number of authorities interviewed yesterday with a view to seeking a remedy for the appalling rise in automobile deaths.

Although there are fewer automobiles on the streets because of the depression, Chicago fatalities have increased 27.7 per cent for the first seven months of this year over a similar period last year, according to statistics of the Chicago Motor club. Over the same period there has been an increase of 37.8 in injuries.

797 Deaths in 8 Months.

The coroner's record shows that during the first eight months of this year there were 797 automobile deaths in Cook county. This is an increase of 154 over the first eight months of 1930.

"It is necessary, if accidents are to be reduced, to separate the slow and fast traffic," said Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club. "The ignorant or indifferent driver who drives on the inner lane of traffic is a potential murderer. High speed roads would do wonders in eliminating hazards. Also they would save time for the motorist who drives to work."

Bundesen Also Makes Plea.

"Build grade separations and wider highways and I am certain automobile deaths will be diminished," said Coroner Bundesen.

Mayor Cermak indorsed the construction of elevated roads. "Something must be done," he said, "and that sort of construction would be a great help."

Judge John P. McGoorty, chief justice of the Criminal court, favored improvement in road facilities and said there should be vigorous prosecution of drivers whose recklessness or negligence results in deaths.

Frank Shannon of First Union Trust Bank Dies

Frank J. Shannon, assistant secretary of the First Union Trust and Savings bank, died at Santa Fe, N. M., on Monday. His body is being brought back to Chicago for burial and is expected to arrive today. Mr. Shannon lived at 10045 South Seeley avenue. He is survived by his widow, Marcella N., and three children, Frank J. Jr., Natalie, and John D.

MADE 52 MILLION, IF THEY SOLD; LOST IT IF THEY HELD

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Although the estate of Payne Whitney showed an enhancement of $52,721,270 between the time of his death on May 25, 1927, and the distribution to the legatees two years later, the shrinkage in the last two years, had the holdings remained intact, would have been such as of the end of August, 1931, to leave the net value virtually unchanged. The estate was valued at more than 200 millions.

This is indicated by rough calculations touching the principal security items of the Northern Finance corporation, which was the holding company for the Whitney estate.

The indicated paper loss on the securities, if held to the end of August, 1931, would have been $53,425,963.

There is no way of telling, of course, what securities have been liquidated since their distribution to the legatees. Presumably, many of them have been sold, but it is believed that the bulk of the investments has been retained, particularly those in which the Whitney family has been interested for many years. The latter group would include several of the Standard Oil issues, bank stocks, tobaccos and public utility holdings.

Profits of $7,414,898 were realized on assets sold by the executors prior to the distribution, and there was a further indicated increase of $42,306,372 in the value of securities held up to May, 1929.

100,000 FILIPINOS STAGE LIBERTY FETE FOR HURLEY

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

MANILA, Sept. 1.—One hundred thousand Filipinos participated in an independence demonstration this afternoon for the benefit of Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, who arrived this morning from Shanghai. Fifteen thousand of these marched in a parade. The entire occasion was remarkable for its good nature and absence of anti-American feeling.

Mr. Hurley had gone to Malacanan palace following his arrival, and when the parade came along he appeared at the gate. He was cheered vociferously, but his presence disorganized the marchers, since all attempted to crowd as near as possible. Mr. Hurley then climbed on a truck rigged up as a reviewing stand. This was the signal for an enormous rush by the crowd and the secretary of war and Gov. Gen. Dwight F. Davis retired to the palace.

JOHN TERHUNE, VETERAN OF '61, IS DEAD AT 92

John Terhune, civil war veteran, banker, and farmer, died suddenly yesterday in his home, 124 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park. He was 92 years old. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow from the Oak Park Unity church.

Mr. Terhune is survived by his widow, Rebecca, 88 years old, and a daughter, Morna, wife of Dr. Daniel T. Denman, pastor of the Oak Park Unity church.

Born on an Indiana farm, Mr. Terhune was descended from old French Huguenot stock. He went as a youth to Missouri when that state was in its first stages of formation. At Maryville, Mo., he was a court clerk and then a banker.

When the civil war broke out Mr. Terhune enlisted in a Missouri regiment. He moved to Evanston twenty-five years ago, spent a few years there, then operated a farm in Michigan for fifteen years. He came to Oak Park six years ago.

Secretary H. S. Condit, Seminary Official, Dies

Springfield, O., Sept. 1.—(AP)—The Rev. H. S. Condit, 64, secretary of the Presbyterian Theological seminary at Omaha, died today of injuries received in an automobile accident near here Wednesday night. The body will be taken to Topeka, Kas., for burial.

MOTHER DENIES SON'S TALE SHE KILLED HUSBAND

Amelia Courthouse, Va., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Jeston Allen Jones, mother of eight, denied in her trial for murder today that she killed her husband, J. Will Jones, or that she plotted his death with Richard Lee, Negro farm hand. Her eldest son, Robert, had accused his mother of the plot and of urging him to take his father's life.

Mrs. Jones also said there "was not a word of truth" in testimony of Richard Lee, who is serving twenty years in prison for the crime. Lee told the court that Mrs. Jones and another son, Oscar, offered him $25 on several occasions to commit the crime.

Oscar Jones, who waived immunity to testify for his mother along with a brother and three sisters, likewise denied the statements of his brother, Robert.

Mrs. Jones was subjected to a grueling cross-examination, but she held to the story as related during her direct examination under questioning of her own attorneys.

"He was pressing me because I wouldn't promise him all the money he wanted," she said in explanation of Robert's appearance against her. "He told me if I gave him money to finish V. P. I and medical school he would stay out of the case."

FANNING RITES TOMORROW; VET OF STAGE UNION

Funeral services for John J. Fanning, known in labor and theatrical circles in Chicago for more than forty years, will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow in the chapel at 5525 North Clark street. Burial will be at Rosehill. Mr. Fanning was 83 years old and died yesterday in his home, 1039 Dakin street. He is survived by his widow, Kate.

At one time Mr. Fanning was president of the Moving Picture Operators' union, leaving them to become affiliated with the Theatrical Workers' Protective union. He was president of the latter organization for 32 years. At the time of his retirement two years ago Mr. Fanning had been with the Grand Opera house for 19 years as chief electrician. The 23 years previous to that he was on the staff of the Auditorium.

TORRIO IS TOLD HE MUST REMAIN IN CITY AWHILE

The government informed Johnny Torrio yesterday that whether he liked Chicago or not he would have to stay around for a while. The former gang boss, who was brought here from his Long Island home under subpoena as a prospective witness in Al Capone's income tax trial, said he was sorry to be back and wanted to leave immediately. Yesterday he was questioned again by federal prosecutors who are preparing the evidence against Capone. With Torrio in the inquisitorial chambers were Louis La Cava, exiled Cicero gambler, and Louis Cowen, Cicero publisher.

Fumes from a leak in an ammonia pipe in the basement of the Tavern Coffee shop, 1226 Milwaukee avenue, drove ten employes and ten customers to the street yesterday. Firemen, with gas masks, repaired the pipe.

NEW SUITS FILED TO GET REALTY AND PERSONALTY TAXES

Assistant State's Attorney Lee La Rochelle yesterday filed 200 additional suits against Cook county taxpayers for 1929 personal property taxes, bringing the total number of suits filed to more than 1,000 and the amount of taxes involved to more than $1,000,000. Those filed yesterday were against business concerns and included actions against the Stevens Hotel company for $12,300, the Blackstone company for $1,537.50, the Charles A. Stevens company for $16,974, McVicker's theater for $3,690, and the 1120 Lake Shore Drive building for $4,182. All the suits were in the Circuit court.

Henry M. Ashton, special attorney appointed by the county board to collect back taxes, filed suits in the Superior court asking a foreclosure and the appointment of a receiver for six properties for which, with penalties, $31,239 is owed to the county.

The property owners and the taxes involved are as follows: Oscar Wolff, former coroner, $11,510, delinquent from 1915 to 1928; William H. Lewis, real estate operator at 3644 East 112th street, $9,296, delinquent 1902-'27; Francis J. Sullivan, $6,097, 1919-'28; George H. Murphy, $2,136, 1926-'28; Alma M. Olson, $1,771, 1899-1928; Lee Cohn, $1,430, 1926-'28.

FORTY DOCTORS ARE INDICTED ON LIQUOR CHARGES

New York, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Forty physicians, two druggists, and two drug clerks were indicted by the August term of the federal grand jury in Brooklyn today as a result of an investigation by department of justice agents and United States Attorney Howard W. Ameli into the illegal sale of liquor by druggists and the sale of doctors' prescriptions for liquor.

The indictments were handed up to Federal Judge William B. Sheppard. The investigation by federal officials has been under way for several months.

Commenting on the indictments, Judge Sheppard pointed out that physicians are permitted to issue 100 prescriptions every three months, or 400 a year, for the purchase of liquor. He referred to Hyman Berlind, a druggist of Richmond Hill, Queens, one of those indicted, as one of the "centers of the conspiracy" to violate the Volstead act.

"This jury is to be commended," Judge Sheppard said, after he received the indictments. If other juries would do their duty in the same way there would be no need for meetings at Madison Square Garden to consider means for getting rid of gangsters."

Darwin Royston Funeral Services to Be Tomorrow

Funeral services for Darwin E. Royston, president of the F. E. Royston company, wholesale grocers, who died in his home in Aurora on Monday night, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the home. Mr. Royston was one of the founders of the company and had been its head since 1905. He was 67 years old.

AMERICAN WIDOW OF T. P. O'CONNOR DIES AT SEVENTY

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The Texas born widow of the late T. P. O'Connor—the famous "Tay Pay," distinguished Irish leader in the house of commons for years—died suddenly of pneumonia this morning. She was 70 years of age. Her son, Francis, was at the bedside.

She met the "father of the house of commons" during a visit to London while she was a New York newspaper woman. She "fell in love with his voice," she explained later and they were married in 1885 soon after their meeting. Mrs. O'Connor wrote a play, "Lady from Texas," and she took the principal rôle when it was produced in London. She had lived in complete retirement for years.

Mrs. O'Connor was born in Austin, Tex., the daughter of Supreme Court Judge George W. Paschall. Before her marriage to O'Connor she had been married once before, to F. G. Howard of Washington, D. C.

DR. KOEHLER IS OUSTED BY CIVIL SERVICE BOARD

The city civil service commission yesterday ordered the dismissal of Dr. Gottfried Koehler, an assistant commissioner of health since 1916, and a member of the health department for 25 years. Dr. Koehler is known as an authority on advanced medical science as developed in Germany.

DR. KOEHLER.

The charge of neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming a city employé was brough by Health Commissioner Bundesen and Dr. Hugh O. Jones, assistant health commissioner, last April. Dr. Koehler's accusers said he had failed to prevent use of health department bulletins for political uses by the former city administration.

The unanimous verdict of the commissioners, headed by Richard J. Collins, was that Dr. Koehler was "guilty of gross negligence in failing to safeguard the accuracy, truthfulness, and scientific competence of the quinquennial report for the years 1926-1930 as well as the weekly health department bulletin, "Chicago's Health."

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES FIRMER TOWARD CLOSE

Grigsby-Grunow Expands Radio Output.

The Chicago stock market generated a little pep toward the close yesterday and managed to overcome early irregularity. With few exceptions, the leading issues finished moderately higher than on Monday, although trading as a whole droned along at a moderate pace. Total transactions were 54,000 shares.

U. S. Radio led in activity and advanced 1¼ points on short covering. In the same group, Grigsby-Grunow and Q. R. S.-De Vry finished unchanged. There wasn't much news to inspire any particular advance in the radio shares, although Don M. Compton, vice president of Grigsby-Grunow, announced that the company's production schedule for the first week of September exceeds 3,500 radio sets a day. The season's production was begun on Aug. 15 and output will be still further expanded in view of the fact that distributors have placed orders involving around $11,000,000 at retail prices for delivery by Oct. 1.

Displays Strong Tone.

The automotive group displayed a strong tone. Bendix Aviation and Borg-Warner registered fraction gains on a fair volume of trading. The investment group was irregular, with a fraction gain in Insull Utility Investments being counteracted by a fractional loss in Continental Chicago.

The public utility group remained under the cloud of further weakness in North American Light & Power. On the second largest individual turnover, this issue opened moderately lower at 52, dropped to 46½ and finished at 48½, thus making a net loss of 4 points on the day and a decline of 15½ points in two days. Selling again was attributed to lack of active support by sponsors of the issue and the fact that it was selling out of line with other utility issues on the basis of current earnings.

Electrical Output Rises.

On the other hand, Middle West Utilities made a small fractional gain following announcement that the system's electrical output for the week ended Aug. 29 showed an increase of more than 5 per cent over the corresponding week in 1930. Public Service of Northern Illinois advanced a point on light trading. Associated Telephone Utilities declined fractionally. The company announced acquisition of the Central Union Telephone company of Wisconsin, which serves more than 9,000 subscribers in 29 communities.

In the miscellaneous division, National Standard declined 2¼ points, Bastian-Blessing was off a point and Cities Service eased fractionally. Walgreen made a fractional gain and Great Lakes Aircraft was unchanged.

The Chicago exchange announced that arrangements had been completed for the sale of a membership for $10,000, an advance of $500 over the last previous sale.

FAVORS PUSHING ON TIME BUYING AS BUSINESS AID

Finance Firms Seek Depression Cure.

The principal stock exchanges and commodity markets will take a three day recess over Labor day. The governors of the New York Stock and Curb exchanges, the Chicago Stock and Curb exchanges, and the Chicago Board of Trade acted yesterday to close next Saturday, in addition to next Monday. Similar action was taken by the New York Coffee and Sugar, Cotton, Rubber, Silk, and Hide exchanges and the New Orleans Cotton exchange. Banks throughout the country will be open Saturday but will be closed Monday.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Would a broad extension of installment buying bring trade back to normal and end the depression? An affirmative answer to this question is the belief of the National Association of Finance Companies, which in recent days has combated the charge of many economists that installment buying has been one of the forms of inflation that culminated in disaster in 1929.

The association will hold its annual convention in Chicago this fall and in its notice of the meeting, issued last night, says that ways and means will be discussed for employing the facilities of the finance concerns "to restore normal retail buying and end the depression." About 300 companies, with capital resources of approximately $2,000,000, are expected to be represented.

"An important object of the meeting will be to discuss how the finance companies can marshall their facilities in the proper increase of consumer credit," C. C. Hanch, general manager of the association, explained. "Consumer credit is necessary for consumption, ability to consume must precede production and production is the foundation of restored prosperity.

Will Broaden Field.

"Many of these finance companies have in the past devoted their attention chiefly to automobile paper. However, the time has come when a greater number will broaden their field. They will do a volume of business in the neighborhood of $2,500,000,000 this year. A larger volume could be done safely at less cost to the public if finance company paper was eligible for rediscount at federal reserve banks. A question to be decided is in what channels finance company facilities can be most profitably employed for the restoration of normal business activities."

An analysis of installment buying recently issued by the association combats the view that the American people have gone unduly into debt.

"The installment debt which existed at the end of the boom year of 1929, a year in which no doubt many people bought more than was really wise, has long since been paid off practically in its entirety," the survey says.

BUSINESS NEWS MIXED

Items of business and industry yesterday presented the familiar mixture of good and bad. The railroads reported a second successive weekly increase in traffic, but it was somewhat less than seasonal and also less than had been expected. Loading of revenue freight for the week ended Aug. 29 totaled 848,711 cars, an increase of 5,000 over the preceding week, but 107,000 below the corresponding week last year. The largest declines from a year ago occurred in miscellaneous freight, coal, merchandise and ore.

Commercial failures last week were fewer than in the preceding week or a year ago, according to Bradstreet's survey. The number was 353, which was 39 less than in the previous week and 19 fewer than a year ago.

Steel output sagged during the last week to 29 per cent of capacity, compared with 32 per cent in the preceding week, according to the American Iron and Steel Market. It stated that production now is at the lowest level of the current depression, with August output averaging 33 per cent, compared with 34 per cent for July.

Trade Conditions to Have Final Say on Tax Increase

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—The government financial situation was discussed by President Hoover and his cabinet today but no decision was reached as to whether a tax increase should be recommended this winter. Following the cabinet meeting it became known that no decision on the question of a tax increase will be reached by President Hoover and Secretary Mellon for some months to come.

This question will finally be determined, it was learned, largely by the economic situation abroad and the business outlook in this country at the time congress meets. Should conditions in Europe improve to the extent that a greater market is created for American products with a resulting stimulation of industries in this country, it is unlikely that any change in the tax system will be asked this coming winter, as it is felt that any degree of economic recovery would have an immediate effect on tax receipts.

Signs of Upturn.

Certain factors in the American economic situation have contributed to give the White House hope that better business conditions are on the way. The President has been informed that there has been some diminution in unemployment and that conditions in some industries have improved. It is too early, however, to state whether these indications are harbingers of a real economic recovery.

Should there be no substantial improvement in the business and employment situation, then the subject of a tax increase will be given more serious consideration. While administration officials as well as Republican congressmen are almost unanimous in desiring to postpone a tax increase during a period of depression and at a time when a national election is approaching, it was learned today that high officials feel it would not be advisable to go on indefinitely acquiring cash for government expenditure by increasing the gross public debt.

The unemployment situation this coming winter is also expected to have an important bearing on the tax problem. The government today, according to treasury figures, is spending at the rate of 500 millions annually for public works construction and other unemployment relief measures. Should it become necessary to increase this figure in order to fulfil the recent White House pledge that it would meet the unemployment distress situation with an adequate program which would make certain no one starved, this also would have to be considered by the President and his advisers in determining how to obtain funds to operate the government.

Through what channels the government would increase its aid to the unemployed in event the unemployment crisis becomes more acute has not been made known. There have been no indications that the White House would approve payment of direct relief funds. It is held more likely that if any direct relief is accorded by the federal government it would be done through the war and other departments. The war department already stands prepared to furnish cots, clothing, and in certain instances shelter if necessary.

Burden May Be Lightened.

Assurances have reached the White House from hundreds of cities and from many states that no federal aid beyond public works construction will be needed this winter. As a result, administration officials are more optimistic that the depression will not prove as burdensome this winter as had been expected.

One of the factors that has worried treasury officials is the circumstance that governmental expenditures have continued to increase during this year while receipts have continued to fall. It is felt in the highest quarters that the depression has shown the unreliability of individual and corporation taxes as raisers of revenue under both good and bad conditions.

The inability of administration officials to forecast the amount of appropriations that will be voted this winter has also contributed to delay a decision on the tax question.

Pure Oil.

I am about to buy for cash for investment purposes Pure Oil company 6 per cent preferred. Any information on this will be appreciated.—W. O. C.

Pure Oil company was incorporated in 1914. It originally operated as a natural gas company. With the discovery of oil on its lands it developed into an important petroleum producer. It engages in all phases of the industry—production, transportation, refining, and marketing.

Total production for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1931, was more than 20,000,000 barrels. The combined daily capacity of its natural gasoline plants totals 33,900,000 cubic feet of natural gas and 60,000 gallons of natural gasoline.

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 1931, net income was $2,617,748, which was 1.27 times combined preferred dividends and equal to 18 cents per common share.

Inventory adjustment during the year totaled $5,200,000, of which $3,052,751 was deducted from surplus. After deduction of dividends and adjustments surplus declined $4,770,732 during the year.

For the 1930 fiscal year net income was $6,539,521, which was 3.33 times preferred dividends and equal to $1.52 per common share. Net income for the year ended March 31, 1929, was $11,224,081, against $4,710,585 for the preceding twelve months.

On March 31, 1931, current assets were $27,096,093, or 2.5 times current liabilities of $10,834,992. Cash was $4,419,431. Working capital was $16,261,106, against $27,395,540 the year before.

In connection with the omission of the common dividend, due in January, 1931, the management stated that because of proration measures it had been able to make effective use of only a small portion of its properties although development work was being carried on. The company at the time was building pipe lines which were not fully productive until the spring of this year. In view of these factors and the highly unsettled condition of the industry it was felt advisable to omit common dividends until conditions in the industry have improved and the company is in a position to operate a larger portion of its properties to advantage.

On March 31, 1930, bonded debt was $36,500,000. There were outstanding 300,000 preferred shares [par $100] and 3,038,370 shares of common [par $25].

Dividends are being paid on the preferred. It is medium grade. The common is a speculation.

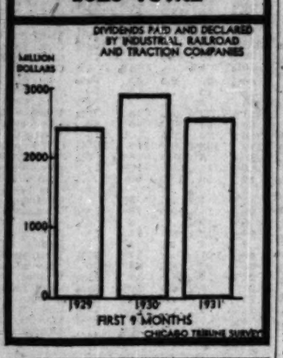
CORPORATE DIVIDENDS FOR NINE MONTHS DESPITE RECENT RATE REDUCTIONS EXCEED 1929 TOTAL



SUBMIT SEVEN BIDS FOR OPERATION OF MUSCLE SHOALS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Further proposals for the operation and lease of the Muscle Shoals project were awaited tonight as Chairman S. F. Hobbs of the Muscle Shoals commission said every means to place the project in private hands would be exhausted before the question of governmental operation would be considered.

The commission called on President Hoover late in the day after intermittent sessions at which it was decided to extend indefinitely the period within which bids could be submitted.

The President, Hobbs said, reiterated his opposition to government operation, but the commission chairman added that his group was not committed to any one plan and that if private operation was unfeasible, it was free to recommend governmental operation.

He asserted the commission's hands were "not tied," but had the principal duty of devising a means for the operation of the plant as an aid to agriculture.

Seven bids were before the commission when it began its session. They were submitted by P. E. Castleberry, Shreveport, La.; Lloyd H. Smith, Battle Creek, Mich.; the Chemical Development company, New York City; Tennessee Electric Power company, Chattanooga; Alabama Power company, Birmingham; Baily Furnace company, Canton, O., and the Davison Chemical company, Baltimore.

Indications had reached the commission that the Union Carbide company of New York, and the American Farm Bureau federation of Chicago, would submit proposals if given more time and additional data on the cost of operation and capacity of nitrate plants Nos. 1 and 2.

Rubber Stabilization Proposal Strikes Snag

The New York Rubber exchange announced receipt of advices that an effort on the part of the British rubber interests in Ceylon to engage the Dutch authorities in a conference on a proposed rubber stabilization plan has been refused by the new governor general, who said he would prefer to hear the Dutch version of the question first.

Receiver Is Appointed for Tri-Utilities Corporation

New York, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Formation of a reorganization committee for the Tri-Utilities corporation was announced today, after appointment of a receiver for the large public utility holding corporation in Wilmington, Del.

The company controls utilities serving nearly 700 municipalities scattered through 26 states. Total assets were carried in the Dec. 31 balance sheet at $397,487,420.

The corporation defaulted on the semi-annual interest payment due today on its 5 per cent convertible debenture bonds. The reorganization committee will work out a plan expected to keep the properties intact.

The system's difficulties are understood in Wall street to be due to inability to finance its capital requirements through security sales under existing market conditions. On June 15 it paid off part of a maturing one year note issue outstanding with the public, but it was assumed that the size of the interest payment due today and the maturity of $2,346,000 issue of secured debentures on Dec. 15 had offered an awkward financing problem under present conditions.

Incorporated in 1929.

Tri-Utilities was incorporated in Delaware on March 4, 1929, as the United Power Gas and Water corporation, but the name was changed on Aug. 1 of the same year. Its subsidiaries are the Federal Water Service corporation, supplying water to 300 communities in ten states; Peoples Light and Power corporation, which operates in 19 states; American Natural Gas corporation, operating in Kansas and Oklahoma; Southern Natural Gas corporation, which owns and operates a pipe line system serving 43 communities in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi, and Power, Gas and Water Securities corporation, which holds and deals in utility securities, chiefly those of Tri-Utilities system. Federal Water Service is the largest of these units, controlling the most extensive chain of privately owned water works properties in the country.

Tri-Utilities' president is G. L. Orrstrom, head of G. L. Orrstrom & Co., investment banking firm, which has been closely identified with the system since its organization. The corporation has outstanding the following securities: $12,024,000 principal amount of convertible debentures due Sept. 1, 1979; $2,346,000 secured debentures due Dec. 15, next; 128,947 shares of $3 preferred stock; 10,000 shares of $6 preferred stock, and 310,583 shares of common stock.

Receiver Former Judge.

The receiver appointed by the United States District court at Wilmington is Hugh M. Morris of Wilmington, a former judge. The reorganization committee consists of Richard G. Hunt, chairman, of Chadburne, Hunt, Jaeckel & Brown; William Bucksbaum, who has heretofore been an active public utility executive, and Medley G. B. Whelpley, president of American Express Bank and Trust company of New York.

The petitioners, who compose a copartnership trading as Touche Nizen & Co., include George Touche, London, England; Charles Rupert Whitworth, Ravinia, Ill.; Edwin C. Dechert, Hopkins, Minn., and Robert C. Brown, Glencoe, Ill.

To Consider Reorganization.

The plaintiff company in the petition expressed the belief that assets of Tri-Utilities were in excess of liabilities. In appointing a receiver the court authorized and directed former Judge Morris to consult with the creditors and stockholders to form a plan to reorganize the company.

The plaintiff company also expressed the belief the company owes sums, in amounts unknown, to banks, payable on demand. The petition states the defendant company is indebted to the plaintiff since June 17, 1931, in the sum of $6,000 for professional services as public accountants in making a survey of the affairs of the company and its subsidiaries.

FLORIDA RAILWAY IS PLACED IN RECEIVERSHIP

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Federal Judge Louis W. Strum today granted a receivership for the Florida East Coast Railway company and appointed William R. Kenan Jr., president of the company, and Scott M. Loftin, vice president, as receivers.

The receivership was on application of the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky in behalf of itself and other creditors and consented to by the railway company. It becomes effective tomorrow.

The oil company's bill of complaint alleged that the railroad had failed to earn its operating expenses and fixed charges since 1927. It is understood a bondholders' committee is being formed to work out a reorganization.

Default in Seaboard Bonds.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Federal Judge Way signed an order late yesterday giving permission to receivers for the Seaboard Air Line railway to omit payment of interest amounting to $118,200 due Sept. 1 on Seaboard Air Line railway Atlanta-Birmingham first mortgage 4 per cent bonds. Interest was paid on these bonds March 1, it was set forth in the petition, and since that time the division has failed to produce the necessary amount of interest.

Treasury Offering Is 4 Times Oversubscribed

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Subscriptions to the $300,000,000 part of the $1,100,000,000 security issue announced by Secretary Mellon on Monday totaled four times the amount called for. The books were closed tonight on the 1¼ per cent one year certificates.

Secretary Mellon in a brief announcement said the subscription to the certificate issue in two days had amounted to $1,200,000,000 and that $500,000,000 of the amount was by persons wishing to exchange maturing certificates for the new issue. He said these subscribers would be allotted 60 per cent of their subscription, and none would go to subscribers who wished to purchase certificates for cash. The boks have not been closed on the $800,000,000 of 3 per cent bonds which made up the remainder of the issue. They will remain open for receipt of further subscription.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 1.—Business on the New York Stock exchange subsided to a mere whisper today. The statistician had to stretch a point to get a round estimate of 500,000 shares out of the turnover and the price fluctuations on the whole were the narrowest seen in years. Most of the active list was content to swing within a radius of a point between the high and low of the session.

The turnover was the smallest for a full trading day since October of 1924.

One good thing to be said about the market was that it was too lifeless to manifest interest in a number of unfavorable news developments, including receiverships for a railroad and a public utility corporation, a record of larger business insolvencies during August, and a roll of dividend reductions and interest defaults, all symptoms of the recession in general business.

Let Matters Drift.

Ordinarily the bears might have used these items as ammunition for some serious destructive work, but just now they seem disposed to let matters drift whither they will. Certainly none of the scattering of worthwhile minus signs recorded in the chronicle of today's doings can be charged to aggression on their part. Most of the losses that amounted to a hill of beans had to do with special situations, chiefly in the nature of impending dividend meetings and anticipated earnings statements.

Something of the same thing might be said of the few really impressive gains of the day. Issues affected one way or the other by such situations included Lambert, Purity Baking, United Biscuit and Detroit Edison.

Amusement Shares Brighter.

Amusement shares looked better than they have for several days, Loews setting the example with a gain of more than a point. Radio Keith, Fox Film and Warner Brothers all swung back to the plus side of the column after their setback of yesterday.

Some of the rails were also active

RETIRE AT 60

With a Guaranteed Monthly Income

Few of us ever pause in our daily routine to give thought to the years beyond sixty. Few of us ever even stop to inquire why we work. Nine out of ten of us work because we must—to provide food, clothing and shelter for ourselves and dependents. We fear we may die too soon—so we insure our lives. But if life is granted to us we seldom think of the years beyond sixty. Yet how much happier our lives would be if we approached that age with the assurance of a guaranteed monthly income that would free us from fear, worry and even work itself if we so desire. You can easily accomplish this by investing a small amount of your present income in a Guaranteed Investment Bond of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada. This Bond provides a guaranteed income of $50 to $500 a month, beginning at the age of 60 or sooner, payable for life. In the event of your death prior to the maturity date it will pay from $5,000 to $50,000 to your family or beneficiary.

The attached coupon will bring you full details of this guaranteed investment.

CHAPMAN INTERESTS TO GET CONTRACT IN SALE OF U. S. LINES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—(AP)—The shipping board today decided to negotiate a contract with the Chapman-Dollar-Dawson interests for the sale of the United States lines.

The contract as negotiated will be presented to the board for approval before final execution, the announcement by the board added, but Chairman O'Connor indicated this would be for approval only of its technical terms.

The action was announced in the following statement:

"The shipping board at its meeting today directed that the Merchant Fleet corporation proceed to negotiate a contract with the Chapman-Dollar-Dawson interests as provided for and in accordance with action of the board Aug. 21, 1931. The contract as negotiated will then, of course, be presented to the board for approval before final execution."

FLURRY IN CORN AS DELIVERIES FAIL TO APPEAR

Wheat Futures Close at Higher Prices.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Failure of liberal deliveries of cash grain to be made on September contracts and a letup in liquidation in the nearby futures resulted in a somewhat higher level of prices on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, but the markets were quiet the greater part of the day.

Corn traders who had been estimating deliveries at anywhere from 750,000 to 3,000,000 bu were greatly surprised when no grain was sent around during the day, and there was an opening bulge in the September future which lifted it 1⅞c over Monday's finish to a high of 44¾c. The activity was short lived, however, and the market settled back to around 43½c, where it remained the greater part of the time until the close, with the finish at 43⅝c to 43½c, showing a net gain of 1c.

New crop months were helped to some extent by the firmness in the nearby month and by heavy rains over the belt which may delay maturity of the grain, and finished unchanged to ¼c higher, with December, 33¼@33⅝c, and May, 44c.

East After Cash Corn.

There was some buying of the September on reports of a marked improvement in the shipping demand, with shipping sales of nearly 200,000 bu, the largest business in some time, and boats were chartered to take out 350,000 bu to the east. Country offerings were fairly liberal, with purchases of 70,000 bu to arrive. A corn crop of 2,769,000,000 bu, or 6,000,000 bu less than the government August figures, was indicated by the E. H. Miller-J. E. Bennett & Co. report, but was about in line with trade expectations and had little effect on the market.

September wheat gained about ½c on the December yesterday as the result of scattered buying of the nearby month, which found offerings smaller than of late, although pit brokers said the Farmers National was a persistent seller of the September against purchases of May at 3¾c difference. The lack of leadership on the bull side is now regarded by the trade as the main influence in preventing an advance in prices, although the character of the news coming from abroad remains favorable for holders.

European Reserves Low.

Wheat futures held within narrow limits and closed ⅛@⅜c higher, with September showing the most strength, finishing at 46⅛@46⅜c, while December was 49¾c, and May, 54⅝@54⅞c. Winnipeg, after being firmer early, eased toward the last on scattered selling, with some hedging, and closed ⅛@⅜c lower, the October being 53⅛c, while Liverpool was off ⅛@⅜d, free offers of Danubian and farm board wheat being a factor; October closed at equal to 54⅜c. The decline there was in the face of confirmation of damage to the Russian spring wheat crop.

So far twelve European countries have reported their wheat crops, and they show an aggregate yield of 1,380,000,000 bu, or only 3,000,000 bu in excess of last year. In the 1930-'31 season Europe imported 608,000,000 bu, or close to an average amount, but there was a material contraction in the reserves of old grain and the latter were practically exhausted at the end of the crop year. Unfavorable crop Europe during the day and also from Australia.

Movement Relatively Small.

Movement of wheat to terminal markets is relatively small in comparison with the size of the winter crop, and since July 1 the visible supply has increased only 48,000,000 bu, compared with 80,000,000 bu during the same period last year, although aggregate arrivals at primary markets show a decrease of 17,000,000 bu as compared with 1930. The American spring wheat crop is estimated by Miller at 118,000,000 bu, or the same as the government August figures, and compared with 251,000,000 bu harvested last year. The report of the Searle Grain company of Winnipeg, which gave the indicated yield in the three Canadian provinces when applied to the Northwestern Grain dealers' estimated acreage, suggested a prospective crop of 235,000,000 bu, compared with 374,000,000 bu harvested last year.

Oats gained ⅛@⅝c, with September finishing at 21⅝c; December, 23c, and May, 25⅝c. Commission houses were fair buyers. Rye gained ⅜@1¼c, with September closing at 34¼c; December, 37c, and May, 41c. Elevator interests bought September and sold December at 3c difference.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet and 1-32 of a cent lower today. The only business reported was a sale concluded late yesterday, of 23,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment to a local refiner at 3.38c delivered.

Futures trading was compromised principally of exchanging between the different months, and price changes were narrow and unimportant. Sales were 25,500 tons. Prices follow:

AFTER 2 YEARS FARM BOARD IS OUT 200 MILLION

Also Has $411,000,000 in Loans Outstanding.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1.—[Special.]—Shortly after the creation of the federal farm board, Alexander Legge of Chicago answered the complaints of a congressional committee by retorting:

"You people spent the most of eight years getting around to pass this bill. For heaven's sake, give us a chance."

Since then the board has had two years' chance. And today, so far as the financial end of it is concerned, this is the lineup.

From the time of its organization to the present, the farm board has made commitments from its revolving fund totaling $792,000,000 and has advanced $762,000,000 of this amount. It has received $351,000,000 in repayments, leaving loans outstanding of $411,000,000.

Holds Wheat and Cotton.

Through the Cotton Stabilization corporation the board holds 1,300,000 bales of cotton, which represent a board investment of approximately $35,000,000. And through the Grain Stabilization corporation the board holds more than 200,000,000 bushels of wheat out of which it must realize some $225,000,000 if it is to break even on its wheat transactions.

At present prices the board's cotton is worth $45,000,000, or a loss of $59,000,000 on the price of $104,000,000 which was paid for it, and not including storage charges of $4 a bale a year. At present prices the board's wheat is worth perhaps $110,000,000 and represents a loss of at least an equal amount. On the total of about 70,000,000 bushels which the board has so far sold out of its stabilization stocks the loss will probably aggregate $30,000,000.

Thus, on the basis of present price levels, the actual and potential losses of the board on its stabilization operations total in the neighborhood of $200,000,000.

The figures are only approximate, for the board is very cagy in talking about its financial affairs. It knows that the hottest fighting is still ahead of it, and its explanation for not making its loans public is that this would be giving ammunition to the enemy.

The board promises that it will have a full report for congress in December, but if it is no more complete than the ones submitted to the last congress, it will not shed much light on the board's affairs. It will show, it is true, how much of the outstanding loans are to stabilization corporations and how much to coöperatives. It will list the amounts advanced in favor of the various commodities. But it will not show what sums have gone to what coöperatives and whether or not these coöperatives have profited by the loan.

Protect Coöperatives' Affairs.

The coöperatives put up the same argument. Though beneficiaries of public funds, they demand—and receive from the board—the same protection of secrecy enjoyed by an organization running under its own power.

Dismaying as the losses of the board may be, there is another side of the picture and it is but fair that it should be included in any judgment passed upon the wisdom of the stabilization operations.

By holding the price of wheat above the world level in the winter of 1929-'30 and from November, 1930, to June, 1931, the board undoubtedly enabled sellers of wheat during that period to receive between $125,000,000 and $150,000,000 more than they would have had had the price not been maintained.

And by stabilizing wheat and cotton the board cushioned the price decline and enabled both the producers and the banks to get out from under. The board believes that had it not been for stabilization, 50c wheat and 7c cotton would have hit the country last winter instead of this summer. Had that happened, the board maintains, an agricultural crash would have been tumbled in on top of the collapse of the stock market and industry, banks would have smashed all over the country.

Took Lesser of Evils.

To quote the pungent language of the board's chairman, James C. Stone, "of course we get it in the neck for having stabilized wheat and cotton. But what we've got for having done it is nothing to what would have been thrown at us if in the face of what we believed was impending disaster, and with our powers and duties expressly outlined in the marketing act, we'd done nothing."

But costly as it is bound to be, one supremely valuable lesson has been brought through stabilization. It has been impressed on the country that though artificial price maintenance may be, as the board claims, a valid emergency measure, as a long time method of agricultural relief its inevitable result is to encourage over production and bring new and greater losses in its train.

WALL ST. TRADE DRIFTS AWAY TO MERE WHISPER

and strong, among them being Atchison, New York Central, Pennsylvania, and Union Pacific up from 1 to more than 3 points. That the carrier group did not give way in face of the Florida East Coast receivership affair was attributed mainly to the thoroughly liquidated condition of the rail shares which makes them more or less impervious to such "bad news."

Some covering was reported in order during the day in Case Threshing Machine, but the shorts did not seem to encounter much difficulty in securing their needs. Closing out of short contracts undoubtedly was occasioned by the proximity of the meeting of the company's directors for action on the dividend. The board will act on the next quarterly payment on Thursday and thus far no intimation of the probable outcome has been had, though it is understood that there is a division of opinion among directors. Payments have been made at the rate of $6 annually since the early part of 1927, but Wall street is of the opinion that a downward revision, probably to a $4 basis, will be voted Thursday.

Leaders in Small Gains.

Leaders of the list, such as United States Steel, American Can, General Motors, General Electric, and others, finished the day showing fractional gains, most of them on puny turnovers. In the mercantile division, Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward made up fractional parts of their late losses. Oil stocks didn't like the outlook so well and drifted to less conspicuous levels.

Wall street does not look for the market to remain indefinitely in its current narrow trading range. Precedent has shown that when interest ebbs to levels such as now prevail something usually develops to lift the market out of its lethargy. The market, it is recalled, was a rather drab affair just around the middle of June, with speculation at a minimum, when the Hoover proposal for a moratorium on international debts made its unexpected appearance. The spectacular rise which followed in the ensuing week or ten days is recent enough to be still rather vividly remembered.

COTTON ESTIMATES DROP

Condition on cotton on Aug. 25, as given by Norden & Co. of New York, is 67.6, a decrease of 3 points since July 24, and a decrease of 11.3 points as compared with a 10 year average. Reports from Dallas, Tex., were of deterioration at various points throughout Texas in the past week and some complaint of high winds in the northwest.

The cotton market early was active, with a break of around 20 points and a later recovery of 7648 points. The selling was on improved weather and with Liverpool cables, the market there being off 11 points, with sales of 5,000 bales.

At the close futures in Chicago were 1 point net higher to 1 point net lower, New Orleans was unchanged to 2 points lower and New York 2 points lower to 6 points higher. Spots in New York were off 5 points to 6.95c; New Orleans, unchanged at 6.65c; Galveston, 6.80c, and Houston, 6.70c. Prices follow:

LARD STOCKS DECREASE

Lard stocks in Chicago, as officially reported, are 47,346,975 lbs., a decrease for the month of August of 16,718,721 lbs., but show an increased of 1,140,581 lbs over the same time last year. Total meat stocks are 102,532,979 lbs. compared with 122,855,557 lbs a month ago and 91,185,220 lbs last year. Stocks of bellies decreased slightly and were more than double last year's.

Trading in lard futures yesterday was fair and confined to September and December deliveries, which gained 12¾c, while there was no business in other deliveries, with prices nominally 2½@7½c higher. Liverpool lard was 6d@1s 6d lower. Exports were 496,440 lbs of lard and 36,000 lbs of bacon. Hogs were lower, yet receipts were smaller than a week and a year ago. Cash trade in lard was fair and in meats slow. September deliveries were light. Prices follow:

FRIGIDAIRE CO. CUTS PRICES OF ALL MODELS

Six hundred salesmen for the Frigidaire company, attending the fall conference yesterday at the Knickerbocker hotel, received the announcement of a reduction in price for all models. To date each month of 1931 has shown an increase in the volume of business done by the concern over the corresponding month in 1930.

H. A. Malcom, sales manager for the Stover company, local distributors for the refrigerators, called attention to the fact that no change will be made in the present models until some time in the spring. Lower prices of raw materials have made possible the price reductions, various officials of the company explained to the conference. A distinctly optimistic atmosphere permeated the gathering, emphasis being placed on the slogan, "There is no depression in the refrigerating business," blazoned on a huge banner in the conference room.

BUTTER FUTURES FIRM

Slightly lower prices prevailed at the opening on butter and eggs on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, responding to somewhat heavier receipts in both local and eastern markets. Prices moved up later on favorable storage news and closed unchanged to ¼c up. Eggs, after opening ¼c lower recovered, but selling appeared at the close and eggs finished ¼c off. Trading in potato futures for January delivery opened with fairly active trading. October potatoes were unsettled closing 3c off to 3c higher. Storage movement in the four markets showed butter 157,406 lbs more out; eggs, 6,153 cases less out than a year ago. Sales: Butter, 726,000 lbs; eggs, 588,000 doz.; potatoes, 2,404,000 lbs. BUSINESS PERSONALS

Three applicants have been elected to membership on the Board of Trade. They are Harold W. Davis, New York City, partner in Potter & Co.; James C. Wilding, Birkenhead, Cheshire, England, director of the Liverpool firm, of James M. Waite & Co., Ltd., and Ralph E. Hasenwinkle, president of Hasenwinkle, Scholer Co., Bloomington, Ill.

Robert P. Boylan and Fred S. Lewis of the Chicago Board of Trade, leave today with Patrick H. Joyce, chairman of the board of directors and acting president of the Chicago Great Western railroad, to inspect the crops and business conditions in the northwest.

C. F. Childs & Co. announce that A. G. Pickard, formerly with Foreman-State corporation and with William R. Compton company, is now a member of their staff. Mr. Pickard will be in charge of the municipal bond department.

NOTE TENDENCY TO MARKET LIGHT WEIGHT SWINE

Despite cheap feeds hog growers are regarded as reluctant to carry their stock until it is of heavy weight and, according to views expressed by stockyards interests, this is likely to place 250@300 lb kinds at a premium. There has been evidence of a narrowing of the spread between the light and the heavy kinds during the last few weeks.

In the central west the disposition is reported to be to carry hogs until they reach around 200 lbs and then ship them. One factor in causing the weakness in light weights of late has been the heavier movement of the new crop in the east to butchers, which has curtailed the demand in the west to some extent.

MORE CONTRACTS.

Additional contracts representing investments of more than $300,000 have been placed with the Austin company, engineers and builders of Cleveland.

Top yesterday, $7.75; average, $6.00.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 16,000; sheep, 13,000.

The market for light weight hogs hit another snag yesterday when too many weighing under 200 lbs came on the market. Medium and weighty butchers were stronger and 210@250 lb averages sold at the highest prices of the day. A week ago hogs weighing 200 lbs and lighter were at the top. Losses of 10@25c were recorded in light weights.

The extreme top moved down 5c at $6.75, but the gain in extreme weights and packing sows held the general average in line with the previous session at $5.80. The range of prices is narrower than on any corresponding day since 1924. The top and average prices were only 95c apart yesterday against a spread of $1.35 a year ago and $1.40 two years ago. In 1926 the spread was $2.90.

Choice grades of hogs weighing 150 lbs and down were available at $6 and below, while prime 295 lb butchers were sold at $6.55. A month ago 250 lb averages were outselling 200 lb butchers by $2. Since then the market for heavy butchers has advanced 25@35c, while underweights have tumbled more than $2 in value.

December Bids at $5.25.

There were buyers willing to pay $5.25 for 210@260 lb hogs delivered during the first half of next December, but the lowest offer was $5.50. The same weights for the first half of the present month carried bids of $6.50. Hogs averaging 240@310 lbs were offered for the last half of this month at $6.75 and were bid $6.60. Light weights for the last half of September were offered at $7.50. On the "to arrive" market, sellers offered to deliver 260@310 lb butchers here today at $6.50.

Offerings of cattle were reduced yesterday and the market held to a slow steady basis, showing weakness and losses only in spots toward the finish. Prospects of another decrease in offerings today encouraged some to hold choice grades off when bids indicated another attempt being made by buyers to slash quotations. Five markets expect 24,000 today, against 21,200 last Wednesday. Sellers hope to replace at least part of the 15@25c loss in best grades before the end of this week.

Yesterday's top at $10.15, paid for 1,141 lb long yearlings from De Kalb county, Ill., equaled Monday's peak, but was 25c lower than a week ago. A shipment of 1,471 lb Nebraska steers sold at $10 to Wilson. A load of 790 lb yearling heifers of exceptional quality sold to Swift at $9.65. Local packers are entering more competitive bids for top classes, an encouraging sign following a break. Chicago during August handled 21 per cent more cattle than during the same month in 1930. The average price of beef steers for the month at $8.50 compares with $7.80 in July, but it equals the lowest August average since 1912.

Lambs Decline Again.

The lamb market took another jolt yesterday when 20,000 were unloaded on the market. Losses of 25c were general with sorting about as hard as any time of the season. A scattering selected by city butchers reached $7.75, but bulk of natives were sorted by packers at $7.00@7.50 and culls sold at $4.50 and below, the latter being more numerous than on recent sessions.

Thousands of range lambs went for slaughter at $7.00@7.50 and some large bands of plain kinds brought $6.00. The market for aged sheep was slow at $3.00@3.25 for best light and $1.00 for most of the heavy ewes. Yearlings slumped mostly 25c. Country demand for feeding lambs continued broad, despite the advance in prices. Best light weights are selling at $6.50@6.80, the highest prices in more than a month's time. Good two to four year old breeding ewes are available at $3.00@6.00 and some solid mouths, a little thin fleshed, have been sold at $3.50 for breeding.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Demand for butter was fairly active with prices ½@¾c higher. Receipts, 9,979 tubs. Fresh eggs declined 1c. Receipts, 9,917 cases. Potatoes dull and prices little changed. Receipts, 23 cars with 225 cars on team track. Live heavy hens advanced 2c and light hens 1c. Receipts, 4 cars and 29 trucks.

CORN ESTIMATES CUT

A corn crop of 2,769,000,000 bu is estimated by the E. H. Miller-J. E. Bennett September crop report, compared with 2,906,000,000 bu in August and the government report Aug. 1 or 2,775,000,000 bu. A condition of 71.9 compares with 77.5 on July 25 and the government's estimate of 76.3 on Aug. 1.

The spring wheat crop, estimated at 118,367,000 bu, including durum and bread wheat, is practically the same as the government's last month and compared with 251,000,000 bu as the final for 1930. Estimated total crop is 1,129,000,000 bu, compared with 1,204,000,0 bu last month and the government's of 1,170,000,000 bu, with 1,350,000,000 bu as the final last year.
